FATAL PLUNGE — A once sporty Mustang, that carried a young woman to her death today, lies demolished in the back yard of a Marin City home. The car, in which Arletta Pelet died, plunged down a Highway 101 embankment and sheared off part of the roof and wall of this home before coming to rest upside down. Egypt, Russ Accused Of Pact Break

U.S. Demands Halt In Movement Of Missiles

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States publicly accused Egypt and Russia today of violations of the standstill arrangement under the Middle East cease-fire agreement and demanded that they be stopped.

In a formal statement containing for the first time public charges of violations, the State Department said, "We are continuing to watch the balance closely, and as we have said previously have no intention of permitting Israel's security to be adversely affected."

The American statement urged at the same time that Israel-Arab peace talks be resumed at once at the United Nations.

The State Department's press officer, Robert J. McCloskey said shipments of U.S. military aid were continuing to Israel. He declined to say whether the rate and amount had been increased because of the Egyptian-Russian violations in the standstill area near the Suez Canal.

McCloskey declined to say how many violations of the standstill the United States had detected.

State department officials said there had been no shooting violations. Officials divided the Russian-supported Egyptian violations into three categories:

—Construction within a 32-mile prohibited zone on the western side of the Suez that has increased the number of Egyptian anti-aircraft missile sites since the ceasefire went into effect Aug. 7.

—A a number of anti-aircraft missile sites that were previously unoccupied but which officials said were now being occupied.

—Evidence of movement of equipment within the zone closer toward the ceasefire line, which is the Suez Canal.

McCloskey said the United States had protested the violations through diplomatic channels to both Russia and Egypt.

Asked whether Washington was demanding that the missiles be pulled back or simply that there be no further violations, he replied: "We want the violations stopped."

The U.S. protest was delivered to the Egyptian foreign ministry today by Donald C. Bergus, the chief U.S. representative in Cairo. It was

Man's Body Found With Stab Wounds

The body of a young man who had been stabbed 12 times was found yesterday down an embankment on Seminary Drive on Strawberry Point. (See photos, page 7.)

Nearby lay a demolished cheap cardboard suitcase containing three women's slips.

Lt. Guido Battaglia of the sheriff's department said that the man, a Caucasian who appeared to be between 20 and 25 years old, had been killed elsewhere and dumped off the road sometime after 1 a.m.

The body was found by a Strawberry resident who noticed the suitcase on the road and got out to investigate. He called sheriff's officers about 1 p.m.

The victim had not been identified today. Lt. Battaglia said that his fingerprints were not on record with the Criminal Identification and Investigation Bureau in Sacramento but a check is being run with the FBI.

There was no identification on the body.

Asst. Coroner Eugene R. Fontaine said the stab wounds, which included five on the head and one in the heart, appeared to have been made by a slender instrument such as a shish kebob skewer or a screw driver.

He estimated that the man was killed sometime between 1 and 7 a.m. yesterday.

Fontaine said that the man, who had sun-bleached blond short hair, a little goatee and hazel eyes, was 5 feet 4 inches tall and weighed about 150 pounds.

He said he was dressed in a black tee shirt, gray slacks with black stripes, a tan corduroy jacket and buckled shoes.

There was no wallet or money on the body.

Lt. Battaglia had no theories about the suitcase which contained used women's underwear and two broken pairs of glasses except that it appeared to have been run over by a car.

California Highway Patrol officers were called to the scene to investigate tire tracks, although Battaglia said it was not known whether they were old or new marks.

He said that the lack of blood at the Strawberry scene indicated the man had been killed elsewhere.

The body was found on the north side of Strawberry Point near the Golden Gate Baptist Seminary.

U.S., Japan Form Pollution Pact

TOKYO (UPI) — The United States and Japan, two of the most polluted nations in the world, announced Friday a joint agreement to combat pollution of the environment.

The agreement stipulates that experts of both countries will exchange information and technology in pollution control.

The announcement of the agreement also said that Russell Train, chairman of President Nixon's Council on Environmental Quality, will visit Japan this fall for talks with Japan Prime Minister Eisaku Sato.

Dredging Ban Is Asked For Russian River

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Dredging at the mouth of the Russian River at Jenner should be banned at least temporarily, the state Water Resources Control Board was told today.

The recommendation was contained in a report prepared by the board's staff which conducted a study of the dredging proposal by Northern California Aggregates, Inc.

The staff said the board should order the North Coast Regional Water Resources Control Board to prohibit "all waste discharges in the proposed operation until completion of studies" which proved the project could be carried out without severely damaging the ecology.

The report also said there was not enough evidence to insure that the project would meet state water quality standards.

Conservationists opposing the dredging charged that it would allow salt water to intrude in the wells in the coastal area, would cause "aesthetic debasement," would inflict "irreparable damage" to the surrounding ecology, and would create "a sulfurous basin" at the mouth of the river.

The Jenner Coastline Conservation Coalition, in a June 19 letter, asked the board to ban discharging waste materials into the river in the area three miles upstream.

Northern California Aggregates obtained the Utah Construction Company's lease from the state Lands Commission.

The firm said it wanted to mine sand and gravel with a suction dredge and stockpile the dredged materials behind diked areas.

The river mouth, according to company officials, would have been kept open permanently so that gravel could be transported by barge to the San Francisco Bay Area. They added that maximum dredging was expected to be 90 feet deep at the river mouth.

The staff report said a North Coast Board survey showed that existing requirements on dredging would not assure protection of the "aquatic environment."

The North Coast study also said the operation would alter physical features of the estuary and it could not be determined what long-range effects the dredging would have on fish.

Mill Valley Woman Killed As Car Forced Off Road

A young Mill Valley woman was killed and her husband hurt today when their auto, southbound on Highway 101, was apparently forced off the road by another car and crashed down a steep embankment into the roof of a Marin City home.

Arletta Pelet, of 160 Cascade Drive, was dead on arrival at Marin General Hospital. Pierre Pelet, 33, was treated for multiple scrapes and released.

California Highway Patrol officers, who found Pelet wandering around in a dazed state near the overturned vehicle said he told them his car had been forced off the freeway by a white Cadillac. Patrolmen could give no further details of the cause of the accident.

The wine red Mustang left the road about one-half mile north of the Rodeo Avenue offramp in an area where the highway has no guard rails. The car plunged down a 70-to-80-foot embankment, struck the roof of the Diana Harrison home, 225 Drake Avenue, then came to rest on its top in the Harrison backyard.

Mrs. Harrison said she was starting to clean house when the crash occurred about 8:15 a.m. and had just walked out of the living room into the rear of the house. "It sounded just like a bomb exploding," she said.

The living room window was shattered in the impact, which also sheared off an exterior portion of the roof.

Mrs. Pelet's body was trapped in the vehicle for several minutes, but was finally removed with the aid of the Marin County Fire Department which also washed away gasoline which had spread in a pool over the concrete yard.

Mrs. Pelet was the 25th traffic fatality in Marin this year as compared to 20 auto deaths for the same period last year.

Hanoi Slaps Down Bruce's Peace Pitch

PARIS (UPI)—U.S. Ambassador David K.E. Bruce said today the United States was ready to negotiate a peace accord that would safeguard the right of all parties in Vietnam. Then the Communists repeated all of their hardline demands.

Today's session had started on the first hopeful note in many months with Bruce's statement and a pledge by the North Vietnamese negotiator to "listen carefully" to Bruce's remarks. The hopeful note was short lived.

Hanoi negotiator Xuan Thuy, in his first meeting with Bruce, promised to listen but then said that "after nearly 20 months with more than 80 sessions, it is now clear that the United States is not showing a serious attitude and goodwill."

Nguyen Van Tien, the Viet Cong's No. 2 negotiator, followed him and served notice the Communist side has not backed down from its demand for an early, total and unconditional U.S. military pullout from South Vietnam and the dumping of President Nguyen Van Thieu's Saigon government.

After five hours of wrangling the conference broke up with only an agreement to meet again next Thursday. The Viet Cong and South Vietnamese said the conference remained deadlocked.

Bruce and Thuy did not shake hands today when they met. They merely bowed across the

No Hint Of Slowdown By Safety Employees

The county's 210 safety employees — deputies, firemen aids and communications workers — entered their third day of work without a contract, but with no hint of a strike or slowdown.

"The last thing we want to do is disrupt essential services," declared Newl G. Weaver, president of the Marin County Employees Association and acting general manager.

Will there be a sudden walkoff or slowdown, particularly with the long labor day weekend coming up?

"I feel sure there won't," replied Weaver. "There's been a feeling throughout that they don't advocate disruption. But of course, there is always a possibility. But I don't think so."

Weaver said the employees' next move will depend on the outcome of today's consultation with San Francisco Attorney Jake W. Ehrlich. Sgt. Wade R. Powell and Alfred Curry, members of the employees' negotiating team, went to see Ehrlich this morning "to get legal opinions," said Weaver. "Mr. Ehrlich has not yet been hired. The question of whether to bring in an attorney or whether there is any reason for an attorney still remains."

Weaver said the safety employees are always open to negotiation. "But at this point, it's a standoff. They (county negotiators) won't go up anymore and we can't come down."

The county's last proposal for a 7.5 per cent raise was rejected by the employees, who are holding out for 10 to 12.5 per cent raises.

The 1969 contract for safety employees expired Monday midnight. By action of the Marin County Board of Supervisors, all safety employees began drawing 5 per cent more pay effective Sept. 1.

About 30 wives and children of the safety employees continued marching in front of the Civic Center entrance this morning for the third consecutive day. They carried placards asking for better pay.

CRISIS GROWING

Israeli Cabinet In Secret Talks

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Israeli cabinet met throughout the day today in utmost secrecy in Tel Aviv to study the growing Egyptian missile crisis, and the well-informed newspaper Maariv said Defense Minister Moshe Dayan wanted to scuttle the "ineffective and unworkable" cease-fire.

Alternatively, Maariv said, Dayan demanded that the Defense Ministry in consultation with Prime Minister Golda Meir have a free hand to counter a reported Egyptian missile buildup as it saw fit. There were hints Wednesday Israel might take action against the missiles.

From the cabinet meeting Dayan went to give an off the record briefing to Israeli newspaper editors and was appearing on Israeli television tonight when an aide said, "Many of the unanswered questions may be answered then."

Despite reports Dayan was ready to resign, an aide said he emerged from the crucial session still minister of defense "and let's hope he will continue to be so."

UPI correcpondent Peter D. Lynch in Tel Aviv said tentative U.S. confirmation of Israeli charges that Egypt had continually violated the cease-fire since it went into effect Aug. 7 had not allayed Israeli fears.

"It's all right for Americans, but these violations will have to be paid in Israeli lives," one official said.

As the cabinet met today Israel lodged its ninth official complaint of Egyptian cease-fire violations by bringing Russian-built missiles closer to the Suez Canal.

The cabinet met in its dual capacity as the Ministerial Committee on Security Affairs, which automatically placed its deliberations under the official secrets act—an indication of the gravity with which the government views the situation.

There were reports Israel had given the United States two weeks to seek the removal of any.

any Egyptian missiles and that it had decided not to participate in the New York talks for 10 more days. But a spokesman said this was "just sheer speculation."

"We might know something definite later this afternoon,"

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Suharto Arrives

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (UPI) — President Suharto of Indonesia arrived in The Netherlands today for a shortened state visit that twice was postponed by protests of political opponents in Holland.

Suharto was met at the airfield by Queen Juliana and Prince Bernhard. The queen broke protocol to shake his hand as he stepped from the plane, followed by his wife. She usually receives foreign visitors at one of her palaces.

Suharto's visit was postponed twice and cut to 24 hours after a group of young Ambonese Indonesians shot their way into the Indonesian ambassador's residence and held the ambassador's family hostage for 10 hours.

Space Cutbacks

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — Two out of every five moonport jobs have been eliminated by space cutbacks during the past two years, but the Kennedy Space Center work force now is leveling off.

Dr. Kurt H. Debus, the center director, announced Wednesday the current employment level here, ranging from 15,000 and 15,500, will remain constant until 1973. During the peak of the buildup for project Apollo, 26,600 people worked at the center.

From 1973 on, the future of manned launchings at the Cape — and the future of its manpower — remains in doubt. The newly trimmed moon flight program eliminated two Apollo missions that were to keep the center's billion dollar launch complex active into 1974.

Extortion Charge

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — An unemployed car salesman has been arrested on federal charges of threatening to blow up a Trans World Airlines jet in a $20,000 extortion plot.

Arrested at Hollywood High School Wednesday as he opened a TWA flight bag supposedly filled with the ransom money was Lowell Francis McDonald, 41, described as a resident of Hollywood from Pennsylvania.

The FBI said the extortionist telephoned TWA offices three times earlier in the day giving elaborate instructions for depositing the money at the school.

34 Flood Deaths

MANILA (UPI) — The worst flood waters to hit the Philippine capital gradually receded today, leaving 34 dead, thousands homeless and the danger a fire could spread.

With 22 inches of rain reported, an area the size of Florida was affected. Manila itself was hardest hit with four or five feet of water in many areas of the city. President Ferdinand E. Marcos declared a "state of calamity and emergency" and mobilized a major relief program.

A fire broke out today in a seven-story building across the street from the U.S. embassy in the city's "tourist belt" and firemen who brought their trucks through four-foot deep water to fight the blaze warned it could spread to neighboring buildings.

Chile To Vote

SANTIAGO (UPI) — A torchlight procession by thousands of chanting Christian Democrats ended presidential campaigning Wednesday night.

Chile's 3.5 million voters decide Friday whether this constitutional democracy, with a record of orderly successions dating from 1932, will become the first nation to freely elect a Marxist president.

The candidates are:

Dr. Salvador Allende, 62, a Communist-backed Socialist.

Attempted Bombing

ATHENS (UPI) — A Cypriot man and an Italian woman were killed Wednesday when a bomb they apparently were preparing to set off in or near the U.S. embassy exploded prematurely, Athens police said today.

There were no injuries to embassy personnel.

Police identified the couple as George Tsekouris, 25, a Cypriot studying in Italy, and Maria Angeloni, 31, an Italian secretary. They were suspected in an earlier bombing of the Athens-Pireaus subway Aug. 21, police said.

Powell Suit Filed

NEW YORK (UPI) — The state senator who beat Adam Clayton Powell in June's Democratic primary has filed suit to prevent the veteran congressman's name from appearing on the November ballot as an Independent party candidate.

Charles B. Rangel charged in a New York Supreme Court suit Wednesday the petitions Powell gave the board of elections did not carry enough valid signatures.

Nuclear Sea Ban

GENEVA (UPI) — The 25-nation disarmament conference wound up its 1970 session today with general agreement on a joint United States-Soviet treaty to ban nuclear weapons from the world's seabeds.

The treaty, first proposed a year ago and modified three times to meet the demands of nonaligned countries, will now go to the United Nations General Assembly.

U.S. and Soviet spokesmen said they hope the General Assembly will approve the treaty by acclamation so that it can be opened for signature by all nations by the end of the year.

Koenig Dies

PARIS (UPI) — Gen. of the Army Pierre Koenig, one of the leaders of the Free French army during World War II, died Wednesday night, American Hospital officials said today. He was 71.

Koenig served as defense minister under two Fourth Republic governments.

Koenig, born Oct. 10, 1898, in Caen, Normandy, began his military career in 1918. Former President Charles de Gaulle made him a general of the Free French forces during World War II in 1941.

During the Nazi occupation of France, Koenig served as the head of land troops in the Africa campaign and was a hero of the Bir Hakeim stand against the Germans.

Computer Helps Find Bullet Path

The first bullet fired in the case pierced a gasoline station sign and went astray.

To find it, the M. B. Associates firm of San Ramon fired test bullets into an identical sign and fed ballistics information into a computer, the department said Wednesday.

The computer suggested looking in a driveway a block southeast of the killing site and that's where detectives found the slug which was sent away for analysis.

Patrolman Ronald Tsukamoto, 28, was slain by a second bullet fired by a bystanding Negro who has not been caught. The shooting took place Aug. 20 as the patrolman was talking to a motorcycle driver about an illegal U-turn.

Redwoods League Acquires Plot

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Save the Redwoods League announced Wednesday that a 270-acre plot had been acquired as an addition to the Montgomery Woods State Reserve.

The parcel near Ukiah contains first-growth redwood trees and is bisected by the Orr Springs Road between Ukiah and Camptche.

To purchase the plot, the league put up $57,000 which was matched by state bond funds.

Proposition 15 Facing Court Test

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Secretary of State H. P. Sullivan was under court order today to remove the opposition argument to Proposition 15 from the November ballot's voters pamphlet or permit a rebuttal statement to the argument.

Superior Court Judge William A. White's order, issued Wednesday, said Sullivan could take either action or appear at a hearing Sept. 15 to explain why he didn't.

SUIT FILED

The order was issued on a suit filed Monday by Bruce W. Sumner, chairman of the Constitution Revision Committee. Sumner contended the opposition argument was improperly submitted by Assemblyman Victor V. Veysey, R-Brawley, and was "untrue."

Sumner asked that the argument opposing the proposition which streamlines Article XX of the state constitution be removed or he be permitted to write a rebutal statement to appear in the voters pamphlet. The constitutional revision measure was drafted by his committee.

NOTES VOTE

Sumner said Veysey did not obtain permission from the presiding officer of the Assembly to write the opposition argument. He also noted Veysey twice voted for the legislation which put the measure on the ballot.

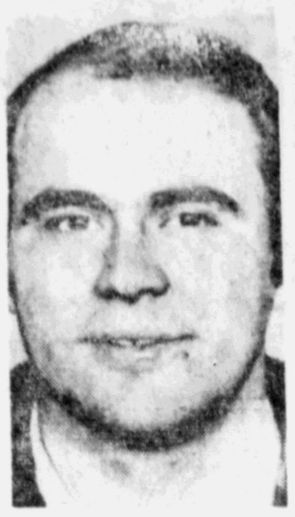

Veysey said he did not realize until later that the proposition would remove from the Constitution veterans' guarantees, including the right of reinstatement for persons who left state jobs to serve in the military.

Sumner said Veysey used a false statement that veterans' guarantees in state law would be lost if the measure was approved.

"This simply is not true," he said. "Existing section 3.5 (of Article XX) says only that '. . . the Legislature may provide for the reinstatement . . . etc.' and this language guarantees nothing."

Military Club

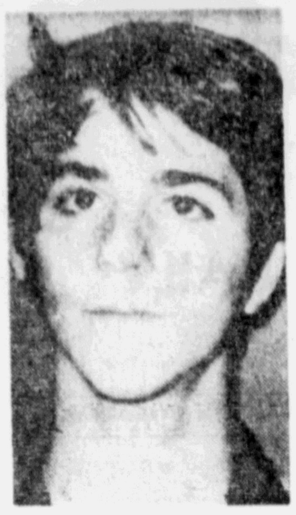

The Marin Military Affairs Committee will hold its first general membership meeting Oct. 8 at the Hamilton Air Force Base Officers' Club. The evening's activities will include the installation of officers.

FBI Seeks Four In Wisconsin Blast

MADISON, Wis. (UPI)—Four young men who slipped into the underground after being stopped by police investigating the Aug. 24 explosion at the University of Wisconsin were being sought today on federal charges.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover announced Wednesday that charges of sabotage, conspiracy and destruction of government property had been filed against the four.

They were identified as Karleton Lewis Armstrong, 22, Madison, a former student at the University of Wisconsin; his 19-year-old brother, Dwight Allen Armstrong, a high school dropout; David Sylva Fine, 18, of Madison and Wilmington, Del., who recently worked for the UW student newspaper, The Cardinal, and a former staff member of a Students for a Democratic Society Publication at the University of Delaware, and Leo Frederick Burt, 22, Madison, a summer session student who also wrote for the Cardinal.

"We don't have any idea where they are," U.S. Attorney John Olson said. "We will have a hard, long pull now that we've gotten this far."

The FBI said, however, there were indications the fugitives might be in New York where the Armstrongs had asked relatives to telegraph them money. Agents also intercepted a letter saying Fine and Burt were in New York en route to Canada.

The explosion in the early morning hours of Aug. 24 killed Robert Fassnacht, 33, a research physicist who was the father of three, and injured four other persons. The blast, set in a stolen van truck, tore through part of the Army Mathematics Research center on the campus and caused $6 million damage.

According to an affidavit filed in U.S. District Court, a car containing the four young men was stopped by a Sauk County police officer north of Madison shortly after the bombing. They told the officer they were university students going to an outing at Devil's Lake, Wis., the affidavit said. Later, it said, the car was traced to the Armstrongs' father, Donald.

Investigators said the explosion may have been set with a mixture of fuel oil and nitrogen fertilizer. The FBI charged that Karleton Armstrong bought large quantities of both before Aug. 24.

The affidavit quoted a friend of the Armstrongs, Maxim Sliter, as saying that shortly before the bombing the Armstrongs told him they were responsible for the abortive aerial bombing of the Badger Ordnance works near Baraboo, Wis., last New Year's Day.

"Karland Dwight Armstrong advised Sliter that they were going to perpetrate further bombings in the near future, that these bombings would be done late in the evening so that no one would be hurt," the document said. "The boys advised him that they had a great amount of explosives in their possession, namely nitrate and primacord."

A Madison service station operator, the affidavit said, identifield Karleton Armstrong as the person who bought 100 gallons of fuel on Aug. 16. The plant manager of the Farmers Union Cooperative said Armstrong used a fictitious name when he bought 1,700 pounds of nitrogen fertilizer Aug. 19.

The FBI said the Armstrongs contracted relatives in Madison and asked that money be wired to them in New York. Agents found at a Madison home a letter from Fine, postmarked in New York, saying, "We (Dave and Leo) are in N.Y. with good contacts ready to head for Canada.

The affidavit said the note directed an Eliot Silberberg to tell The Kaleidoscope, an underground newspaper, to pass word to "all the media." A few days after the bombing, The Kaleidoscope printed a Note from "The New Year's Gang" (an apparent reference to the attempted bombing of the Badger Ordnance Works), accepting responsibility for the research center bombing.

Plan On Transit Fund Is Supported

I-J Special Report

SAN JOSE — Diversion of highway funds for transit, proposed in a constitutional amendment on the November ballot, was endorsed unanimously yesterday by Bay Area Air Pollution Control District directors.

The amendment, Proposition 18, would allow counties to use up to one-quarter of their share of highway funds for any other transportation facilities. The diversion could be done only by a favorable majority vote of the people balloting in the county.

The highway lobby already has mounted a major campaign against the proposition, which would cut away the present constitutional requirement that highway funds, mostly from gas taxes, be used exclusively for highway purposes. Freeways serve more persons at less cost than transit, according to opponents of the measure.

Yesterday's strong endorsement came after Ruth Church Gupta, San Francisco attorney, urged the board of directors to support the amendment. She represented the Californians Against Smog, a group of environmental and health organizations formed to campaign for its passage.

Seven of the 12 directors attended the monthly board meeting in county offices. Marin Supervisor William A. Gnoss and Sausalito Councilman Wyman Hicks voted for the endorsement.

The amendment, authored in the Legislature by Sen. James R. Mills, D-San Diego, would allow use of highway funds for construction or acquisition of transit facilities, but not for their operation.

Such use of a county's share of the highway funds, however, would mean that its highway construction would be cut by an amount equal to the funds voted for transit. Mills argued that 87 per cent of the trips on the state highways start and end within the same county.

The one-quarter limit on diversion was suggested by Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post as the maximum amount that could be diverted in any county without adversely affecting the state highway construction program outside of that county.

Mills, according to material distributed by Mrs. Gupta, also noted that rural counties could use their highway funds to improve county roads which are not eligible for inclusion in the state highway system.

The Air Pollution Control Board Also:

REGULATIONS — Received report that the district's advisory council will meet on Sept. 16 for a final action on staff recommendations to toughen limits on polluting industries. The council's members have been hearing the recommendations for seven months against a background of strong objections by industry.

VIOLATIONS — Received report that violation notices had been issued by inspectors on Aug. 14 against Cala Foods Inc., Novato, and on Aug. 18 against Co-Op Shopping Center, Corte Madera, for improperly operating multi-chamber incinerators.

SMOG — Received report that in 19 of the 30 days through Aug. 20 oxidant values were above the state standard.

VARIANCES — Received report that the district's hearing board had denied renewal of a variance for mobile heater planers, machines that heat asphalt pavement for repaving — and produce clouds of oily, smelly smoke.

Association Eyes Brown's Hall Future

Directors of the Homestead Valley Community Association are considering the sale of the association's meeting place, Brown's Hall, because of deficits incurred in operating the facility.

Secretary Audrey Peterson said the board met Tuesday to discuss several proposals under which the group would sell or lease the hall.

Uses mentioned were a cinematography center, a classic film theater and an organic food snack bar, she said.

"The board is seeking the best way to use the hall — the best for the community, that is," Mrs. Peterson said. A major concern if the hall is sold or leased is some arrangement for rehearsal space for the Homestead Players.

The board appointed a committee, headed by vice president Orville Erringer, to study the offers and report at a special board meeting Sept. 15 at 8 p.m. at Brown's Hall.

Any decision must first be approved by the general membership of the association at a community meeting, Mrs. Peterson said.

The association operated the hall during 1969 at a $1,371 deficit, partly because an application to the state for property tax exemption was denied after it was contested by Marin County.

Bombings Tied To POW Status

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (UPI)—H. Ray Rainwater, new national commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, said Wednesday the VFW will ask the President to resume bombing North Vietnam if the Communists refuse to establish a prisoner of war exchange program

"A resolution passed at the VFW National convention last month called on the North Vietnamese to begin a prisoner exchange program within 30 days" of the receipt of a petition, he said.

"If they do not, we (the VFW) will officially ask the President of the United States to bomb Haiphong and the dikes which protect the North Vietnames rice fields."

Figures On Contaminated Air Sought

I-J Special Report

SAN JOSE — Bay Area citizens should be told how many particles of contaminated air they inhale, air pollution officials were told yesterday.

Peter B. Venuto, a business instructor at San Jose State College, said such information was needed so citizens can judge the threat of pollution to their health. He made his proposal at the monthly meeting of Bay Area Air Pollution Control District directors.

Venuto, founder of Citizens Against Air Pollution, long a gadfly of the district, yesterday praised its board of directors — which has four new members among its 12 directors. Venuto long fought unsuccessfully for full disclosure of district records, and the board finally granted partial access last spring.

"For the first time," Venuto said, "There is a great deal of hope — at least as much hope as there is smog."

The average person inhales about one-third of a cubic foot of air each minute, or some 15,000 quarts of air a day, he said. A measure of the number of contaminated particles in each cubic foot thus would be "a very vital statistic," he said.

District officials agreed to consider the feasibility of getting the information Venuto requested.

Toll Building Contract Given

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Two contracts for work on the administration building at the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge Toll Plaza have been awarded by the State General Services Department.

A $174,344 contract went to the Wilner Construction Co., Daly City, to provide a larger, improved cashiering facility, including installation of security equipment and construction of a new vault.

E. H. Morrill Co., Berkeley, got $167,108 to install a forced air heating, cooling and filtering distribution system.

Report Released On Pollution Tonnage

I-J Special Report

SAN JOSE — The Bay Area Air Pollution Control District, long stung by critics for allegedly granting variances to polluting industries, yesterday released for the first time a list of variances by company names coupled with the tons of contaminants each emits.

The list, presented at the district director's monthly meeting, showed only two companies with variances emitting more than one ton a day. Most of the 14 variance permits were for operations emitting less than one-tenth of a ton a day.

The two exceptions were the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. and the DuPont Co. The utility, on five to 10 days a year, was estimated to emit 150 tons a day of contaminants from its Antioch power plant, and 88 tons from its plant in San Francisco.

These tonnage figures will be cut by about one-third after the utility imports additional low-sulfur fuel oil, directors were told by the district's chief administrative officer D. J. Callaghan.

The power plants have to switch from gas to oil during especially cold weather, when the gas is needed instead by domestic and industrial customers, he said.

Callaghan said that these emissions occur at a time of year when the dispersion of air contaminants is good, thus the emissions "really don't cause much of a problem."

The DuPont plant in Contra Costa County emits nine tons a day of contaminants, but the emission will be cut to less than one-tenth of a ton per day when a new incinerator is installed in May 1971, Callaghan said. The time was needed to design the incinerator, he added. Interim improvements should take care of two-thirds of the problem next month, he said.

Both PG&E and DuPont should meet district regulations when their promised improvements are made, Callaghan predicted.

The list of variances as of July 29 included only one in Marin, that one for clearing land in the Point Reyes National Seashore. This variance permit has been used only in stormy weather, and no complaints ever have been received about its use, Callaghan said.

The list of variance permits and corresponding tonnage figures was requested last month by Sausalito Councilman Wyman Hicks, a director of the district.

Marin Supervisor William A. Gnoss asked Callaghan to have the district engineers take a look at the stranded drydock in Richardson Bay. The county may seek to burn them down, Gnoss said, adding he was opposed to the suggestion because oil in the wooden structure may cause it to burn for several days.

At Hicks' suggestion, the board directed Callaghan to issue tonnage figures with the monthly list of variance permits.

The district already reports the tonnage of contaminants emitted by industries violating regulations. In the list presented yesterday for violators reported in July, American Smelting and Refining Co. of Crockett emits 97.3 tons a day, Phillips Petroleum Co. of Martinez, 72.4: Shell Oil Co. of Martinez, 41.6; and Standard Oil Co. of Richmond 89 tons. The figures are based on 1969 data.

The district figured that an average of 2,581 tons of contaminants were emitted each day during 1969 by stationary sources under its jurisdiction.

Pleads Guilty To Weed Count

Alfred Louis Citos, 26, of Sausalito pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of cultivating marijuana.

Citos of 35 Lincoln Drive was arrested after police seeking him on a $45 traffic warrant from Merced County found five planters containing marijuana-like plants in his living room.

Citos was freed on $1,000 bail. A preliminary hearing was set for Sept. 29.

Former House Aide Receives Sentence

NEW YORK (UPI)—Dr. Martin Sweig, suspended chief administrative aide to House Speaker John W. McCormack, was sentenced to 30 months in prison and fined $2,000 today for his conviction for perjury.

Sweig, a long time friend of the speaker, was convicted July 9 of lying to a grand jury after an 11-day trial before U. S. District Judge Marvin E. Frankel.

Sweig and Washington Lobbyist Nathan Voloshen were indicted on charges of using McCormack's office for influence peddling and of lying to a grand jury investigating the case.

Voloshen pleaded guilty to the charges shortly before the trial started. Sweig was convicted on one count of perjury but acquitted on five others and on one count of conspiracy to misuse the speaker's office.

Frankel stayed the execution of the jail sentence and payment of the fine to allow the Court of Appeals to hear the appeal Sweig filed after his conviction.

Frankel called the conviction "a ' grevious case of perjury" and said: "I am not in disagreement with the judgement of the jury."

Frankel said there were "very profound charges of corruption" made against Voloshen and Sweig and that Sweig had information about corruption in government but chose to keep silent.

Frankel told him, "if in the future the case of your appeal is not successful, you might wish to speak more freely at a later date and if so I would be always available to reconsider in any application as to your sentence you might make."

Before seetnncing him, Frankel disclosed that a presentence report intimated that Sweig had received $5,000 in gifts during his association with Voloshen. Paul Smith, Sweig's lawyer, denied there was any truth in the report.

Voloshen pleaded guilty to both perjury and misusing the speaker's office and was scheduled to be sentenced Sept. 17. The 72-year-old influence peddler has been ill, however, and that could be moved back. He was unable to answer a subpoena calling for his appearance as a witness in a court case in Brooklyn Monday.

Plans Set On Access To Beaches

The Strawberry Recreation District board last night decided to take steps to guarantee public access to beach and marsh areas of the Strawberry Peninsula, clerk Jeanne Heick reported.

Directors instructed J. Martin Rosse, district architect, to prepare legal descriptions of certain areas which the board feels the public has a right to use. The areas are in privtae ownership.

The action was taken after a committee reported that the California Supreme Court in February ruled that the public may continue to use beaches and their access roads if such use has gone unchallenged for five years, Mrs. Heick said.

After descriptions are prepared, the district will file briefs in the courts claiming permanent easements to beach areas on the southwest side of Strawberry Point and in the Strawberry Cove-Strawberry Lagoon area.

A motion to claim easements for the widest possible public use was approved 4-0, with director James L. Andrews abstaining, Mrs. Heick said.

Directors also instructed their attorney, Stephen H. Kaufmann to attend the Marin County Planning Commission meeting on Sept. 14 and inform commissioners that the board opposes any development in the Strawberry Cove area.

The Strawberry Recreation District board also:

TENNIS — Was informed that residents are anxious that the tennis program, discontinued last month because of personnel and money problems, be reinitiated. The board also decided to hold a round robin tennis tournament for women but left the date open.

CLEANUP — Set the week of Oct. 5-9 as Fall Cleanup Week, during which Mill Valley Refuse Service will conduct free pickups of up to three cubic feet of rubbish placed in a pile at curbside. Pickup will be on the regular collection day.

FILING — Instructed Kaufmann to consult with the county counsel's office about emergency legislation passed by the state which changed the deadline for filing for the November election from Sept. 4 to Aug. 28. The board is concerned that persons interested in filing for election to the board may be prevented from doing so.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned to tomorrow at 8 p.m. at Strawberry Point School to continue discussion of the filing deadline.

Man Hit By Car Reported Fair

A 67-year-old Mill Valley man was reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital after he was struck by a car yesterday as he walked across Throckmorton Avenue in Mill Valley.

Mervyn L. Latson, of 153 Sycamore Avenue, suffered a concussion, a broken knee and multiple bruises when he was hit, about 6:45 p.m. by an auto driven by Kay Shear, 25, of 220 Grandview Avenue, Novato.

The women, according to police, said she was blinded by the sun as she was traveling west on Throckmorton and did not see Latson who was crossing in a crosswalk west of Corte Madera Avenue.

Ryerson was named Sonoma County chairman, and Dr. Moore was named to the executive committee of the campaign region covering five northern counties, including Sonoma.

NLRB Rules I-J Employee Fine Illegal

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A National Labor Relations Board examiner ruled today that the union on strike against the Independent-Journal violated the law in disciplining a member, Gordon Dixon.

Dixon, a union member for 40 years, is composing room foreman who fired a fellow employee for taking the afternoon off without permission Oct. 10, 1969, three months before San Francisco Typographical Union 21 began its current strike against the newspaper.

Subsequently Dixon declined to appear at union proceedings concerning the case and refused to rehire the discharged employee. As a result, the union last Jan. 23 fined Dixon $418.

NLRB Examiner Allen Sinsheimer Jr., who conducted three days of hearings on the dispute, decided the union action amounted to unlawful coercion of an employer in the selection of Dixon as a foreman who adjusts grievances.

Sinsheimer also concluded the union violated case interpretations of the law by commencing proceedings against Dixon because he continued to work during the strike.

The examiner rejected a union interpretation that the law permits enforcement of a union's internal rules against a foreman in Dixon's position who crosses picket lines.

Sinsheimer recommended that the NLRB issue an order directing the union to rescind the fines and other actions against Dixon.

Last month Sinsheimer also recommended an NLRB decision in favor of the employer and against the union. He said picketing of newsprint shipments at a San Francisco pier constituted an illegal secondary boycott.

MIDEAST

an official source said. "Until then, speculation is folly."

Egypt accused Israel today of trying to wriggle out of a peaceful Middle East solution under U.N. terms and called for a summit of African leaders to support Egypt in the Arab-Israeli conflict.

The statement came from Mohamed Fayek, Egyptian representative to an Organization of African Unity conference in Addis Ababa who stated Egypt's case at start of debate on the Mideast situation.

The Israeli viewpoint is that the United States should speak out firmly against Russian and Egyptian actions in moving SAM2 missiles closer to the Suez Canal in violation of the truce. A spokesman Wednesday said the U.S. statement should be "loud and clear."

Instead, the United States sent word to Russia and Egypt warning them to avoid any further violations of the fragile cease-fire agreement lest they impair the peace talks. Israeli sources said Defense Minister Moshe Dayan wants the United States to demand withdrawal of the missile sites, otherwise the talks will be "meaningless."

Informed sources said a majority of the cabinet, including Prime Minister Golda Meir, was swinging toward Dayan's hard line. Mrs. Meir and Dayan have conferred frequently during the week on the crisis but a spokesman said they had no meeting before today's session.

The session was held inside the Defense Ministry compound in the heart of Tel Aviv. Mrs. Meir, Foreign Minister Abba Eban and others drove from Jerusalem to attend. The site meant the meeting was being held in Dayan's backyard, and indications were it would last all day.

As they met a military spokesman said Israel had discovered new Soviet ground-to-air missile sites 19 miles west of the canal and that a ninth formal complaint was sent to the United Nations truce supervisers headquarters in Jerusalem.

Jail Sentence In Drug Case

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The former coordinator of Marin's New Careers program, Michael R. James, yesterday was sentenced to six months in jail with credit for time served since July 10, and placed on three years probation in superior court.

James, 28, of Oakland was arrested Dec. 8 in the Fillmore district of San Francisco and charged with possession of three small balloons of heroin. He was subsequently fired from the position as coordinator of Marin's New Careers program.

He pleaded innocent, but changed his plea to guilty July 18.

Two Business Signs Approved

The Mill Valley Architectural Advisory Committee has approved signs for a fish and chips take-out restaurant at 25 Miller Avenue and The Tamarind gift shop at 35 Miller Avenue.

Zoning Administrator Howard W. McGill said plan review for a Burger Chef restaurant at Camino Alto and East Blithedale Avenue and for Pat and Joe's restaurant, 71 Throckmorton Avenue, also were continued Tuesday when the applicants failed to appear.

The committee chose Kalvin Platt as chairman and Dorrie Bassett secretary.

White Cane Days Set In October

The annual white cane campaign of the Lions Clubs of Marin to raise funds for eye care service will be conducted Oct. 2 and 3 throughout Marin.

"Great strides have been made in the eye sciences recently," reported Michael Conley, white cane days chairman of the San Rafael Lions Club. White cane days give residents an opportunity to help "extend these innovations toward serving needy who are blind or have sight impairment."

The clubs forward 100 per cent of the donations to a fund for eye care service, he reported.

Half dimes were minted from 1794 to 1873.

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

Nuisance And Public Good

Dan Dumpty owned a large empty lot on which he piled old equipment, cars, trash, and the like. Weeds and clutter added to the lot's ugliness.

The city prosecuted Dan and the court fined and ordered him to clean up the place. Dan appealed to a higher court, and, on a "technicality," won.

The district attorney filed a new action charging Dan with maintaining a public nuisance. This time Dan claimed he had been put in double jeopardy, but the court ruled against him. He had to pay and to clean up his lot. A public nuisance is a "continuing" crime for which the district attorney could prosecute.

In other cases guests held wild parties in a hotel where narcotic arrests and other crimes were frequent. The hotel was not meeting health standards. In court the hotel owner claimed he did his best to keep his guests in line but he could not do so.

Still the district attorney sued to close the hotel on the ground that it was a public nuisance. The city did close it.

In still another case, Art had inherited an apartment house which his father had built years before. In 1923 it had been a fine structure, meeting all the standards of that time. But now it was a danger to the public. Because of changing standards, the court ruled that an abatement proceeding was valid.

A new building code may be "retroactive" if its terms are reasonable and public safety and health are involved. For example, it would be reasonable for owners to have a reasonable time to meet requirements for expensive changes.

On the other hand, if scientific discoveries show that a building needs corrections at once, it would be reasonable to have the owner make prompt corrections, however costly.

understood that he delivered it to Mahmoud Riad, foreign affairs adviser to Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

McCloskey said shortly before 1 p.m. EDT that he did not know yet whether the U.S. ambassador to Moscow, Jacob Beam, had delivered the protest to Soviet officials. Beam had been instructed late Wednesday night to try to present the protest personally to Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

McCloskey said the violations of which the United States has firm evidence all have taken place since Aug. 19. That was the day the United States said it did not have conclusive evidence to support Israeli charges of earlier Egyptian violations.

UAW Negotiating With General Motors

DETROIT (UPI)—Negotiating committees for the United Auto Workers and General Motors Corp., one of the union's two strike targets, met for less than an hour today before recessing talks until the late afternoon.

At Chrysler Corp., the other strike target picked by the UAW Wednesday, negotiating subcommittees met throughout the morning.

Marin Group To Hold Benefit Breakfast

Directors of the Marin City Home Owners and Improvement Association last night decided to sponsor a pancake breakfast, at a date and time to be announced, to benefit the Marin City Boys' Club, secretary Flossie F. Berry reported.

The homeowners also decided to invite Vonda Riley, 16, of Marin City to a future meeting to talk and show pictures of her summer as an exchange student in Norway, Mrs. Berry said.

Noisy Night AF Jets Bring Complaints

Jet engines, which had been undergoing repairs, whined loudly, according to Novato residents, from 8 p.m. yesterday to 1 a.m. today.

Hamilton Air Force Base information office reported that repair difficulties delayed tests usually made during daylight hours, and a certian number of jets are required to be ready to fly by 5 a.m. daily.

A Measure Of Stress For Exec

By JAMES WILKINSON
(London Express News Service)

LONDON — The dynamic boss of a major industrial concern may be a "mouse when he gets home," a doctor reports.

And because of the strains involved in being an executive a big inquiry into the health risks run by business menwas called for by the doctor, Bill Jones, the director general of the Health Education Council.

"We don't know whether people play a role at work consistent with their own personality and then change when they get home," he said.

The "tycoon at work-mouse at home" syndrome is probably not common, Jones said, but "a man can't adopt the same attitude to his wife whom he has known for 23 years as he does to his subordinates at work."

This continual stress of playing two roles in life may have something to do with the illnesses that beset middle-aged executives.

"At present we can't measure the degree of stress that's safe for bosses, especially those who are not born leaders," he said.

The trouble is that executives are too sensitive about what they disclose about their work methods and private habits and so proper research on the subject cannot easily be done, he said.

"A penetrating, frank and prolonged study needs to be made by medical and behavioral scientists. Industry should welcome this and encourage executives to offer themselves as guinea pigs," Jones told a London conference of health visitors.

The signs of the overstrained boss were there for all to see. He began to distrust his colleagues, had a mania for checking small points, refused to take holidays, made unclear decisions and talked too much — often using glib catch phrases instead of thinking clearly and with judgment.

Eventually when the strain became too much and he began to crack he often did things that would have appalled him under normal circumstances.

Jones summed up these lapses as "wine, women and song" — a sort of diversion and relief.

"The problem is we can't measure responsibility properly like you can measure certain health risks in manual workers," Jones said later.

"A firm's most valuable assets are often its executives and there is no known way of assessing them properly. It is difficult to judge who would be the right man for a particular job, for example.

"The whole thing needs a more sophisticated approach," he added.

TALKS

conference table before beginning their arguments.

Diplomatic observers said the initial inconclusive exchange between Bruce and Thuy indicated there had been no shift in either side's basic position.

It also dashed hopes in French political circles that Thuy, a former foreign minister who has spent several months in Hanoi in consultations, has returned to Paris with a flexible position.

Observers said, however, that American and Hanoi negotiators soon may agree to hold secret talks to determine whether there is an area of agreement in their platofrms.

Tien, the Viet Cong negotiator, said "the Vietnamese people will never accept any bargain" on the troop withdrawal issue and that the Viet Cong has not changed its mind that the United States must dump Thieu's "dictatorial, warlike, corrupt and abhorred" regime.

Thuy said the negotiators must take up the Viet Cong's 10 point program which calls for U.S. troop evacuation and creation of a coalition cabinet. He said if the U.S. government continues its present policy the Vietnamese will fight until it achieves a true peace and will unite with Laotian and Cambodian peoples "to defeat American aggression."

In a 13-page statement Thuy fired broadside after broadside at the Nixon administration, claiming it wanted war, not peace.

He said Hanoi did not seek any humiliating defeat of the United States but was offering it an "honorable way out" of the war and that the Communist demands were "extremely flexible and open." Then he said if the United States would agree to the total troop pullout and a new coalition government for Saigon "the discussions can start on the specific questions."

Development On Its Way To Approval

A proposed 22-unit housing development received partial approval last night when the Sausalito Planning Commission agreed to grant a variance to David Hunter, owner of the 145,000 square foot planned site.

But the commission withheld approval of the conditional use permit needed before the development can be started until the Sausalito City Council acts on the variance, according to city clerk Miriam Ansell.

The project, to be located on Santa Rosa Avenue above Glen Drive, would include apartments, duplexes and some single-family dwellings, Mrs. Ansell said.

The variance will be reviewed by the city council at its Sept. 15 meeting.

The Sausalito Planning Commission also:

HEARING — Postponed a hearing, scheduled for last night, on proposed amendments to the city's General Plan until Sept. 10 at 8 p.m. in City Hall when the commission will hold a special adjourned meeting. Cambodians Retake A Strategic Village

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—Three battalions of Cambodian troops including mercenaries trained in South Vietnam today recaptured the village of Srang whose fall on Sunday had opened a new Communist threat toward the capital.

"We are great! We are great! We are great!" said Battalion Commander Danh Croch, visibly delighted over the victory.

Srang is 26 miles south of Phnom Penh and was captured Sunday by the Viet Cong who held it during bitter fighting for three days.

Croch said the final assault was made by three battalions (about 1,200 men) of Khmer of Kampuchea Krom, Cambodians who were trained and paid by the American forces in South Vietnam.

The victory for the Cambodians came as fairly light fighting was reported in South Vietnam.

A U.S. F4 Phantom jet fighter-bomber exploded on a runway at Da Nang Wednesday night, killing three Americans and wounding 14 others. And other battlefield action in Vietnam killed five Americans and wounded 27.

In Phnom Penh, university students, civil servants and high school students demonstrated on behalf of Cambodian neutrality and independence. Informed sources said the demonstrations would last for days and end with Premier Lon Nol declaring the nation a republic.

Under Prince Norodom Sihanouk, deposed as chief of state March 18, Cambodia was a constitutional monarchy.

Demonstrators carried posters denouncing the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese and exhibited pictures of the Cambodian royal family in uncomplimentary caricature.

The U.S. Command also announced that 63 U.S. soldiers were killed and 585 wounded last week, up from the 52 dead and 358 wounded the previous week. It raised the U.S. dead in Vietnam since Jan. 1, 1961, to 43,481.

South Vietnamese spokesmen said 33 iVet Cong and North Vietnamese were killed Wednesday in fighting in the Mekong Delta, 49 miles southwest of Saigon. The spokesman said 26 of the dead were killed in air strikes.

Viet Cong and North Vietnamese gunners shelled 28 Allied outposts overnight, including five American installations. U.S. casualties were one dead and 13 wounded.

Two Americans were killed and five wounded in booby trap explosions Wednesday in Quang Nam Province, which includes Da Nang.

The level of fighting was low and Allied communiques showed no flareup in Communist activity as predicted for today's first anniversary of the death of President Ho Chi Minh of North Vietnam.

To commemorate the date, Ho's last will and testament was broadcast by Hanoi Radio along with remarks of Le Duan, North Vietnamese Communist Party secretary-general.

U.S. spokesmen said the fire that destroyed the $2 million Phantom jet at Da Nang Air Base broke out when a fuel tank fell off. The plane was loaded with bombs and other ordnance. Later it blew up as firemen fought the fire on the runway.

Fire Officials Get Vote Of Confidence

The San Rafael Fire Commission has given a vote of confidence to Fire Chief Vance Trivett and officers of the city fire department, accused in a suit of harassment of firemen.

The vote Monday night followed the unannounced dropping of the suit last week by the San Rafael Firemen's Association, City Mgr. James H. McCown said today.

The firemen dropped the suit a week after an unannounced meeting Aug. 19 called by the city manager for representatives of the fire commission, firemen and city officials. This meeting resolved the differences between firemen and their officers, McCown said.

The group will still hold one or more meetings to discuss the wages and hours differences. Firemen have asked for wage parity with the police department and a cut in hours from 63 to 60 per week.

In addition to the city manager, those attending the meeting were: Vice Mayor Fred E. Jensen, Councilman Harry A. Barbier, Fire Commissioner Harry M. Williams, Administrative Assistant Virginia Congdon, City Atty. David Menary Jr., Fire Chief Vance Trivett, Fire Capt. James O. Kennon, Thornton C. Bench, attorney for the firemen and Marvin Bollmer, former president of the firemen's association.

Writs of mandamus were served by the firemen's attorney on the city council, fire commission and city manager on July 29, charging failure of the city to negotiate in good faith on wages and salaries, and harrassment of individuals in the fire department, according to McCown.

The harrassment charges have been settled and the next meeting — for which public notice will be given — will be to discuss wages and hours, said McCown.

The San Rafael Fire Commission also:

CAPTAINS — Voted to open examinations for captain to anyone within or without the department if a vacant position cannot be filled within the department.

RESIDENCE — Voted to let the residence of a fireman be determined by his superior officers on an individual basis. This does not nullify the present requirement of residence in Marin County, but holds this policy in abeyance.

SNORKEL — Received notice that the new $85,000 snorkel should be delivered the last part of December.

OUTSIDE JOBS — Asked for an annual list of outside jobs held by firemen.

Borman Reports On Prisoners

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — Former astronaut Frank Borman has told President Nixon there has been no "major breakthrough in the position of the North Vietnamese government" for an estimated 600 Americans being held prisoner in Southeast Asia.

Borman said, however, the Soviet Union and several other countries he visited in his world trip as Nixon's special emissary had agreed to undertake new initiatives with Hanoi on behalf of the prisoners.

"Everywhere we went we had sympathetic reaction and all the countries we contacted indicated they would take new initiatives with Hanoi on this subject," Borman told the President Wednesday.

A Frayed Cable Halts Cable Car

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A cable frayed Wednesday, halting the Powell Street cable car lines for two hours.

Engineers drew the cable into the carbarn for repairs between 11:10 a.m. and 1:15 p.m.

Service was halted between Market Street and the carbarn for both the Mason and Hyde Street lines which operate part of their routes on Powell Street.

POLICE ZERO IN ON SUSPECT

With raised pistols, New York City policemen zero in on 32-year-old Benjamin Cruz as he appears at his front door. Policemen were called to the apartment house yesterday after Cruz fired a shotgun in an apparent fit of anger through his living room door and into the apartment next door. He was charged with possession of a dangerous weapon and illegally firing it within the city limits.

Judge Takes Self Out Of Davis Case

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Judge Robert F. Peckham disqualified himself yesterday from hearing a suit between University of California regents and Angela Davis, fugitive one-time instrutcor in philosophy.

The U.S. District Court judge said he would not serve since he is the first cousin of Mrs. Harold J. Haley, widow of a Marin County judge for whose slaying Miss Davis is sought.

Miss Davis, who police say purchased the guns used in an unsuccesful escape try from Judge Haley's courtroom, is charged with murder and kidnapping.

The regents had refused to renew Miss Davis' contract, saying the Negro militant was guilty of unprofessional conduct during off campus speeches.

Her suit to regain her position had been assigned to Judge Peckham.

In their petition for a dismissal, regents said the issue is moot since Miss Davis is unavailable to perform the proposed contract. They also said her remaining a fugitive from justice is "onconscionable and deprives her of the right to any chance of equitable relief."

Tunney Opens Drive With Murphy Blast

RIVERSIDE (UPI) — Democratic Rep. John V. Tunney opened his fall campaign for the U.S. Senate today by accusing incumbent Sen. George Murphy of having "struck out" in Congress.

Tunney, son of former world heavyweight champion Gene Tunney, embarked on the drive from his adopted hometown of Riverside, where he began his career as a congressman in 1964.

His initial two-day campaign foray is scheduled to take him up the Central Valley to Sacramento, then to Los Angeles and San Francisco for both public appearance and private fund-raising dinners.

"George Murphy said on the day that we both went to Congress for the first time six years ago that he wanted to go to bat for California in the Senate," Tunney said in prepared remarks for his campaign kickoff.

"Well, as far as I'm concerned, George Murphy has struck out," the 36-year-old, Connecticut-reared congressman added.

Tunney then listed key votes that he said the Republican senator cast against legislation beneficial to Californians. Included, Tunney said, were votes against medicare, the nuclear nonproliferation treaty, free school lunches and an increased federal minimum wage.

"What has George Murphy done for the school kids of our state? For the senior citizens? What has he ever done for the average homeowner?" Tunney asked in questions he then answered.

"He's done too little too late, and that's exactly what California is going to do for him."

Tunney, who won the Democratic nomination by beating fellow Rep. George Brown in the June primary, pledged if elected to work for better middle and low income housing, a "revitalization" of the California aerospace industry and a federal crackdown on the "overproduction" of dangerous drugs.

Bomb Rips Unoccupied Police Car

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A bomb was thrown into an unoccupied patrol car Wednesday while policemen were investigating a burglary complaint in the predominantly Negro Fillmore District.

Henceforth, Police Chief Alfred Nelder ordered: "There are to be no police vehicles left out of sight of a police officer."

Patrolmen Richard Bodisco and Joaquin Santos said the burglary complaint was legitimate, eliminating the possibility that police had been lured into the area.

Police said they were looking for a 5-foot-10, 175-pound Negro wearing a beige or light yellow sweater and driving a black and red sports car with no grill.

Student Body President Steps Aside

BERKELEY (UPI) — Leigh Steinberg announced Wednesday he had disqualified himself by cheating on an exam from serving as student body president on the University of California's Berkeley campus.

Steinberg, 21, was elected as a moderate and had championed campus non-violence while attacking the "rhetorical overkill and violence" of student radicals.

Before a news conference Wednesday, he said chancellor Roger Heyns had told him he had been placed on disciplinary probation, which disqualified him from extra curricular activities.

"I've had a conspicuously disastrous career in foreign languages all my life," he said. "To graduate, I had to pass the language proficiency test, so I had a friend take the French exam."

"That was a pretty stupid idea," he continued.

Neither 'Truncheon' Nor 'Bomb' Is Answer, Agnew Tells Legion

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—Americans would "choose the policeman's truncheon over the anarchist's bomb," but neither is the answer to real peace, Vice President Spiro Agnew said Wednesday.

True peace "lies in that pattern of mutual respect and mutual forbearance that is the essence of a civilized society," Agnew said in a talk before the American Legion's 52nd National Convention.

"The American system is the greatest engine of change and progress that the world has ever seen," he declared. "There are some who look at the faults and cry that the system has failed. Their problem is that they don't understand the system."

While noting that rights in the Constitution's First Amendment must be protected, Agnew declared that "smashing windows, burning offices, assaulting people in the streets are not acts of speech or assembly."

Such violent action, the vice president declared, trespass on the "rights of others to be safe in their lives and property and safe in the free enjoyment of their liberty."

The vice president also said the U. S. venture into Cambodia assured additional withdrawals of American troops from southeast Asia but added that it will be necessary for the United States to maintain a sizeable peacetime army "for a long time to come."

As Agnew left the Portland coliseum after the talk, women members of the legion's auxiliary sang "God Bless America" to drown out chants from nearly 200 young persons who carried antiwar and antiadministration placards.

Oregon's Governor Tom McCall, speaking on the convention's next to last day, said he was sending home National Guard troops he had called in to guard against disturbances from youthful demonstrators.

The 300 State Policemen brought to Portland for the same purpose have returned to regular duties.

No Intent Now To Move Indians

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The federal government has plans for removing Indians from Alcatraz Island but has "no present intention" of using them, a General Services Administration executive says.

Thomas E. Hannon, GSA regional administrator, said that Wednesday while commenting on a San Francisco Chronicle report concerning a confidential Navy memo on the plan.

"There has always been a plan to remove the Indians if and when such drastic action is necessary," he said.

Indians invaded the abandoned prison on San Francisco Bay Nov. 19, 1969, saying they want to turn it into a tribal cultural center.

Agnew Tells Asia: Expect More Aid, Less Troops

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew returned to Washington today from a 30,000-mile tour, convinced he made his point with Asian allies: expect more material aid but fewer American troops.

Agnew told former President Lyndon B. Johnson he felt Asian leaders were reconciled to American troop withdrawals if they could get more military and economic aid.

The vice president briefed Johnson for 2 1-2 hours Wednesday at the LBJ ranch near Austin, Tex. The Johnson visit was the last event on a tour that carried Agnew to five Asian countries.

Agnew flew to the LBJ Ranch after an appearance at the American Legion Convention in Portland, Ore.

The toughest assignment of Agnew's diplomatic tour came in Seoul, where South Korean President Park Chung-Hee made clear his displeasure with American plans to withdraw some of its troops. Agnew tried to placate Park with a promise 54 Phantom jet fighters would be transferred permanently to Korean soil and that South Korea would be given increased economic aid.

In South Vietnam, President Nguyen Van Thieu asked Agnew for assurance that a "residual force" of 50,000 Americans would be left in his country. He also asked for a pledge of an additional $100,000 in American aid this year.

One Arraigned On Marijuana Charge

A San Quentin Village resident has been arraigned in Marin Municipal Court on a felony charge of possessing marijuana but another man arrested with him Saturday on suspicion of possessing hashish for sale was not charged.

Released Tuesday was Robert Earl Kay, 22.

Thomas Maurice Purbaugh, 21, pleaded innocent yesterday and a preliminary hearing was set for Oct. 6.

The officers said they found a bag containing several packets believed to contain hashish in the men's car which had been stopped because it didn't have a front license plate.

Pot-sniffing Dogs Aid Customs Inspectors

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Already in wide use by police agencies across the country, dogs are trained to sniff out marijuana now are helping inspectors along the Mexican border, according to the Customs Bureau.

The bureau said it plans to deploy the pot-sniffing dogs at all U.S.-Mexican border points

BODY FOUND DUMPED ON STRAWBERRY POINT

Bagley Hit For Missing Eco Votes

Joseph A. Forest, Democratic nominee for state Assembly, yesterday criticized his Republican opponent for missing votes on six environmental bills.

Forest, speaking at a reception at the Bolinas home of Paul Harris, said that the missed votes were contrary to the support of such bills claimed by the incumbent, William T. Bagley.

The seven votes were on blils to authorize Marin to enact local logging regulations (passed), require public access to navigable waters (defeated), request the federal government to halt oil drilling in the Santa Barbara Channel (defeated), end the right of a public agency to acquire land for park purposes and then develop it for an airport site (passed), bar open dump burning and limit agricultural burning (defeated), and limit oil and gas leases within the Santa Barbara Channel (defeated.

Forest charged that by missing such votes Bagley showed he "just isn't particularly interested in conservation."

Santa Rosa Man Fair After Crash

A 36-year-old Santa Rosa man was reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital where he was taken yesterday following a one-car crash westbound on Highway 17, just east of Highway 101.

Richard V. Atherton was treated for a concussion, chest bruises, two broken fingers and a broken wrist after the car he was driving left the road and crashed into a chain link fence and utility pole.

According to the California Highway Patrol Atherton apparently fell asleep at the wheel as the auto approached the off-ramp to Highway 101 at about 8:30 p.m.

Auto, Bike Collision Sends Boy To Doctor

A Novato 8-year-old was to see his own doctor for injuries suffered yesterday when his bike collided with a car on Vineyard Road near Trumbull Avenue, Novato police reported today.

Ronald John Montgomery, of 2201 Vineyard Road, was hit by a car driven by Timothy Peter Lepinski, 17, of 34 Sunnyhill Road, at about 4:05 p.m., according to the report.

West Marin Plan Maps Available At Civic Center

The West Marin General Plan, as approved by the Marin County Board of Supervisors in March of last year, is now available in a single-sheet printed form at the Marin County Planning Department in Civic Center.

Planning Director Werner Von Gundell announced that copies may be purchased for $2.50 each. The publication consists of a colored map about two feet square, with explanatory text printed on both sides.

The general plan envisages an ultimate total of 50,060 housing units on 43,410 acres in West Marin. This means an average density of 1.15 units per acre, the density approved by the supervisors.

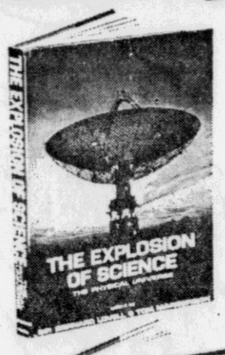

The county planning department is located on the third floor of the Civic Center.

Sides Say Creek Work On Schedule

The Army Corps of Engineers and the contractor for Phase 3-A of the Corte Madera Creek project agreed yesterday construction is back on schedule but the completion date remains in question.

Ronald D. Price, project superintendent for J B and C Co., said the job will be finished by the original completion date of Oct. 29.

He said a five-day extension until Nov. 3, granted by the Army on account of a bank cave-in in August, was meaningless since he was also required to keep his work on schedule with the Oct. 29 deadline.

Col. Charles R. Roberts, district engineer for the corps said the project was "generally back on schedule" with some phases ahead and some behind the approved schedule. He added the Army had lifted its Aug. 15 requirement that the contractor go to overtime and doubleshifts to ge the work back on schedule.

A difference remained however, between the Army and the contractor on the granting of the five-day extension.

Price said he could see no reason for the five-day extension if he is required to continue on the original work schedule.

Roberts said, "What the five-day extension does is extend the penalty clause to Nov. 3."

Certain phases of the project the cleanup and the placing of the adjacent fence can be completed after the rains come, Roberts continued, and these were the phases which would probably be completed during the five-day extension. However, he added, he was not sure the contractor would need the added five days.

He said that the Army had required J B and C Co. to speed up its work with overtime and double shifts at the contractor's expense in order to insure that all excavation, laying of concrete and backfill would be finished before heavy rains flooded the project.

Price yesterday, in outlining the progress of the creek work, said the placing of canal walls is now about a week behind schedule, but should be in place by Sept. 25, one week ahead of time.

Other canal work is ahead of the allocated time, he continued. Excavation is three weeks ahead and the placing of the concrete canal floor will be completed tomorrow, one week ahead of schedule.

He concluded that the placing of backfill behind the already completed section of the canal will begin next week.

Couple Wins $11,500 From Marincello

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — An $11,500 damage verdict against developers of the proposed Marincello planned community in Southern Marin was upheld yesterday by the California Court of Appeal.

The court ruled in favor of a Sausalito couple, Mr. and Mrs. Warren V. Glass Jr., who had sued because a master plan and model for the tract showed Spencer Avenue serving as a main access road to the development.

Actually, the Glasses said, they owned part of Spencer Avenue and adjacent land and had neither sold it to the developer nor dedicated it to public use.

The court upheld a decision awarding the Glasses $5,000 general and $6,500 punitive damages.

Driver's Head Hurt In Car-Horse Crash

Sonja Phillips White, 38, of 70 Santa Maria Drive, Novato, was reported in satisfactory condition at Hillcrest Hospital with head injuries suffered yesterday at 10:30 a.m. when her car struck a horse and tree on Petaluma Boulevard North near Gossage Avenue, north of Petaluma.

The Californias Highway Patrol said a horse being led by Janet West broke loose and darted across the road in the path of Mrs. White's car. After striking and killing the horse, the car veered into a tree.

Decision On Petaluma River Dredging Hit

Representative Don H. Clausen, R-First District, has called the Army Corps of Engineers decision not to dredge the Petaluma River "totally unacceptable" and has called for reconsideration.

In a letter to Col. Charles R. Roberts, district engineer, Clausen said he could not accept the corps' decision that the condition of the river doesn't warrant dredging.

"If shoaling has caused the rived to be non-navigable, even at low tide, then, in my judgment, the provisions of the authorized federal jroject are not being carried out," Clausen said.

Shoals on the river have prevented the annual visits by Marin and Bay Area yachtsmen. Clausen said Petaluma Chamber of Commerce reports show $100,000 has been lost in yacht business.

Clausen said his staff would continue to press for an early dredging date.

Supersonic Booms Attacked

LONDON (London Express Service) — A surgeon warned yesterday that low frequency shock waves produced by Concorde's supersonic boom could be a serious health hazard.

Overweight men and women in their 50s and above were exceptionally vulnerable, he said.

The surgeon, Dr. Logan Dahne, 69, former ear, nose and throat consultant at a Reading, Berkshire, hospital, has retired to St. David's, Pembrokeshire.

He claimed that the physical shock of a sudden very low frequency sonic wave from Concorde could contract the heart muscles, shrink arteries and momentarily cut off the blood supply to the brain.

Grasshoppers and other large insects are the main diet of the sparrow hawk.

Larkspur Woman Discovered Dead

A 63-year-old Larkspur woman was found dead in her car in a parking lot at Marin General Hospital at 7:30 a.m. today.

Coroner's investigator Keith Craig said Julie Allen Bond of 2000 Redwood Highway had been dead about three or four days when found by a gardener.

She was reported missing to Larkspur police Saturday.

Craig said no note was found with the body, but she had threatened to kill herself in the past. Three empty bottles of barbiturates were found in the car.

The body was taken to Keaton's Mortuary in San Rafael where an autopsy was to be performed.

Hole-In-One Contest May Be Included

A hole-in-one contest may be added to the list of activities for the Rohnert Park Founder's Day weekend, Sept. 11-13, the chamber of commerce said yesterday.

Celebration chairman Richard Day said the contest will be worked out with golf course professional Robert Porter.

Day reported other activities include a pageant to select Miss Rohnert Park on Sept. 11 at 7:30 p.m. at the Rohnert Park Junior High School.

Game and food booths will open at 11 a.m. on Sept. 12 and 13 at Alicia Park. The recreation department has scheduled contests for children and adults as well as a soccer game and softball game.

A ball honoring the new Miss Rohnert Park has been set for Sept. 12 from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. at the community center. Music will be provided by the Tony Napoli band.

The chamber will also sponsor a chicken barbecue starting at noon on Sept. 13 at Alicia Park.

Larkspur Will Seat Youths On Panel

Larkspur City Council last night introduced an ordinance that will create two seats for young persons on the city's park and recreation commission.

As proposed the commission would be expanded from five to seven members, with the two new seats to be filled by persons under the age of 22, preferably local high school or college students.

Councilmen handling a long list of matters mostly minor, had a diverse audience, ranging from Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, to blues singer Janis Joplin.

Mailliard chatted briefly with councilmen before the session, and said he hoped to keep lines of communication open with the city councils in Marin.

Councilman Neil R. Brixon thanked Mailliard for his efforts on the Corte Madera Creek project, and said the work of Mailliard and Rep. Don H. Clausen, R-First District, "have made it a lot easier."

After a closed session with City Atty. Robert W. Elliott, the council authorized condemnation proceedings against C. T. H. Wright to acquire two strips of land.

City Mgr. Kent Bathurst said the city is seeking a 70-feet wide strip of land, running about 200 feet long on each side of Doherty Drive at Magnolia Drive. The land is needed for reconstruction of the intersection, he explained.

There was a protest from Councilman Alfred Malvino against cities sharing the cost of five additional sheriff's deputies requested by Sheriff Louis Mountanos for patrol in unincorporated areas.

The patrol services should be paid for by the people in the unincorporated areas, not shared by the cities, which pay for their own police patrol, Malvino asserted.

Mountanos asked for the additional deputies Tuesday so two men can ride in patrol cars in key areas at night, and the Marin County Board of Supervisors deferred discussion until next Tuesday.

Councilmen agreed to lodge a protest with supervisors against sharing in the cost of the proposed additional deputies.

Miss Joplin was at the meeting to protest paying about $1,000 toward an engineering survey for construction of a curb and gutter and cul-de-sac along her property at 380 West Baltimore Avenue.

After some discussion, it was determined that the engineering work would cost about $500, and she should pay the costs. She also is to pay for the curb and gutter, estimated at $600, and the city is to pave the cul-de-sac.

The Larkspur City Council also,

GIFT — Received a donation of $1,500 to the city from the Schultz Foundation.

CHANTICLEER STREET — Postponed until Oct. 7 considering a petition with 45 signatures from residents of the Meadowwood area protesting the closing of Chanticleer Street to through traffic.

HAWTHORNE SLIDE — Approved drainage work, estimated to cost $4,500 to prevent further slides along Hawthorne Avenue, between Sycamore Avenue and King Street, where there was a slide last winter.

PARKING REQUEST — Referred to Police Chief Howard H. Clark a request from Mrs. A. J. Batiloro of 25 Olive Avenue for no parking along the south side of Madrone Avenue between Bridge Road and Foley Lane.

BUY LOTS — Approved purchase of two 25-by-60-foot parcels near the city's north ridge in the Chevy Chase Park tract at a cost of $40 a parcel in tax payments.

EOC VACANCY — Heard a report from Bathurst that the staff has been unable to find anyone to serve on the Marin Economic Opportunity Council, and agreed to ask the council for suggestions.

JOB STATUS — Voted that Harlan Barry, who has served his six-month probationary term as administrative assistant, be given permanent status.

GASOLINE STATION — Agreed to hear on Oct. 7 an appeal from the CPD Corp. of planning commission denial of a gasoline service station permit on Bon Air Road between the Safeway store and Bon Air Bridge. The appeal was denied Aug. 19, but the firm contended it hadn't received written notice of that hearing.

WALK FOR HUNGER — Approved a request from Marin Walk Against Hunger, a group that is raising funds to combat hunger by hiking for so much money a mile, to hike through Larkspur on Sept. 20, as part of a planned 20-mile route.

ANIMAL CONTROL — A planned discussion on animal control was cancelled when no representative of the Marin County Humane Society appeared.

STREET ABANDONMENT — Set Oct. 7 for a hearing on proposed abandonment of a portion of Alta Avenue, between Citron and Cedar Avenues, which is only a street on paper.

CONFERENCE — Authorized Bathurst to attend the International City Managers Association meeting in San Diego Sept. 20-24.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned in memory of the late Superior Court Judge Harold J. Haley, who was slain Aug. 7.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned until 8 p.m. today for a joint meeting with the planning commission and park and recreation commission to discuss formation of a policy on controls along the north bank of Corte Madera Creek.

Councilmen Will Stay Without Pay

Larkspur city councilmen, now unpaid, agreed last night to maintain that status for a little while longer.

Councilman Alfred Malvino felt since the 1970-71 budget is set, it was too late to consider voting for council salaries, but it should be considered before the next budget is adopted.

Mayor Benton A. Sifford Jr. proposed that the council announce its intention early enough so that residents who oppose the $150 a month salary, set by law, can protest.

City Manager Kent Bathurst said he would put the matter of council salaries on the agenda of the February meeting.

A Glimmer Of Hope For Marin Public Transit

It looks as though, little by little, we're getting that much-needed public transportation system in Marin.

The Marin County Transit District board on Tuesday approved operation of a shuttle bus service between San Rafael and Novato by Marin Transit Systems, Inc., the home-owned Marin City company that runs the shuttle between Mill Valley and the Tiburon ferry.

The new shuttle — subject to approval and subsidy by the Golden Gate Bridge District — will serve Marin General Hospital, San Rafael, the Marin County Civic Center, Hamilton Air Force Base, and Novato.

That includes routes where bus service is most needed.

WE HAVE OFTEN contended that feeder or shuttle bus service actually is more important to alleviating Marin's transit jams than faster service on the highway. Buses with dependable schedules to reach such places as Marin General Hospital and the Civic Center will indeed be a boon to many residents. The last attempt at local bus service, in San Rafael nearly a decade ago, failed to meet the needs for transportation other than to the downtown area, and failed to keep dependable schedules.

Since the bridge district has been given jurisdiction over Marin's public transit, the approval by the transit district board is but a beginning step. We hope the bridge district directors will go along. The need is here.

WE MUST ALL bear in mind that no public transportation system is going to be an overnight success. People just don't change their travel habits that easily — even when the means they have been using were unsatisfactory. All studies of public transit in Marin have stressed that it will be a losing proposition for several years at least.

That's where the subsidy comes in. The bridge district could choose to operate the buses itself. But if it did so, it should expect to operate them at a loss. Subsidizing Marin Transit Systems probably would cost the bridge district no more, and would encourage a home-owned, self-help venture that deserves encouragement.

Anyway, with one shuttle running, with the bridge district's ferry in operation, and with another shuttle proposed, there's at last a glimmer of hope for public transportation in Marin.

Milkweed's Miracle

The thick white juice that oozes out of a broken milkweed stem is a rather remarkable substance.

The American Indian used it as an antiseptic to be put on cuts and wounds. In recent years, it has been found to contain a powerful poison, which probably accounts for its antiseptic action.

It has long been touted as a cure for warts. We make no claim for it, but a friend with a wart of long standing on the back of his band tried rubbing it with milkweed latex regularly and it completely disappeared. Now that we know most warts are caused by viruses, perhaps the poison in the latex is a specific treatment for the virus.

We know it's still a very "iffy" proposition, but it would be interesting if this old Indian remedy would find a place in modern medicine.

September Means: Be Careful

Marinites usually look forward to the warm, golden days of September and October when the heavy ocean fogs subside and we get a good serving of hot weather.

This is the season when we must be extremely careful about fire. Everything is tinder dry, just waiting for a spark, a live cigarette butt, any kind of fire to start a raging conflagration.

Do be careful.

State Proposition 20 Offers Attractive Use For Bond Issue

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — If the people of California intend to continue financing public projects through bond issues, there appears to be no better way to spend the people's money than the approval of Proposition 20 on the Nov. 3 ballot.

This provides for $60 million in bonds for construction of recreational facilities at reservoirs and streams of the state water project.

Ray Arnett, director of the Department of Fish and Game, says the bond issue will give the greatest single boost to water-oriented recreation in California in many a year. In this, he is joined by Ray Nesbit, executive director of the Wildlife Conservation Board.

THE BOND ISSUE would provide $6 million for fish and wildlife enhancement and fishing access sites. The remianing $54 million would go toward producing water recreational facilities at new state water project lakes when they begin impounding water.

Experience indicates, say officials of the state Department of Parks and Recreation, that as soon as dams are completed and begin storing water, there is immediate demand for public usage. With 45 million visitors at state parks last year, the additional funds would provide facilities for another 15 million.

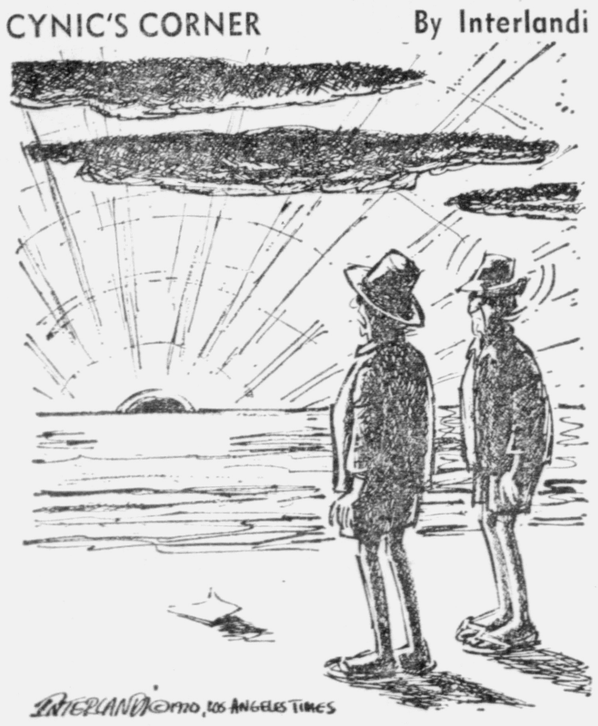

So many water-oriented sports have developed during the last decade that it is hard to keep track of them. However, the funds would be used to develop all types of boating, water skiing, fishing, camping, picnicking, riding, hiking, sightseeing, equestrian centers, staging areas, corrals, fish cleaning facilities, sandy swimming beaches, play areas, and scenic overlooks.

BESIDES ALL this, funds for stocking streams and making access available to the public to fishing waters, wherever they might happen to be, would be available. Of course, there never would be enough money, but the bond issue would be a great help if the public wants to spend its money in this fashion.

Enlargement of fish hatcheries would be another way to get rid of the bond money. This is necessary because it's futile to go fishing when there are no fish to catch, and the normal production of trout and other fish is insufficient to satisfy the voracious fishermen of California, who catch them almost as fast as the fish and game department can stock the streams, canals and lakes.

There will be, Nesbit commented, approximately 58,000 acres of reservoir surface and 500 miles of open canals in the state water project, added to the hundreds of miles of stream and river shore-line, much of which will need developing to provide proper access for the public.

Plaudits To Two For Dipsea Win

Kudos to Mr. (Norman) Bright and Mr. (Don) Makela for their victories Sunday in the Dipsea race. This race, although just for fun for many, to place near the top requires weeks of intensive, persistent work — as it should be — but still done for the sake of sport.

As you notice, I left Mr. (Richard) Delgado out of my expression of congrats, and not by oversight. . .

I too live in Woodacre; I too have my sport — horseback riding . . .

I've been riding almost daily here for five years now and have had only four unhappy experiences, all involving Mr. Delgado. Our first confrontation I was riding with my daughter, a lovely quiet evening, when suddenly both horses darted off to the side, very surprised by a man running up behind them, unheard, in tennis shoes on the pine needle-padded street. We assumed he didn't realize and asked him not to run up behind the horses as it frightened them . . . As he ran on I told him I wouldn't want him to get kicked in the face; his reply was "I'll sue you."

The second time was up in the water company property fire roads (we have their permission to ride there). This time we saw him coming and all three horses pulled off to the side of a narrow road to let him by, asked him not to run by, our request ignored . . .

The third episode was much the same, he approached from the rear, still running, the horses were surprised, and this had to be quite obvious to him as they were squeezing themselves against the embankment on the side of the road.

The fourth confrontation was the payoff. This time I was alone . . . when suddenly my horse jumped in the air, hit the pavement, slipped, fell to her knees, scrambled to her feet and dashed to the edge of the road. It wasn't until she again had herself squeezed against the embankment that I realized what had frightened her. You guessed it — tennis shoes, shiny blue pants and failing arms. This time I hollered "Someday you are going to kill someone." His response, as he ran on, "I hope it's you!" . . .

Agnew's Vietnam Speech Echoes Johnson Policies

Reprinted from St. Louis Post-Dispatch

The striking thing about Vice President Agnew's VFW speech is its resemblance to the speeches President Johnson used to make in justification of his escalation of the war. Anybody who thinks President Nixon is pursuing a different policy from Mr. Johnson's will find it difficult to explain the Agnew line.

For here are all the old themes that the Johnson administration used to expound, the themes that were finally rejected by the American people when public opinion made it impossible for Mr. Johnson to run for re-election.

Here is the false assumption that the interests of the South Vietnamese people and those of the Thieu-Ky government are identical.

HERE IS the ancient and long-discredited domino theory, which assumes that revolutions occur not as the consequence of indigenous social conditions, but as the result of some Communist pushing a button in Hanoi, Peking or Moscow. Mr. Agnew quotes with approval President Nixon's cute little remark that skeptics about the domino theory should talk to the dominoes. Fair enough. Why not talk to the Indonesian Domino, which was supposed to fall toward the Communists but actually fell the other way?

Here, also, is the historically preposterous and dangerously unbalanced assumption that Vietnam represents the kind of challenge to "collective security" that was posed in World War II. Here is the incredible claim that unless we "win" in Vietnam, Germany and Japan will join the nuclear arms race.

AND FINALLY here is the assumption that the only alternative to isolation is American imperialism; that unless we control Southeast Asia it will go by default to Communism; that the people of Asia count for nothing save as pawns in a big-power conflict. Here is the assumption that the problem of Vietnam can be solved by military means, that any solution involving withdrawal of our troops must be a "humiliation" and "defeat."

All of these arguments were made by President Johnson and rejected by the people when they demanded an end to the war. Mr. Nixon himself promised to end it. He is delivering instead, a policy designed to reduce the level of combat and casualties to politically tolerable proportions, while maintaining in Vietnam for years to come a military garrison of thousands of men backed by expenditures of billions of dollars.

Attorney's Claim Probably True

A noteworthy sidelight to the Judge Haley tragedy would be the comments of the attorney for one of the convicts. "Could have freed him," was the claim. The shocking thing is that he was probably correct.

Just find a legal technicality in the trial records and convictions are voided. No matter if the man is guilty as sin, the higher courts will free him to do his thing, be that murder, rape, or whatever his propensity may be.

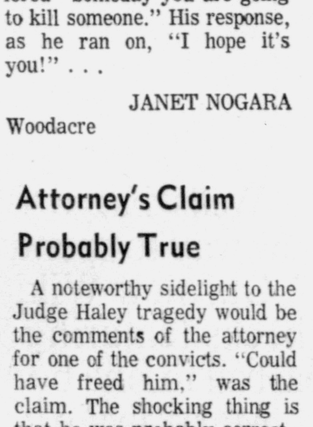

The pendulum is long overdue to swing back the other direction.

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

Bill Moiles, shameless sage of Worcester, Mass., confesses that while motoring from Los Alamos to Santa Fe, N.M., he caught sight of a mare nursing a new-born colt, and was heard to comment, "Oh, well, a foal and his mummy are soon parted."

A crabby but extremely rich old party, who had disappointed a score of eager apparent heirs by refusing to shuttle off of this earth, approached his 94th birthday, tottering but full of beans. "We'll have to get the old boy something, but what?" worried a great granddaughter. "He still hears and sees everything, but does find it harder and harder to walk, it seems." "Good," nodded her husband. "How about six cans of floor wax?"

MARQUIS CHILDS

Suspicions Of Hanky-Panky Add To Resistance Against SST

WASHINGTON — Secy. of Defense Melvin R. Laird introduced that fine, gimmicky phrase "fly before you buy" to point up determination not to be stuck with billions in cost overruns and planes of dubious worth. The opponents of the supersonic transport (SST) have modified the Laird slogan to "learn before you buy."

A very small fraction of the traveling public, wanting to cut an hour and a half to three hours off the flight time to London and four to five hours off the time to Tokyo, will use the SST when it is operational. For these privileged travelers, the government will pay a subsidy estimated as high as $3 billion.

A GROUP of ecological scientists, meeting recently at Williamstown, Mass., warned that 500 SSTs, the estimate for 1990, would deposit in the airless, windless stratosphere enough water vapor and particles of sulphur dioxide, hydrocarbons and soot to raise the temperature by 6 to 7 degrees centigrade. The deposit would be 10 times greater over the northern hemisphere, where SST traffic would be heaviest.

The scientists phrased their warning carefully, avoiding any prediction of doomsday. They did say, however, that the consequences of this newest invader of man's million-year-old environment are unknown and unpredictable.

THE TWO senators from Wisconsin, Gaylord Nelson and William Proxmire, lead the opposition. Proxmire chaired a subcommittee calling for rejection of the proposed appropriation of $290 million on the score that urgent domestic needs had far higher priority than the supersonic plane.

Nelson, who has led the fight on all forms of pollution, will shortly introduce a bill setting rigid standards for both noise and pollution for supersonic planes. Any plane, whether foreign or domestic, that could not meet these standards would not be permitted to use American airports.

But there is a catch. Nelson's proposed bill must go before the Senate Commerce Committee, of which Sen. Warren G. Magnuson of Washington is chairman. Magnuson and his fellow Washington senator, Henry M. Jackson, are the chief boosters for the SST.

Employment at the Boeing plant in Seattle is down to 50,000, less than half of what it was two years ago. Under Boeing's contract for the SST, $708 million has already been spent. With completion of the prototype and successful testing, the company would go on to sell airlines around the world.

WHATEVER the objective case for the SST, as set out in the hard sell of the Transportation Department, there is a stout political wind behind it. Jackson has put the Nixon administration deeply in his debt by, among other things, helping to put over Senate approval of the second phase of the Safeguard antiballistic missile system. Boeing recently got a contract for an airborne warning and controls system, a kind of flying defense early warning line, ultimately to cost $2 billion.

The dark suspicion is growing in the Senate that the goodies on the Pentagon Christmas tree are being handed out as rewards for services rendered.

Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine is enraged that a $2.1 billion contract for 30 destroyers went lock, stock and barrel to Litton in Mississippi, with no share for the Bath Iron Works in her state. Her charges of hanky-panky in the letting of the contract were brushed off by the Department of Justice.

All this could sway enough defectors to kill the SST. The appropriation of $290 million passed the House by a margin of only 16 votes. But jealousies and suspicions aside, the doubts of the scientists are a powerful deterrent. And the havoc already created by the poisons loosened into the environment in the pursuit of profit, and what is sometimes called progress, underscores those doubts.

WINDOW ON THE WORLD

Bombing, Proved Futile, Goes On In Indochina

By FREDERICK NOSSAL Toronto Telegram News Service

HONG KONG — (TNS) — Dropping bombs on an Asian guerrilla army is like trying to kill a mosquito with a machine gun. It is an extremely destructive yet unusually ineffective method of coping with the problem.

In the case of North Vietnam, former president Lyndon Johnson bombed himself out of the White House, but could not bomb Hanoi into submission.

Today, however, the air war in Indochina is proceeding as before, with bombs of all descriptions dropping from the skies.

North Vietnam is relatively immune to the air attack. But people in South Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia must still contend with regular aerial bombardments.

FOR THREE YEARS the United States attempted to bomb many parts of North Vietnam into the Stone Age. According to Hanoi's foreign ministry, in the three years to July, 1968, the United States dropped a greater tonnage of bombs on the 130,000 square miles of North Vietnam than the combined works unleashed on the European, African, Asian and Pacific theaters during World War II.

Unlike North Americans and Europeans, most Asians live on the land and indeed off the land. Years of defoliation campaigns by the U.S. armed forces, millions of dollars worth of poisonous chemicals sprayed over paddy fields, rubber plantations and forests, could not deprive Vietnam's guerrilla armies of the cover and the food they need.

THE FACT IS that an agrarian people, unlike an industrial nation, cannot be bombed into submission. Somehow, the peasants and the guerrilla armies of Asia will survive, and will acquire food and weapons to fight back.

This is true particularly when the war involves a foreign nation. During their invasion of China in the 1930s and 1940s, the Japanese did not have much trouble in subduing the cities. But they could not pacify the countryside.

The same happened in China after the end of World War II when Chiang Kai-Shek's nationalist forces tried to subdue the Communists.

President Johnson thought he could use his army of more than half a million men — supported by aircraft — in the same way you might wield a gigantic broom. This broom would clean South Vietnam of Communists, and after that everything would be fine.

But there were never enough U.S. troops to occupy every little town and village. Whenever the American pulled out, the guerrillas would reappear.

What is more, the peasants hate the Americans even more than the Saigon army because they are foreigners and therefore intruders.

This applies today to South Vietnamese operations in Cambodia as well.

Bombs will never win the war in Indochina, either for the United States or for the military regimes Washington supports.

Speaking Of Communications Gaps- Take A Look At This

The communications gap between the Army Corps of Engineers and the contractors for Phase 3-A of the Corte Madera Creek Flood Control Project appears much wider than the concrete creek bed separating their field offices at College of Marin in Kentfield.

The corps has six full-time employees overseeing the $1.54 million job being done by JB and C Co. of Arizona this year and next year. Since the crew often swells to about 15 including surveyors, and since much bookkeeping and other supervisorial work are involved, the corps is spending at least $55,000 and probably upward of $100,000 to guide the project.

WHAT DOES the money buy? James Wolfe, chief of the construction operations division of the corps, said the corps people watch for mistakes by the contractor and make sure the work meets specifications.

Ronald L. Price, project superintendent for the contractor, said his watchdogs are not averse to resurveying or redoing soil tests.

Why, then, did a water main burst, delaying the work five days? And why did a bank collapse adding an additional five days delay without adequate preventive measures being taken?

The answer appears to be that the ponderous corps decision-making apparatus has not responded fast enough to situations at the creek and has not properly communicated its decisions.

THE CORPS hired the company and has the authority to see that specifications are lived up to and that potentially dangerous situations are corrected.

"If he (the contractor) does make a mistake and we catch it, then we catch it before he makes it," Wolfe said in justifying the close supervision of the corps.

In an Aug. 13 telegram blaming the contractor for the ruptured water main, the corps said JB and C was "dumping, stockpiling and loading gravel material directly on a visible crack paralleling" the creek and water line.

If the corps knew this before the mistake was made, then why wasn't it caught?

NOT CATCHING the delaying problems that have forced the contractor to work 12 hours a day every day may have been an oversight by the corps' supervisors, but their inability to convey even the meaning of a five-day extension to Price indicates how serious the communications gap is.

Wolfe told the Independent-Journal that the project would be evaluated with a Nov. 3 completion date in mind for work to a point 1,800 feet upstream from College Avenue.

Price maintained that he was being forced to stick to his original schedule which called for an Oct. 29 completion date in spite of the five-day extension.

Clearly, the contractor and the Army are not communicating with each other enough for the smooth completion.

Since JB and C will return next year to pave the creek up to a point 200 feet downstream from the Ross Post Office, it would seem wise for the overseer and the builder to begin communicating more effectively.

Innocent Plea To Robbery, Burglary Counts

Larry Cleary Walker, 22, of Marin City pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal court to three counts of armed robbery and one of burglary.

Walker of 31 Cole Drive was rebooked into Marin County Jail Monday after being implicated in a July 11 hold-up of three men in a Mill Valley home.

He was already in jail for violation of parole.

One other man is awaiting trial and a third is awaiting sentencing after pleading guilty to assault with a deadly weapon.

Police said $1,235 was taken from Kenneth M. Stevens of 85 Tamalpais Avenue, Mill Valley, and two guests after three armed men forced their way into the Stevens' home and tied the occupants.

ART BUCHWALD

When Mother Nature Lay Dying, She Had Nothing To Leave

MARTHA'S VINEYARD, MASS. — The other night I was home reading a book when I received a telephone call that Mother Nature was dying. I dressed hurriedly and rushed over to the hospital. A lot of people had gotten there before me and they were all sitting in the waiting room crying and wringing their hands. I searched out the doctors, who were in another room having a heated argument as to how to save her. Each doctor seemed to have a different remedy.

One doctor said, "We have to get her some fresh air. She can't breathe. We'll have to turn off the power plant because of the smoke."

"ARE YOU OUT of your mind?" another doctor said. "We turn off the power, and she'll freeze to death."

"Perhaps we could keep all cars away from the hospital," "That would relieve her breathing."

"Out of the question," a fourth doctor barked. "How would we get back and forth to work if we prohibited cars near the hospital?"

"Gentlemen," another doctor said, "I don't believe it's the air that is hurting her as much as the water. We have to find some water that's drinkable. Strong measures must be taken immediately against polluting the hospital water."

THE DIRECTOR said, "Where would we get the money to support the hospital if we closed down the factories because they're polluting the streams?"

"We'd also have to give up detergents," a doctor added, "and we can't have a clean hospital if you give up detergents."

"Isn't anybody going to do anything?" I shouted.

They saw me for the first time and one of the doctors said angrily, "We're sorry, this is a medical conference for professionals only. Would you kindly leave?"

I WALKED OUT and down the hall. Suddenly I saw a closed room, which had the name Mother Nature handprinted on the door. Underneath it, in large red letters, was another sign: NO VISITORS.

No one was in the hall, so I opened the door. There was Mother Nature propped up on pillows. She looked old and tired and haggard. I couldn't believe anyone could have changed so much in 10 short years. But she seemed glad to see someone and smiled weakly.

"Hi, Ma," I said. "You're looking swell."

"You wouldn't kid a very sick lady, would you?" she said, gasping.

"No, I'm not kidding. You look wonderful. I've just been talking to the doctors and they say they'll have you on your feet in no time."

"THOSE QUACKS don't know anything," she said. "All they do is come in every few hours and take my temperature and give me something to relieve the pain. I think I've had it this time."

"Don't talk that way, Ma. You've survived worse things than this before."

"It's never been this bad," she said, and then started having a coughing fit. "This time the grim reaper's coming to get me."

"But if you go, we'll all have to go, Ma," I cried. "You have to hold on. Please, Ma!"

I KEPT complaining of pain," she whispered, "but no one would pay attention to me. I said, 'If you keep doing what you're doing I'm going to die.' But everyone said, 'Ma, you'll never die.' Why didn't they listen to me?"

"We're listening now, Ma. We're listening. We have the best doctors in the world. They're out there now, and they have a plan."

"I guess the real thing that hurts," she said, "is that my will won't be worth anything now. I left every person in the world clear water, pure air, green fields, brilliant sunsets and blue skies. It wasn't much, but it was everything I had."

Just then the door opened and a nurse came in. She went over to the bed waving a thermometer.

"Come on, Mother. It's time to take your temperature."

Weed Case To Juvenille Hall

The case of Susan Moore Allen, 18, of Mill Valley, charged with possessing marijuana in Mill Valley Monday, was transferred to Juvenile Hall in Marin Municipal Court yesterday.

Miss Moore of 750 Lovell Avenue was arrested after an unidentified man told police marijuana seeds were under the seat of her car. A responding officer asked her if she had the seeds and she handed him a bag of them, according to police.

She told police she was keeping them for friends.

Here Come The Leather Girls

By JANE ROGERS

London Express Service

Leather, just in case you hadn't already noticed, is now in, as an all-year round, all age group fashion must. So much so that it is becoming the staple item, like wool tweed, on which to base your fashion planning.

The other day when I walked through the fashion department of one of England's leading glossy magazines, I noticed that it smelled just like a tannery — almost all the clothes there waiting to be photographed were made up in leather or suede.

Sensible things to buy in leather are little jackets and waistcoats, overcoats for outdoor wear and even trousers. Stupid things to choose, in my opinion, include anything in really pale suede (it will live at the cleaner's) and dresses made up in leather, because you can't really keep them as clean and fresh as you would like.

Now, in the wake of the leather boys with their black jackets studded with brass, come the leather girls, for the new young crop of designers now graduating are concentrating on leather and suede outfits for the girls who as their boyfriends, are taking to the road now on motorbikes and mopeds.

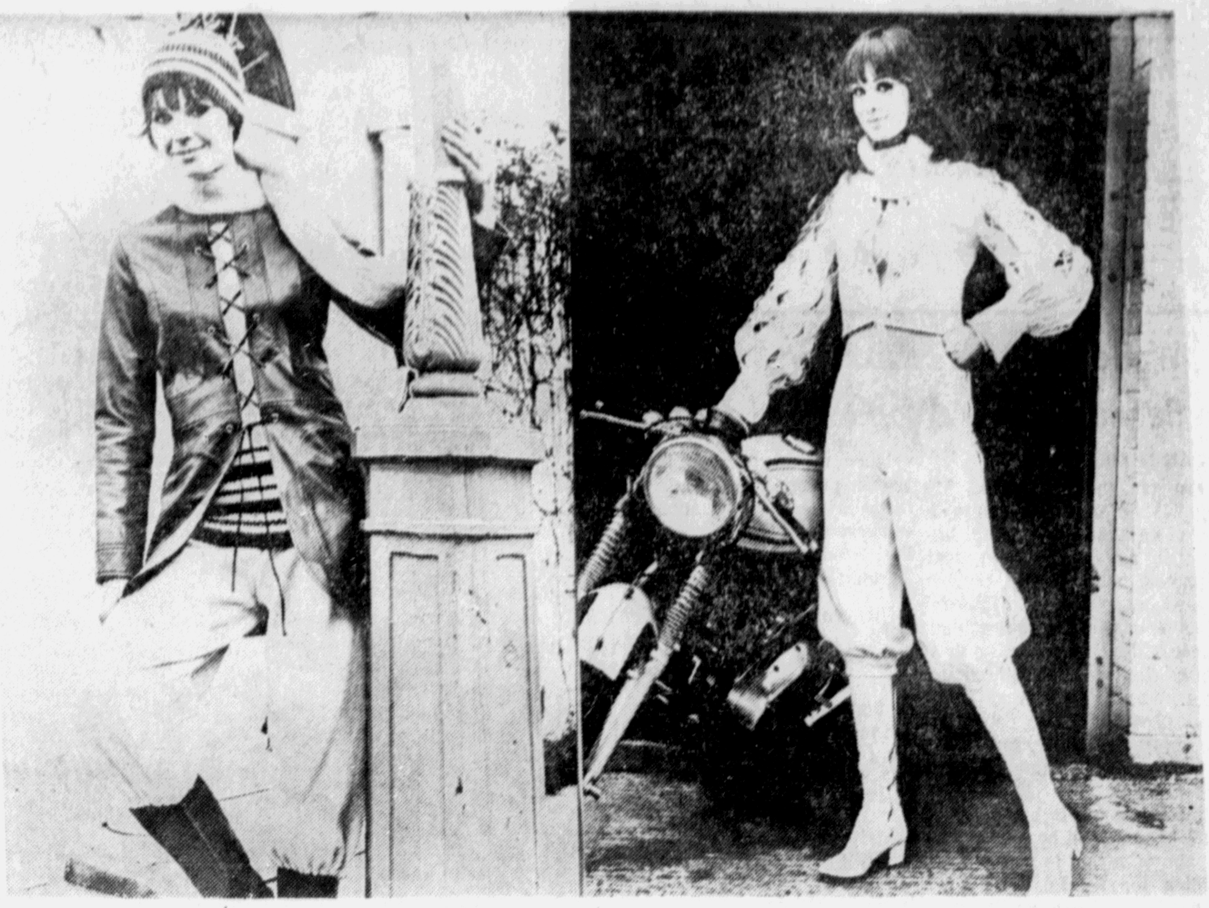

LEATHER LOOKS good with any of the earthy materials, especially wool, and Ann Grannell, a new designer from the Harrow School of Art, designed a russet colored leather jacket with a lace-up front to go with a knicker-bocker suit in hand-knitted wool. The shaping of the jacket was particularly clever because all the seams were curved, to give it a feminine look and the impression of a high waist, which is always flattering.

The knicker-bocker suit has voluminous trousers that finish in an elasticized band just about at boot-top level but are designed to be worn over your boots rather than tucked in them, a much more comfortable idea. To go with the top comes a gay striped cap and a long college scarf, for a very young-look yet up-to-minute outfit.

Anne goes back to Elizabethan times for another knicker-bocker suit made, this time, entirely out of white leather but again with a very feminine appeal about it. Both the sleeves of the jacket and the sides of the knickers are laced up loosely, Tudor style — an effect that looks pretty, rather than practical. But the leather is spongeable, so it should not need cleaning too often.

I particularly liked the little chopped-off jacket that laced up the front and would look equally good worn over a long skirt. Underneath it there is a crepe blouse with a cowl neckline to fill in the gaps between all that lacing.

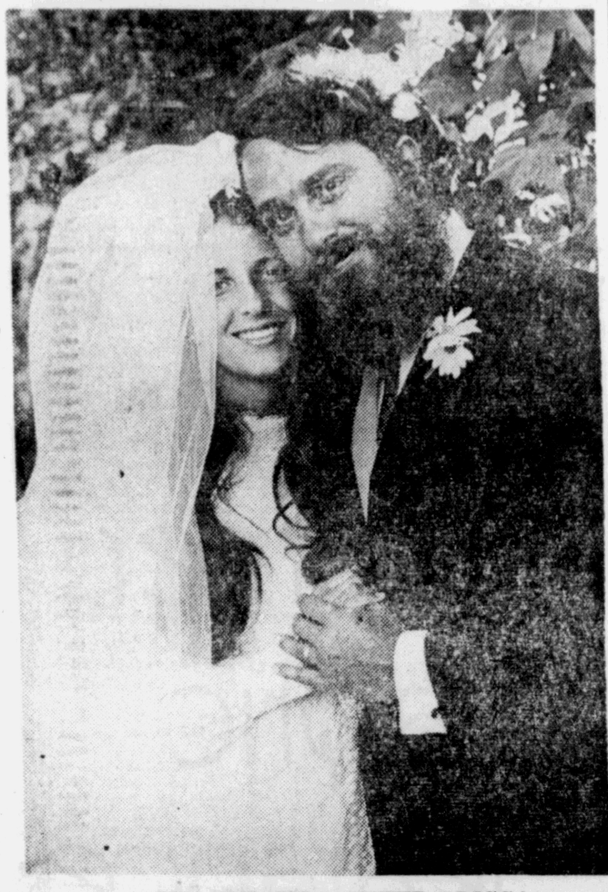

IF YOU haven't already taken to leather, both these outfits may seem far too extreme for you, but they are a signpost to the way that fashion is going, and just what you can do with leather and suede. Meanwhile do, at least, treat yourself to a sleeveless cardigan in suede or, if you're really good at dressmaking — why not try making one up for yourself? Lightweight leather is very easy to sew, and if you cut the body of the jacket in it, using an ordinary paper pattern then add knitted sleeves to avoid having to do any really tricky shaping, you'll have something that is bang up to date and very individual at the same time.

MR. AND MRS. PETER BRICCA

Peter S. Bricca Weds Karen Singer In Ross

The garden of the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Bricca in Ross was the setting for the marriage of their son, Peter Stuart Bricca, to Karen Gay Singer of Greenwich, Conn., on Saturday afternoon.

Karen is the daughter of Mrs. Robert D. Singer of Greenwich and the late Mr. Singer.

The reception also was held in the garden of the Bricca home and afterward the newlyweds left on a Lake Tahoe wedding trip.

The bride attended Redwood High School when her family lived in Tiburon and was graduated from high school in Greenwich and she has attended the University of Oregon. Karen has two brothers, Dan and Tom Singer, of Greenwich.

Peter is a graduate of Redwood High School and the University of Oregon. He is the grandson of Mrs. Stuart Moser of Pebble Beach.

Both Karen and Peter will take VISTA training in Boulder, Colo., beginning Sept. 16.

Creating Elizabethan Foods Fair Task For Mrs. Cooksey

Eating and baking in the Merrie Olde Dayes of Elizabethan England were a festive, often flamboyant feature of daily life. The bakers, chefs and innkeepers of Renaissance times were known for their gastronomical masterpieces.

Thanks to Mrs. Susan Cooksey, catering coordinator (Gude Foode Wench), equally festive gourmandizing will be available at the Renaissance Pleasure Faire and Ha'penny Market to be staged all four weekends of September, including Queen Elizabeth's Birthday Sept. 7, in the Hidden Wood near San Rafael.

Some 72,000 Faire-goers are expected to attend the nine days of the Faire — most arriving early and staying all day —so appetites grow sharp. The task of providing authentic Renaissance food to huge numbers of people and offering them variety of fare from many lands of that period falls on Susan Cooksey.

Behind her is a stint managing a food booth at the Los Angeles area Faire last May — but it is quite a jump from one booth to total reponsibility for feeding staff and visitors alike for nine days, with many visitors eating two meals — or more or less continually.

Behind this catering coordinator who tackles fantastic logistical as well as culinary problems with aplomb, is some knowledge of the restaurant business acquired working with friends who have restaurants. At the southern Faire she managed a food booth representing two Eastern men who have a Westwood gourmet restaurant called the Cafe Four Oaks. This is how she came into real contact with Ron and Phyllis Patterson, creators of the Faires. Before, she had helped at earlier Faires with others' food booths, but had had none of her own.

LAST MAY she offered Greek food dishes. She discovered that many of the people who came to the Faire were vegetarians, so for them produced a summer frute soupe, traditional in medieval Europe and still enjoyed today.

She says there are no exact measurements or ingredients for this; just let yourself go creative and it will be good. Blend various fruit juices of your choice, adding cinnamon, nutmeg, cardamon and other spices; lemon juice, and a box of raisins. Heat to a boil; this is what makes the raisins expand, releasing their fruit sugar, and sweetening and thickening the "soupe."

This year the foods will be more varied than ever before, but according to the research no Olde English "gooye" was quite as popular as the pye.

Its history actually started with the Romans, who learned pastry-making from Egypt. A piping pye, or pasty, was originally made with meat or fish. Fruit pyes appeared in about 1600. According to one tale, the fruit pye was an invention of Queen Elizabeth herself, who wanted to make use of a gift of preserved cherries. The Queen had a sweet tooth and an appetite which was notorious. For one royal feast, 104 peacock pyes were served.

Henry VIII also was legendary for his love of pyes. At his Christmas dinner, he might have seal pye with his fish course, venison pye containing whole haunches of deer and then a veal pye highly spiced. All this, of course, in addition to the many puddings and roasts, and desserts of sweet pastries, perfumed fruits and candied flowers.

SUSAN THINKS modern hostesses might build fantastic varties around recreation of some legendary pyes which seem to have been historic — those four and twenty blackbirds that did indeed hop from a pye — and others holding live frogs and a court jester!

So what can the Faire goer expect when hunger strikes? Throughout the fairgrounds beef and pork pyes will be plenty and the feasting varied. Bangers and mash (English sausage on a stick with mashed potato) — grilled ribs, thousands of chicken legs, lamb or vegetarian shish-kabobs, Swedish stew served with pickled beets and marinated salmon from an ancient Swedish recipe will be hot and ready for the famished visitor.

More exotic fare such as piroshki from Russia, falafel from the Middle East, halvah, four kinds of baklava from Greece and Armenia, will vie with Banberry tartes and Wayfarers' Bredes for flavor. There will be pumpkin, carrot and orange date bread, ginger men and ginger bread castles.

Churros from Spain will be offered, along with cheese and sausages, exotic coffee and bagels, Merrydown meade, lemonade and cider, orange, ginger and gooseberry wine, and beer,

WOMEN BECOMING VETS

An increasing number of women in West Germany are taking up a career in veterinary medicine and they now make up 5.6 per cent of West German veterinarians. It requires eight years of training and internship in West Germany, and most of the women vets specialize in treating smaller animals, such as the guinea pigs shown here.

Dominican College To Offer Lecture Series

In response to the interest of Marin women who want to return to college, Dominican College will present a second series of eight faculty lectures on a central theme.

The semester's theme is "Modern Man: Victim or Hero." Sessions are scheduled on eight Wednesdays from 10 a.m. to noon from Sept. 9 to Dec. 2 in the library on the San Rafael campus.

The continuing education program will explore through contemporary literature the role of man in a century of transition, in a time of revolution, under ogranized power, in a condition caused by mechanization.

The lectures and group discussions will be based on seven books including works by Hemingway, T.E. Lawrence, Sartre, Osamu Dazai, Ken Kesey, R. Buckminister Fuller and Flannery O'Connor.

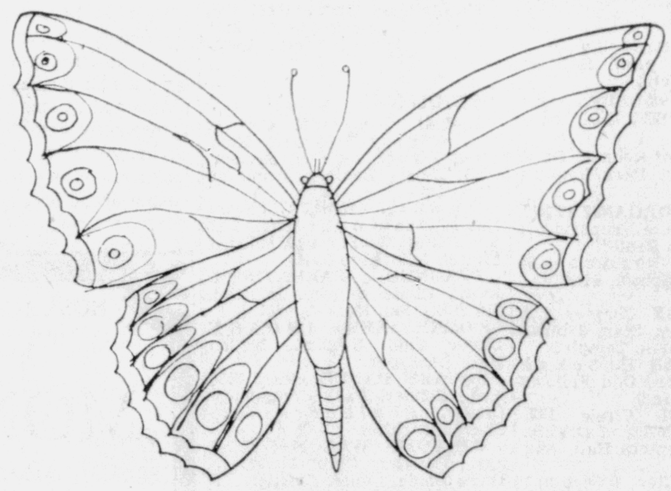

Listed as English 129, the one-unit course is open to any interested woman. Credit is optional. Students may register at the College before the course or at the first session next Wednesday.

PRESS GUIDE IS AVAILABLE

A guide for press chairmen of organizations interested in getting news to the Marin Women's Section of the Independent Journal is available at the San Rafael main office and the Novato, Mill Valley and Southern Sonoma I-J offices.

The booklet, "Getting News Into Your Newspaper," is issued as a service of the Independent-Journal Women's Section to assist press chairmen for women's organizations.

This is a thing that flutters.

We have things that flutter, too. All kinds of things from day-dresses to dancedresses. And the reason is very simple. All those hard mean architectural fabrics of recent fashion years are giving way to new fluttering fabrics. To quivering matte jerseys. And slinky crepes. To knits. And to new fabrics that look so much like silk even a silkworm doesn't know for sure. Like to flutter a little yourself? And feel unconstrained? And free? And very very female? Then see us. Soon. And ask to see our things-that-flutter collection.

Wedding Won't Be Worthwhile Because They Won't Send Gifts

DEAR HELEN:

I'm the third daughter. My sisters had big weddings with lots of gifts, and I found out later that neither of them sent thank-you notes. Really, they're spoiled brats.

It's only human nature that people will stop giving gifts to a family that doesn't appreciate them. When I graduated from high school, I only received a few presents, compared with my sisters' loot. Same reason, probably.

Now I'm going to be married and I know it will be the same. I'm almost afraid to plan a big wedding for fear no one will come. I probably won't get enough presents to make it worthwhile.

Is there any way to let people know I'm not like my sisters and I'll thank them for wedding gifts? — ABOUT TO BE SLIGHTED AGAIN

DEAR ATBSA:

We-e-ll you can't exactly add to the invitations, "P.S. I'm very prompt about thank-you notes."

If you're the different one friends and relatives may be generous in their response, but if you're planning a big wedding only because the loot will make it worthwhile I'd suggest an elopement instead. A practical-minded gal like you would scarcely enjoy an affair that might not break even. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm 16 and have two sisters and two brothers.

When my oldest brother was born, my parents took pictures galore. They bought him everything. Then my older sister got almost the same plush treatment.

Two years later I came along, and my folks only took a couple of pictures. I've had to wear hand-me-downs all my life.

When my sister went to her senior prom a big fuss was made. After her graduation, we celebrated with a dinner out. Dad stood in the aisle and photographed the whole ceremony.

This year it was my turn. You guess it: Ho-hum time. No pictures for my prom. I got a new dress only because my sister's wouldn't fit. On my graduation, Dad took only one picture which didn't turn out. Afterwards, we went to dinner, but he didn't join us.

DEAR LONELY:

No, Honey, you're a repetition — a victim of the second time around "blahs" which parents often show without even knowing it. They love you just as much, but only the firsts of a first-born son or daughter have the special newness that turns a father into a fatuous photographer and a mother into sentimental jelly.

You won't fully understand this until you have several children of your own. And then I hope you look back to the slights you felt, and make sure each grows up aware that he is as important as the first. — H.

(P.S. Our youngest, Sue reading over my shoulder says if I don't fix hamburgers and fries for dinner she will tell the world about the Bottel family albums — pictures by thousands of our No. 1 son; hundreds for No. 2; dozens for our next-to-last daughter; and — well, excuse me while I go shop for buns and mustard. — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

stout and ale, yogurt with honey and canteloupes. The sweet tooth will be appeased with chunk chocolate if one prefers something simple.

SIMPLICITY AND natural wholesome foods are Susan's consuming interest, and responsible for much innovation in foods offered at the fair.

Back in Los Angeles, where she makes her home most of the year, Susan experiments with organic gardening, growing plants and raising animals. She is presently considering an experiment in catering with a partner, the idea being to teach people about organic foods and how to use them on a mass basis.

At her house there are 17 varieties of fern nurtured by a friend, and 14 varieties of African violets she tends herself. With her 11-year-old son Jon, Susan goes in for camping, hiking, swimming, and teaching small children everything from art to trampoline.

She anticipates parent activities at Harvard School for Boys in Los Angeles, where Jon has earned a scholarship to start seventh grade this September. He has already developed an interest in anthropology and archeology, while Susan likes to restore antique cards — and now and then turn out a pie strictly from "scratch."

As "Gude Foode Wench," Susan sees to it the Renaissance Pleasure Faire has variety in its pyes — including onion pye, for which a recipe follows, blackbird pye, and the Banbury Tart, which is a pastry crust tucked with a mixture of raisins, nuts, lemon juice, dried fruits and other ingredients.

Use one 9 inch pie shell.

Ingredients for filling: 2 medium onions sliced or chopped, 1 C. white sauce made with whole wheat flour, 1 C. shredded Monterey Jack or Cheddar Cheese (sharpness according to taste); Parsley to cover filling; 1 T. nutmeg, white pepper, garlic salt, paprika.

Instructions for filling: Saute onions until tender. Mix with white sauce and spices; except paprika. Pour into pie shell in layers, alternating with cheese. Plan this so cheese forms the top layer. Top with parsley and paprika. Bake for 15 minutes in medium oven (about 350°).

Author Predicts New Values For Humanity

The ecology fad may be passing, but necessariy attention to but necessary attention to ecology will produce "ecological man," significantly different from the "civilized man" produced by the last 15 centuries, Marin County teachers were told today.

George B. Leonard of Mill Valley, author of "Education and Ecstacy" and west coast editorial manager of Look magazine, in his keynote speech at the fall teachers' institute predicted: "We are moving toward ecological man."

He suggested that "ecological man" may turn out to be closer to paleolithic man than to the highly civilized man of today.

"Paleolithic man was in touch with the results of his actions," declared Leonard. Civilized man is not, he said, but has become "a component in a machine."

The writer-editor suggested that many basic values of western culture will have to be discarded as man makes the adaption to his surroundings necessary to save the world. Among them, he listed competition "a very ineffective way of motivating"), acquisition, aggression, and "cold, detached observation." This last, he said, must give way to "feeling involvement," for "the idea of the detached observer is definitely a false idea."

"Just to save our world," said the speaker, "we all of us are going to have to go through significant changes in the kind of people we are."

"The new consciousness," he declared, will cause mankind to emerge from "the long, dark age called civilization."

In attempting to establish rapport with his audience, Leonard asked for a show of hands to a series of questions. One of them asked how many had participated in encounter groups. About 40 per cent raised their hands.

The institute, attended by teachers from all the smaller school districts in Marin County, was opened in the College of Marin Theater and Fine Arts Building by Virgil S. Hollis, county superintendent of schools. He asked the teachers to ponder the question, "Do you perceive your role as a guide or a leader?"

After Leonard's keynote speech, the teachers divided into sectional workshop meetings which continued throughout the day.

Castro May Come To U.N.

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)— Cuban Premier Fidel Castro sent word to the United Nations Wednesday either he or President Osvaldo Dorticos would come to the U.N. 25th anniversary observance Oct. 14-24.

But sources close to the Cuban delegation expressed doubt Castro would be the Cuban representative to deliver a speech in the U.N. General Assembly Oct. 23.

Word of Cuba's decision to take part in the celebration was in a note from Castro to the United Nations.

New Voters Not Stating Preferences

A marked increase in the number of newly registered voters in Marin who declined to state a political party preference was reported today by elections officials.

The percentage of persons who declined to state a party choice was 3.5 per cent statewide for the June primary eleciton, but some 10 per cent of more than 3,000 new Marin registrants have declined to state a party.

The new registration figures, certain to hit a record for Marin, also showed that Democrats were narrowing the lead in Republican registration, reported Peter C. Meyer, county elections officer.

DEADLINE NEAR

The deadline to register is at midnight next Thursday. More than 500 deputy registrars are combing the county for new voters.

The county elections office in the Civic Center will be open to 9 p.m. tomorrow, Tuesday and Thursday. Monday and Wednesday are legal holidays.

Citizens also may register at city halls, fire houses, some pharmacies and at political campaign offices.

Democratic headquarters will be open until 10 p.m. Tuesday through Thursday for registration at 188 East Blithedale Avenue in Mill Valley and at 7368 Redwood Highway in Novato. Republican headquarters in San Rafael will dispatch deputy registrars to the home of anyone telephoning the headquarters to register.

A JUMP SEEN

Meyer predicted that at least 98,000 would be registered in Marin, a jump from the previous record of 96,695 set in the 1968 general election. More than 96,000 already are registered, up from 92,956 in the June primary election.

Democratic registration apparently has gained 10 per cent, he said. Democratic registration for the June election was 41,989, and Republican registration was 45,287.

Tricia, Escort Take Vacation

Miss Nixon, 24, wearing a long blonde fall, was escorted by Cox, 23, a Harvard law student, to pay a farewell call on the President before they left.

Miss Nixon has spent most of her free vacation time with Cox this summer in New York and on Long Island. In line with her wishes for privacy, the White House declined to say that she had a houseguest — Cox — during her recent stay here.

Judge Orders Board To Re-Hire Teacher

Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court late yesterday issued a writ of mandate ordering Lagunitas School District to reemploy Richard Plant, eighth grade teacher who once resigned and then withdrew his letter of resignation.

The order was issued on application of A. Leonard Bjorklund Jr., attorney for Plant. It followed a hearing on Plant's contest against what he contended was illegal discharge.

Plant was one of four teachers whose resignations were considered during a closed session of the Lagunitas School District board last March 9. After the closed session, the board announced no action had been taken at it.

Plant subsequently submitted a letter asking that his resignation be withdrawn. But at a May 19 meeting, the board amended the minutes of the March 9 session to show that the four resignations had been accepted during the closed session. This change of minutes was the basis of Plant's successful challenge.

Group Asks End To Autos In City

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Stop freeway building, increase bridge tolls, tax off-street parking heavily and stop building public garages.

Those are just some of the demands of San Francisco Tomorrow, a youthful group that opposes automobiles because it says they are responsible for the city being "remorselessly destroyed as a place to live."

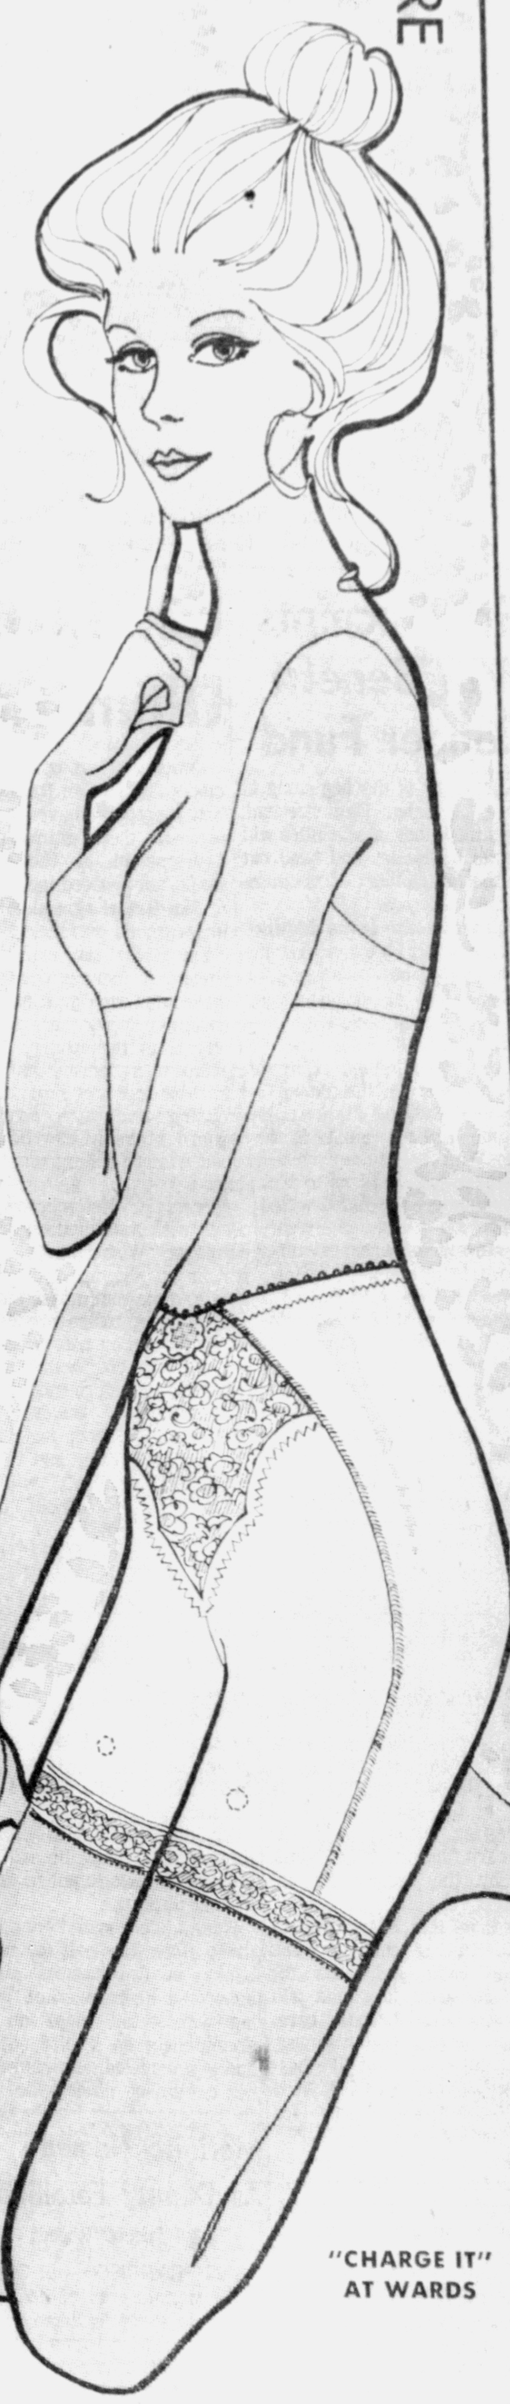

Other suggestions at a Wednesday news conference for changing some streets from one-way to two-way, for tax laws aimed at discouraging San Francisco families from owning more than one car, and for using gasoline taxes for public transportation.

HEAD-ON MISTAKE

Walt Disney character Mowgli gets his signals crossed while learning to march with a baby elephant. The two star in a new Disney all-cartoon comedy adventure, "The Jungle Book." Phil Harris, Sebastian Cabot, Louis Prima, George Sanders, Sterling Holloway, J. Pat O'Malley and Bruce Reitherman provide the voices. The feature is playing with "The Love Bug" at the Rafael Theater in San Rafael. Daily matinees are at 1:30 p.m.

Gas Receipts Will Benefit Cancer Fund

Tomorrow is the beginning of the Long Labor Day weekend, when thousands of Marinites will gas up their cars and head out for the last holiday of the summer.

Tomorrow also is the day that service stations across the county will donate two cents for every gallon of gasoline they sell to a special American Cancer Society fund.

About 100 stations, many of them members of the Marin Independent Service Stations Association, will participate in the drive. With the money raised, the cancer society plans to kick off the home care fund, which will provide outpatient treatment for marin cancer victims who ordinarily couldn't afford it.

The service station association, according to president Donald E. Skilling, got the idea several months ago after one of its members, Edward F. (Ted) Harris, owner of a Mill Valley Station, died of cancer.

"Our group," Skilling said, wanted people to look beyond the banners in front and the tires piled up. Then Ted died and another member's kid became ill with cancer, so we thought this project was natural."

The association picked Friday, Skilling said, "Because it's one of the busiest days of the year. We hope to raise several thousand dollars this way."

Nina Brandt, executive director of the Marin branch of the cancer society, said the home care fund will be administered by the society for all marinites.

"We hope this will enable us to say, 'yes, of course,' when someone calls and asks for help," she said. The fund will cover the cost of home care, such as cooking and cleaning, and special equipment like hospital beds and wheelchairs. "There's a crying need for something like this in Marin," she said.

Skilling said that "it's the first time we've tried anything like it. We want to get the scope of the response."

If the project, called "Fuel Up to Fight Cancer," is a success, the service station association is hoping to repeat it next year. Participating service stations are displaying large green and red signs in their windows, and about 140 stations in Marin County have agreed to take part, Skilling said.

Courthouse Parking Ultimatum Dropped

Owners of an option to purchase the old San Rafael Courthouse property have apparently dropped their ultimatum that development of the property would not proceed until the City of San Rafael agreed to finance underground parking.

San Rafael real estate broker Robert A. Roumiguiere, one of three men who paid $38,000 for an option to purchase the property from the county, told the Independent-Journal this week that development plans are proceeding and that courthouse square probably can be developed without underground parking.

Ernest N. Kettenhofen, who along with Roumiguiere and I-J publisher Wishard A. Brown purchased the option Feb. 10, said in June that unless San Rafael financed underground parking, "the option will be defaulted and the courthouse will be returned to the county."

Roumiguiere, however, said this week the group is trying t keep plans flexible and that dc velopment probably will pro ceed with or without under ground parking.

It is not economically feasible for private industry to construc the underground facility, hc said, which is about the same thing San Rafael City Mgr. James H. McCown said about the city doing it.

It would cost from $1.5 million to $2 million to build an underground facility, McCown said, and "the city just doesn't have the money."

The city is willing to help with development plans, he said, but will not be able to put in underground parking.

Roumiguiere said development plans now call for major banks on two corners of the square, a highrise office building with retail shops on the ground floor on a third corner, and a remodeled courthouse annex containing office space; remaining on the fourth.

About one half of the square block would remain landscaped open space, Roumiguiere said.

The ground floor stores, he said, would be specialty shops, adding that the group wanted the square "to be a delightful place to go to . . . a place that will be fun to go to."

He said the three will probably ask the Marin County Board of Supervisors for an extension of the Nov. 10 deadline for payment of the remainder of the $767,000 total price of the property to allow them to complete development plans.

Meanwhile, subcommitees of the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce Civic Affairs Committee, which have been studying various issues concerning development of the square — including traffic flow and parking — will report at a 4 p.m. meeting Sept. 17 at San Rafael City Hall.

'The Great White Hope' To Be Opener

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— "The Great White Hope," the 20th Century screening of the hit play about heavyweight king Jack Johnson, will open this year's San Francisco Film Festival Oct. 21.

The announcement was made jointly today by Claude Jarman, executive director of the event, and Richard D. Zanuck, president of 20th-Century Fox.

Jarman called it "the most outstanding opening night film we have had in our 14 year history."

This year's festival has been moved from the Masonic Auditorium to the 1,000-seat Palace of Fine Arts Theatre.

"The Great White Hope" stars James Earl Jones and Jane Alexander, both of whom are expected in person opening night. Both performers were awarded Tony awards as Broadway's finest performers for their roles in the play.

Behr Asks Earlier Start On Vallejo Freeway Link

I-J Secial Reort

VALLEJO — Peter H. Behr, Republican nomineee for the state Senate in the Fourth District, yesterday called for early construction of a freeway to replace Highway 37 from Sears Point to Vallejo.

Construction is not scheduled until fiscal 1976-77, Behr said, adding it would take two years to complete the job.

The Mill Valleyan pledged that if elected he would work to have the roject done sooner.

Behr, speaking before the Vallejo Kiwanis Club, termed the present two-lane roadway a "killer" route. In 1969 alone, he said, there were 169 accidents with three killed and 62 injured on the 7.4-mile stretch between the Napa River and the Sonoma County line.

In the past four and a-half years, he said, 27 persons have died on the road in auto accidents.

The route carries more than 20,000 vehicles a day, Behr said.

He also supported a proposal by the California Highway Patrol to require headlights during the day along the 9.8-mile section from the Napa River to Route 121 in Sonoma.

Assemblyman Reports License Plate Theft

Someone took the license plate from his car, Assemblyman William T. Bagley of 1010 B Street, reported yesterday to San Rafael police.

Theft of the front license plate A-7 happened between 10 p.m. last Friday and 10 p.m. Saturday, but was not reported by Bagley until yesterday. The license was taken from his 1965 model green Chevrolet Impala while parked on Fifth Avenue just west of H Street.

Family And Pet Together Again

The Alex Bosia family of 370 Calle de la Mesa, Novato, whose dog was picked up by the Marin County Humane Society Saturday, were reunited with their pet after Warren Lockhart of 93 Calypso Shores, Novato, read about the lost dog.

John Gill of the Marin County Humane Society said that their officer had picked up two black Labrador dogs Saturday. The Humane Society made a mistake and gave Lockhart the wrong one, he said.

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

An offer to buy 100 acres in Marin for a permanent center of Elizabethan arts will be made in a few days by the sponsors of the annual Renaissance Pleasure Faire.

"We are very close to a particular property, and will make our offer in the next few weeks," the Independent-Journal was told by Phyllis Patterson. She and her husband, Ronald, began putting on the fair in Los Angeles in 1963, a venture that has grown into a full-time business.

The ranch property "has good freeway access, which is important to the board of supervisors," she said. The supervisors have objected in past years that the heavy crowds visiting the fair block use of county roads.

She declined to say where the property was, except to indicate it was between San Rafael and Novato. It has a bay forest, with a heavy growth of laurel trees "to make it dark and mysterious and interesting with lots of gnarled trees," she said.

The permanent center, which someday could represent an investment of several million dollars, Mrs. Patterson said, will be bought by one of the two corporations she and her husband head.

The purchase will be made by Theme Events, a profit-making corporation, while the proposed educational arm of the center will be operated by the Renaissance Center, a nonprofit corporation.

The nonprofit corporation, according to records filed with the California attorney general's office, had accumulated $78,850 by the end of 1969. Publicity for the annual fairs held both in Marin and Los Angeles stresses that the fairs will sponsor the Renaissance Center, the nonprofit corporation, in order to promote the plan for a permanent center.

Each fair takes in about $200,000, Mrs. Patterson acknowledged. The $400,000 take, however, is offset by costs of about $300,000, she said. The Pattersons are paid regular salaries by Theme Events, she noted, and do not take a percentage of the income.

She declined to elaborate on the finances of Theme Events, saying "it is not anyone's business. It's a legitimate business, and there's no reason to go into that anymore than there would be for any other business."

Mrs. Patterson said that Theme Events also does consulting work on other recreational events, such as one put on by the City of Los Angeles, and that the annual fair was just one of many projects it works on throughout the year.

She said that the nonprofit corporation, the Renaissance Center, originally was formed in 1938 to build the permanent center, but new federal tax laws had made it impossible to use this corporation for this purpose.

If the offer on the 100-acre property is successful, Mrs. Patterson said, then the 1971 fair will be held there.

Construction of permanent facilities then would be "not too many years in the future," she said. Development costs would be shared with "a recreational group with a conservation orientation," she said. She declined to elaborate on what kind of group this may be.

Her husband added that "a whole series of events" would use the property until permanent facilities are built. He said that potential investors had not been lined up. "We've got to get the land first," he said.

Mrs. Patterson noted that she and her husband had looked "at almost every ranch in Marin. We spent most of the year walking," she said, adding that "it takes eight hours to walk 100 acres."

Of the 100 acres, an Elizabethan village would take 10, the permanent fairgrounds would take 25, and 65 acres would be for parking.

"It'll be a total environment of the period, with a very rural atmosphere," she said. "We won't have just plaster walls, but work done by artisans," she said.

"It'll be something like Williamsburg, only on a smaller scale," Mrs. Paterson said.

Financing the project, she concerned, "is going to be very tricky. We'll have to get more money." She declined to say how much money had been set aside by Theme Events for the project, saying making this information public "can hurt us a lot getting a loan."

According to Patterson's plans, the center will have a theater, inns, craft shops, a guildhall, classrooms and a market square.

The 1970 Marin fair, the fourth fair put on in Marin by the Pattersons, will open on Saturday.

College Starting Tot Care Center

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— San Francisco State College is going to have a child care center for students this fall partly because "it will be damned good for marriage," president S.I. Hayakawa says.

Hayakawa, of Mill Valley, announcing the plan Wednesday at a meeting in Eureka of state college presidents, declared that "Having babies should not be a form of slavery" and that the center would permit mature young women to resume their studies.

Of S.F. State's 19,000 students last semester, 3,000 supported youngsters.

The center, to start with an enrollment of 100 in an unused dormitory, will be the mixed responsibility of the college and its Associated Students.

Personal Plates Can Be Ordered

The plates are issued for a fee of $25 in addition to the regular registration fees, with revenue derived from the sale to be placed in the California Environmental Protection Program to fight air pollution and support other environmental programs.

Applicants can order almost any combination of up to six letters or numbers which don't conflict with regular license plates or use offensive language.

Fine, Probation For Fatal Crash

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A 23-year-old Novato man was fined $500 yesterday in superior court, given three years probation and ordered to refrain from the use of alcohol.

William Miley Hall of 15 Manzanita Drive received the sentence after he pleaded no contest on July 17 to a charge of manslaughter.

The California Highway Patrol said Hall's pickup truck crossed the center divider on an approach to the Golden Gate Bridge last Dec. 15, and hit a car head-on, killing William B. Lewis of Fairfax and injuring himself and five others.

Attack Try Is Reported

A 17-year-old San Anselmo girl who was hitchhiking from Novato about 11 p.m. Wednesday reported to the sheriff's department that a man, about 30 years old, who gave her a ride tried to rape her.

The girl said that he turned off Highway 101 at St. Vincent's Drive and when she refused his advances, he told her she would have to walk home.

He then followed her out of the car and grabbed her but she said she fought him and fled. She got a ride to Marinwood where she called the sheriff's department.

Mill Valley Is Observing 70th Birthday Of Founding

A month-long historical exhibit commemorating the 70th anniversary of the founding of Mill Valley opens tomorrow at the Gallery of the Mill Valley Library.

The display traces Mill Valley's history from the early 1800s, when what is now the city was part of the Reed and Richardson ranchos, through the public land auction in 1890, to the incorporation of the city and the first council meeting Sept. 4, 1900.

Early paintings, drawings and photographs and other historical objects will be included in the exhibit. Gallery hours are from 2 to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday. The show will end Sept. 25.

Featured will be a display of memoribilia from the first city council meeting, including the first minutes and the city seal; a working model of an old Mill Valley home and a 10-minute film, "The Mount Tamalpais and Muir Woods Railway," filmed during the descent of the gravity train from the mountaintop to Lytton Square.

The anniversary celebration is being sponsored by the Mill Valley Art Commission, Arts Guild and Library Association and was coordinated by Lucretia H. Little, city historian.

The exhibit contains a collection of rare oils and photographs on loan from the California Historical Society, the Bancroft Library at the University of California and private collectors.

In conjunction with the celebration, more than 40 Mill Valley merchants will feature historical window displays covering the political, economic and cultural history of the city.

Registration Place

The place for registration for part-time and full-time students at the College of Marin has been changed from Olney Hall to the College Center Building from 7 to 8:30 p.m. today, according to publicity director Earlene Jones.

This is the last chance for students to register without paying a penalty, she said. The first day of classes will be Sept. 10.

Marin Suing On Contract Failure

Marin County has filed suit in Marin Superior court against Sears, Roebuck and Company and two other corporations charging failure to live up to a contract for drapes in the Hall of Justice.

The county complaint filed yesterday charged that a $27,700 contract was signed in 1968 with Sears and Fentech Inc. for installation of drapes with a surety bond provided by General Insurance Company of America.

Since installation was never completed, the county is asking $13,269 for damages and extra cost suffered.

The county complaint said that work was started, but never completed because the material was not up to specifications.

In 1939 Great Britain declared war on Germany and France took the same action six hours later, followed quickly by Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and Canada.

Last Trump Not Drawn Until 12th Trick–A Victory Though

In some hands it is necessary to draw trumps to prevent an opponent from ruffing one of your winners. It is not necessary to draw trumps in all hands. It is not necessary to draw all of the trumps even when you do draw some of them. It is not necessary to draw trumps at your first opportunity. Before I put you to sleep with this kind of statement, let me show you a hand in which the last trump is not

WINS IN DUMMY

West leads the queen of diamonds and declarer wins in dummy with the ace. He can afford to draw two rounds of trumps and does so with the king and ace. But South does not draw the last missing trump because he has work for dummy's trumps.

There is first the question of the clubs. Are they, or are they not, solid? South tests the suit by leading a low club from his hand to dummy's king. West's diamond discard makes it clear that East has a natural club trick.

At rubber bridge, South might concede one club and get on to the next hand. If this hand is played in a tournament, howeveither a heart or a club with ertrick. There is no harm in doing so since South's plan does not risk the loss of the slam.

DISCARD CLUB

South must use one of his high hearts to discard a club from dummy. After taking the two top hearts, South ruffs a heart in dummy. Then he takes the ace and queen of clubs and ruffs a club with dummy's last trump. Now South returns to his hand by ruffing a diamond.

South has won the first 11 tricks, and one trump is still out. South can at last afford to draw that trump. And then, he can safely cash his last club to score the overtrick.

HEART OR CLUB

Note that South would lose one trick if he drew three trumps early. He could then ruff either aheart or a club wit dummy's last trump, but he could not ruff both. East would get either a heart or a club trick.

Vic Damone's Wife Suing For Divorce

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Vic Damone's wife Judith sued for divorce Wednesday to end their seven year marriage.

Mrs. Damone, 34, sought custody of their three daughters and the family home in Beverly Hills. The couple was married in Las Vegas, Nev., Oct. 25, 1963 and separated Aug. 22. It was the 42-year-old singer's second marriage.

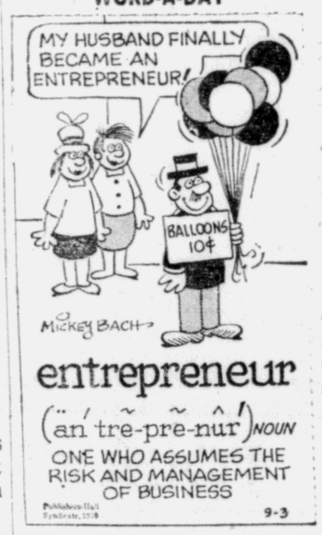

Innocent Plea On Felony Charge

William Armand Muth, 23, of Fairfax has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to a felony charge of battery against a policeman stemming from a fracas in Vina Del Mar Park August 21.

A preliminary hearing was set Tuesday for Sept. 22.

Muth is accused of knocking an officer to the ground who was trying to arrest him for disturbing the peace of playing a guitar "in a loud and obscene manner."

Tall Building Title To Go To Chicago

NEW YORK (UPI)—Chicago soon will wrest from New York the honor of having the world's tallest building. The new Sears Roebuck tower will be 1,450 feet compared with New York's World Trade Center, which will be 1,350.

New York's Empire State building held the title for years at 1,250 feet.

However, industry's big interest in the Sears tower is not in its Height —that only arouses a shrug, nowadays. The interest is in how you use the space in such a structure, according to Larry Lerner of Saphier, Lerner & Schindler, Inc., the Litton industries subsidary that did the space planning for Sears and the architects, Skidmore, Owings & Merrill.

The Sears people told Lerner and the architects they had discovered over the years that the best way to design a big store was to allocate the space for each department with room for expansion, then tell the architects — "put walls around it and engineer it." They decided the same could be done with a skyscraper.

So Lerner had to figure out virtually where every one of the 7,000 people would work and how to expand each department before the architects went to work.

Now Saphier, Lerner & Schindler is busy, again using the computer, drawing detailed layouts, placing every desk, business machine, telephone and every item of furnishings for the 7,000 Sears workers.

The company also will design these furnishings and the decorations.

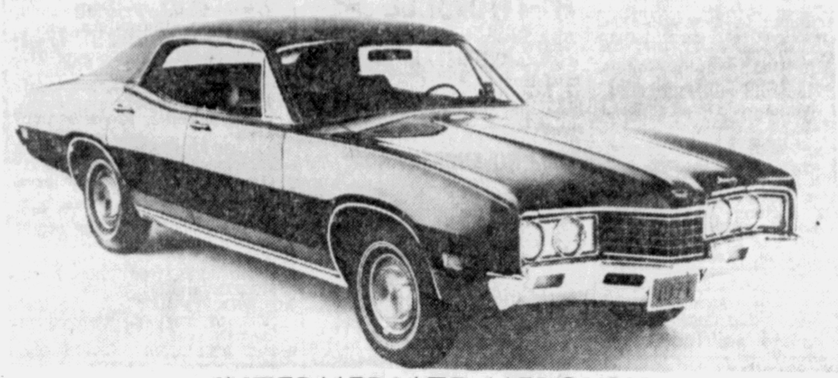

Solid State Division

NEW YORK (UPI) — ILC Industries, Inc., and Solid State Scientific Devices Corp. are negotiating for the purchase by ILC of Solid State's DDC Division. ILC, with headquarter in Dover, Del., is a designer and manufacturer of environmental protective systems and equipment.

PLYMOUTH INTERMEDIATE 1971

Two separate exterior shapes are featured for the 13-model Satellite lineup—one for the four-door sedan shown above and station wagons and one for two-door hardtops. Sedans and wagons have a 117-inch wheelbase, hardtops 115 inches. Cars will go on sale Oct. 6 at Corte Madera Chrysler-Plymouth.

INTERMEDIATE MERCURY

The Montego, Montego MX and the Montego MX Brougham model above have a new front end design with an "egg crate" front grille and argent headlamp doors. Engines range from the 250-cubic inch standard six to a 429-cubic inch V-8. Cars will be offered this month at Marin Bay Lincoln-Mercury, San Rafael, and Larry Brink Motors, Mill Valley.

Market On Plus Side

NEW YORK (UPI) — Belief that the economy is on a recovery path and that interest rates will be coming down soon touched off renewed demand for stocks today following a smart snapback in the glamor group late yesterday. Turnover was brisk.

A four-hour turnover of 10,480,000 shares was well ahead of the 6,840,000 shares which changed hands at a comparable period yesterday.

Point-sized gainers popped up most frequently in the electronics, while motors also attracted demand after moving in reverse gear early in the week.

Some analysts said the threat of an auto strike is expected to hang over the market until Sept. 14, when current contracts expire. Other analysts, however, said they believed the threat wouldn't become serious until the deadline is at hand.

Alan Shaw of Harris, Upham & Co. said the market is presently responding to a number of other items, including belief that interest rates will be coming down shortly and signs that the economy is pulling out of its prolonged slump.

Naval Contract

DALLAS (UPI) — Collins Radio has won a $30 million contract to provide automatically controlled communications equipment for the newly disigned U.S. Navy all-purpose amphibious assault ships. The contract was awarded by the Data System Division of Litton Industries.

Pan Am Bancshare Gets New Interest

MIAMI (UPI) — Pan American Bancshares, Inc. agreed in principle to acquire through an exchange of stock a controlling interest in the First Bank of Plantation, subject to approval by holders of not less than 80 per cent of the bank's outstanding stock.

A bank holding company, Pan American currently controls the Pan American Bank of Miami, Pan American Bank of Dade County and Manufacturers National Bank of Hialeah.

HUGH D. FULLERTON of Terra Linda has been named treasurer of GATX Boothe Corp., a subsidiary of General American Transportation Corp., and assistant treasurer of Armco Boothe Corp., a subsidiary of Armco Steel Corp.

MARLENE L. BADOVICK of San Anselmo has been promoted to senior computer systems officer in the electronic data processing division at Bank of California's San Francisco head office. She joined the bank last year and shortly afterward was named computer systems officer.

INVESTING

Hold Off Trade For A Merger

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I am about to retire and need advice on increasing my income. My holdings are: Boston Edison, Parke-Davis and Shell Oil. Any suggestions would be appreciated. N.

A. Following a well-established pattern of growth, earnings for Boston Edison were up sharply in the first half to $1.79 a share from $1.40 in the 1969 period. In addition the generous 6.9 per cent yield is suited to your investment goal. Although the near-term earnings picture at Shell is less rosy, shares should be held for better-than-average potential and adequate dividend return. If two very attractive merger proposals were not in the offing I would suggest selling Parke-Davis. These, however alter the picture considerably. A proposal from Revlon was rejected by directors of the drug company in favor of a more lucrative offer from Warner-Lambert. The loss you now have in these shares would be significantly narrowed if the merger is accepted by shareholders. For each Parke-Davis share held you would receive 0.4428 share of Warner-Lambert and based on recent trading levels this places a value on your shares 37 per cent greater than you could now realize by selling.

Q. We have invested in Bell Telephone of Pennsylvania and Northern Natural Gas bonds paying more than 8 per cent. I am afraid we might lose our money. Would U.S. Treasury Notes be safer? L. P.

A. Bonds issued by Bell System members carry the highest (AAA) rating, second only to Treasury issues in safety and can be held without fear of loss. The A-rating assigned to Northern Natural Gas bonds indicates that principal and income are considered secure.

CARPET CLEANING CARPET CLEANING

include
Hagel Steam
Soil, Dirt, and Spots—EXTRACTED
Not Scrubbed deeper — That's the BIG Difference.

1. GENTLE, THOROUGH CLEANING . . . removes the dirt and soil from the carpet pile. The old shampoo method scrubs it in deeper. We use no brushes or harsh chemicals to damage your carpet pile.
2. CARPET PILE BEAUTIFIED . . . the cleaning agent, coupled with the wet steam and the powerful extraction process lift the matted pile, restoring color and texture to a really clean carpet.
3. CONTROLLED MOISTURE . . . carpet shrinkage is minimized because of the fast drying resulting from the powerful extraction process.
4. MOTH PROOFED AND DIRT RETARDED . . . every fibre of your carpet is coated with moth proofing and a dirt retardant during the cleaning process.
5. CARPET MAINTENANCE COSTS REDUCED . . . because thoroughly cleaned carpets wear much longer, and thus the need for frequent cleaning is reduced.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Van Dellen

The ankle, a perfect hinge joint, is damaged more often than any other joint. The structure moves up and down without difficulty, but it has a limited range of motion to the side. One step too far in either direction throws the entire weight of the body upon the joint and creates unusual strain on the ligaments along the inner or outer side of the ankle.

The most common origin of a sprain or fracture is taking a misstep, causing the foot to invert suddenly under force of the body weight. This is likely to happen when walking over an irregular terrain, catching a heel on a stair or stepping into a hole. Women add to the hazard with narrow heels and men with runover heels.

WHEN THE ANKLE is twisted, the ligaments on its outer side are stretched or torn. This is a true sprain, and marked pain and swelling follow. Some of the puffiness results from internal hemorrhage that ensues when the tissues are torn. The skin may turn black and blue within 24 hours. Distress may be so disabling the sufferer hobbles and winces with each step.

In more extensive damage, the tendons tear completely, or the bone may break. These injuries are more serious.

THE VICTIM of a sprained or broken ankle should lie down and elevate the foot. Applying cold or ice packs for an hour or more minimizes swelling and helps control the internal bleeding. An X-ray is suggested to determine whether a fracture has occurred. Thereafter, the part is immobilized. One simple and satisfactory method for a minor sprain is to tape the entre ankle and lower leg.

A PLASTER CAST is needed for a more serious injury. The surgeon usually incorporates a caliper or heel into the bottom of the cast so that the individual may be up and about without bearing weight on the injured ankle. A nonadhesive elastic bandage or elastic adhesive is used for minor sprains. This material is easy to apply and remove and is comfortable and effective.

FOODS AND CANCER

Mr. T. writes: Can eating fried foods every day cause stomach cancer?

REPLY

We do not know what causes cancer, but since frying is such a common way of preparing food, millions of persons would have a stomach malignancy if it were responsible. In Japan, where cancer of the stomach is the leading cause of death in those between the ages of 35 and 54, too many pickled vegetables and too much salt are blamed.

POOR POSTURE

S.B.W. writes: Can swayback cause enlargement of the abdomen?

REPLY

When posture is poor, something has to give and the abdomen usually protrudes when the spine bends in this way. The opposite also may occur, in that an enlarged abdomen may cause swayback in attempt to redistribute the body's weight. This is observed frequently in pregnancy.

EGGS AND ARTHRITIS

A.T. writes: Will eating a hard boiled egg every day cause arthritis?

REPLY

No. Neither will soft boiled fried, shirred, scrambled, or poached egg or omelet, souffle eggnog, or custard.

PRESSURE AND WATER

REPLY

No, provided the excess is eliminated thru proper channels and salt is withheld.

TV REVIEW

Comebacks Set For Two Stars

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Two of television's top situation comedy stars—Andy Griffith and Mary Tyler Moore—will attempt comebacks in new series when CBS-TV kicks off its 1970-71 season the week of Sept. 14.

When Griffith quit his old show about a rural sheriff in order to try movies, his was the top-rated series on video. Movies, however, turned out to be a good deal more uncertain because of the current state of the motion piuture industry, and Griffith's success in films was less than earthshaking. So he's back on video.

In his new half-hour series, which bows Sept. 18 with the title of "Headmaster," he portrays the principal of a small private high school in California's San Fernando Valley. His former series was set in a mythical town with a distinctly southern flavor.

Miss Moore also left television's weekly outings while at the top. She played Dick Van Dyke's wife in the comedian's topflight series, and it was still ranked very high in the ratings wehn Van Dkye decided he also wanted to quit the regular grind. He and Miss Moore also tried movies, but neither set the world afire.

In her new half-hour series, "The Mary Tyler Moore Show," which arrives Sept. 19, the actress will play an employee of a local television station newsroom in Minneapolis-St. Paul.

The best word-of-mouth from those who have seen advance showings of CBS-TV premieres has been going to a new half-hour situation comedy called "Arnie," about a blue-collar laborer suddenly promoted to the executive suite of his company.

"Arnie" also has as its star a former television headliner, Herschel Bernardi, who originally gained fame as a police officer in the "Peter Gunn" series, and scored well in the Broadway musicals "Fiddler on the Roof" and "Zorba." The premiere of "Arnie" is Sept. 19, and although reviews will appear around the air date, I can tell you it is very funny.

Other new CBS-TV series will be:

—Tim Conway's variety hour, which debuts Sept. 20.

—"The Storefront Lawyers," an hour drama that arrives Sept. 16 and deals with young attorneys who give free neighborhood legal help to needy clients. The star is Robert Foxworth, who was so good in last season's "CBS Playhouse" production "Sadbird," about a young man torn between the hippie and business worlds.

—"The Interns," an hour drama about young doctors that premieres Sept. 18. Broderick Crawford stars as a veteran warhorse physician, there are a lot of young performers, and I can tell you the show isn't very good.

Reed Panel's New Policy On Transfers

The Reed School District board has adopted a new policy tightening requirements for interdistrict transfers in the wake of reports that large numbers of Sausalito students may try to transfer into the district.

Interim Supt. Stanley H. Friese said the board adopted the policy at its Tuesday meetings, and then denied three transfer requests.

Turned down were applications by Sausalito parents Fred Lyon and Hans Berg and Mrs. D. C. Thompson of Mill Valley. The board voted to allow a child of Mrs. H. La Flamme of Larkspur to come into the district.

Approved were applications by Mrs. Lyle Dybdahl, Michael Wardlow and Robert Van Gutman to allow their children to attend schools in the Larkspur-Corte Madera School District. All attended Reed schools last year.

The board's new policy, Friese said, makes it clear that it "does not encourage transfers."

"The board felt that its primary responsibility is to provide the best possible educational program for Reed students, Friese said, "although at times it may be necessary to accept students from other districts."

Any transfer agreement is subject to the district of residence paying Reed the cost of educating the pupil, Friese said.

"The board feels it is supporting the Sausalito School District board in its efforts to provide the programs its citizens are requesting. If we were to establish the practice of accepting large numbers of students from Sausalito, we would be contributing to the destruction of the district," he said.

The board also decided that membership on its four standing committees will remain at five, rather than going to seven as had been suggested. New appointments to the committees include school facility and transportation, Mrs. Raymond Groo and Jan Whitescarver; and drug abuse, Fred Montegani.

The Reed School District board also:

EMPLOYMENT — Hired Levi Harris, custodian at Reedland Woods School, at $485 a month.

TEACHERS — Hired teachers Carol Finn at $6,745 a year; Nancy Bedient at $8,626 a year and James Steffan and Marjory Moore at salaries not yet determined.

REPRESENTATIVE — Appointed Trustee James Richwagen as representative to the Reed District Parent-Teacher Club Communication Council.

DEDICATION — Appointed Trustee Thomas S. Price to serve with Friese and two unnamed representatives of the parent-teacher club on a committee to plan dedication ceremonies for Reedland Woods School. The ceremony will be held prior to the board meeting Oct. 6.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned to Sept. 15 at 8 p.m. at Del Mar School.

Rentals Continue To Drop, Survey Shows

The availability of homes or apartments to rent or buy continues to decline in Marin and Southern Sonoma, according to a Pacific Gas and Electric Co. survey.

Company reports compiled as of June show that for the fourth straight year, there was a decline in the availability of housing units.

The vacancy ratios in the North Bay Division included:

Mill Valley area, 1.1 per cent as compared to 1 per cent in June, 1969; Novato, .8 per cent as compared to 1.4 per cent; Petaluma, 1.1 per cent as compared to 1.5 per cent; and San Rafael, .8 per cent as compared to 1.1 per cent.

The vacancy ratio was calculated on the basis of the proportion of idle residential electric meters to the total residential installed electric meters.

People's Park Victim Testifies

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—"It felt like a very strong shock wave hitting me in the guts." That was the way William Rundle Jr., 18, described being shot in last year's Peoples Park riot in Berkeley.

Rundle testified in court Wednesday that he was felled by a shotgun blast fired by an Alameda County Sheriff's deputy who has been charged with unlawfully firing a shotgun during the outbreak.

Rundle said he saw the officer raise his gun but thought he was merely trying to frighten bystanders. As he turned away, he was hit, Rundle testified.

Earlier, several witnesses told the court that the deputy who fired the shotgun did so calmly.

Two Car Plants Hit With Bombs

MILPITAS (UPI)—Bombs exploded without injury Wednesday night at two automobile plants in the San Francisco East Bay area.

Milipitas Police Chief James B. Murray said a "medium sized bomb" blew out a large plate glass window and several smaller panes at the Ford Motor Company's San Jose plant which is in this city.

Police in nearby Fremont said a bomb went off about 30 minutes later in front of the main door at the lobby of the General Motors Corporation plant there.

The building's front was damaged, they continued, and a lot of glass broken.

Rick Barry To Make The N.Y. Basketball Scene

NEW YORK (UPI) — There's a new super star around town who could crowd Willis Reed and Walt Frazier off the sports pages . . . and even challenge the Mets, Jets, Yanks, Giants and Rangers for publicity, time and space.

In fact, he's the biggest thing in basketball to hit New York since the Knicks won the National Basketball Association title last season.

The New York Nets of the rival American Basketball Association had Rick Barry under contract today, a surprising acquisition that immediately had Net fans talking title.

Barry, 26, the only player to win scoring championships in both the NBA and ABA, was acquired from the Virginia Squires Wednesday for an estimated $250,000 and a future No. 1 draft choice.

Squires' owner Earl Foreman said Barry, a native New Jerseyite, was dealt away because the former University of Miami Fla. All America made remarks in a national magazine that he (Foreman) considered "demeaning of the state of Virginia and its citizens."

Barry, has nothing against the South, but he says Norfolk, Va., the hometown of the Squires, is too provincial for his tastes and fortunes. He prefers New York or San Francisco where he can indulge in his two off-season enterprises, broadcasting and modeling.

"My interest in backetball was at its lowest ebb at the prospect of playing in Virginia," Barry admitted "but it has been rekindled now that the Nets have taken over my contract."

Barry, who even tried to buy his contract from Foreman, was a most happy fella when he learned of his new surroundings. The Nets picked up the contract which Barry originally signed with the Oakland Oaks and was turned over to Foreman when the club moved to Washington last season.

The Nets have Barry for one year, with an option to renew the contract the following season. After that, there's a legal hassle that must be resolved before Barry can be sure of the basketball uniform he'll wear for the 1972-73 season."

"My future with the Nets doesn't go beyond two years," Barry explained, "because I still have a moral and contractural obligation with San Francisco and I intend to live up to it."

Bob Carlson, the Nets' attorney, said there will be a court hearing Sept. 8 on San Francisco's claim to the immediate services of Barry, but that a trial date probably won't be set until next year.

"I'm sure the validity of our claim to Barry will be sustained," Carlson said, "then we can possibly make a deal with San Francisco owner Frank Mieuli to assure our keeping Rick in New York permanently."

Barry began his successful pro basketball career with the San Francisco Warriors in 1965 and won the NBA scoring championship with a 35.6 average the following season. Barry sat out the 1967-68 season when he jumped to the ABA Oakland team and then won the league's scoring title with the Oaks in 1968-69 with a 34.0 mark.

Two years ago, Barry signed a five-year contract to play with San Francisco again and the case has been in litigation since. Barry said whatever happens in the courtroom, he's still going to play basketball.

"I'm not going to be a Curt Flood and stay out for another season," he quipped.

JIM GILMARTIN

Marin Grid Talent Is Spread Around

This could be a banner year for Marin Countians cavorting on major collegiate gridirons, according to reports trickling in from compuses near and far.

We'll have starters and possible all-stars on both coasts, with big Tamalpais High alumnus Barry Brink slated for his senior year as tackle for the Dartmouth Indians and another ex-Tamite, fleet, sure-handed Honor Jackson ticketed for big things at University of Pacific.

Brink, who is a chip off the old block of former pro star (Rams, Bears) Larry Brink of Mill Valley, last season anchored the defensive unit that was largely responisble for Dartmouth's 8-1 record. He earned honorable mention All-Ivy League and All-New England and is expected to improve this fall when Dartmouth again is favored in the Ivy League.

'Capable Of Immediate Greatness'

Meanwhile, the UOP press book succinctly treats Jackson to wit: "On the sunny side of the street . . . Receiver Honor Jackson at 6-2 and 190 pounds is capable of immediate greatness."

Honor was a Tiger starter last season following sensational years as a pass snagger at College of Marin and Tam. At Stockton this season, his teammates will include Chris Klyse, junior offensive guard from San Rafael; linebacker Vern Kellerman, a junior from Kentfield; and Jcak Dennis, a tight end from San Rafael. At 24, Kellerman is the senior citizen of the Tigers.

The Bounty County will be represented at both Stanford and Cal. Down on the farm, ex-Drake sensation Don Alvarado will be at flanker and could help quarterback Jim Plunkett pass his way to the Heisman Trophy, while at Berkeley, Pete Richter of Tiguron, a 205-pound soph who prepped at Redwood, is one of four running backs working out with the Golden Bears.

Bruce Kilby At Arizona State

By the way, Arizona State is the publicity champion thus far as its press, radio and television brochure is 124 pages thick. Not much of a plot, but a lot of good short stories.

San Jose State tells us that Clint Dilts of Corte Madera, a flanker who prepped at Soquel (Santa Cruz County) High, and College of Marin transfer Charles Keppel, an offensive guard, will be major contributors to the Spartan varsity.

Defensive end Charles Collins of San Rafael will be with the U.C. at Davis. He's a 20-year-old junior.

And, well, that's it for the time being on the collegiate grid scene. More to come as the season progresses.

Moving On To Pro Baseball...

AND NOW, on the professional baseball front:

Tom Corder of Novato has completed his rookie season with the Los Angeles Dodgers' Ogden, Utah team in the Pioneer League and is fulfilling his military obligations at Fort Lewis, Wash. Tom, shortstop who starred at San Jose State, got a late start and early finish in his pro debut, batted .238 in the Pioneer League, and is happy to get the military thing behind him so that next year he'll have a full season of play for pay.

Also at Ogden, San Rafael outfielder Dewey Forry had a good recent week and is hitting .258; Ken Johnson of Larkspur is batting .243 at Kinston, N.C. in the Carolina League; John Dolinsek of Novato has a .301 mark at Columbus, Ga. of the Class AA Southern League; and pitcher Russ Dillon of Novato now is 3-5 won-lost for the Greenwood, S.C. Braves of the West Carolinas League. Russ has a 4.75 earned run average.

A's Odom Displays Confidence

By STEVE TOOMAJIAN

OAKLAND (UPI)—Confident John Odom, partially responsible for the mediocre 1970 performance of the A's, insists Oakland still has a good chance at first place in the American League West.

"There's no way we can finish below second place with the kind of team we have," Odom said Wednesday night after hurling a 2-1 victory over Chicago. "Don't count us out of first, either. We can catch Minnesota."

SEVEN OUT

The A's trail Minnesota by seven games, with three contests left against the Twins next week and three more during the third week of September. Oakland trails second place California by three games.

"We've got six more games with the Twins," Odom said. "They could get knocked out by California, too, so we've got a real good chance to ease right into first place."

Odom, the leading winner for Oakland two seasons in a row, picked up only his seventh victory of 1970 Wednesday night. He was on the disabled list with a damaged elbow for six weeks in the middle of the season.

ERRATIC

The loss of Odom and the inability of the A's to adequately take up the slack has made Oakland more an erratic team than an ambitious pennant contender.

"I'm gradually getting back into the groove," Odom said. "But I'm not anywhere near the pitcher I was two years ago."

Odom limited the White Sox to two hits in seven innings. He watched from the bench as teammate Campy Campaneris drove in the winning run in the bottom of the seventh. Jim Grant pitched two scoreless innings for his 24th save.

Campaneris shot a two-out triple to the centerfield wall to score Steve Hovley, who had drawn a base on balls against Chicago starter and loser Bart Johnson.

TIE SCORE

Odom himself sent the game into a 1-1 deadlock in the third inning when he blooped a double, stole third and raced home on a bad throw by catcher Duane Josephson.

The defeat ruined the debut of interim manager Billy Adair. Don Gutteridge was released as head man of the White Sox prior to the game.

Champion Coach Is Dead At 57

Death came at 7:12 a.m., EDT.

In nine seasons at Green Bay, he won five National Football League championships and two Super Bowl contests against rival American Football League teams.

A WINNER

Lombardi, after bringing Washington its first winning team (7-5-2) in 14 years in the 1969 season, was first hospitalized on June 25 with a stomach ailment

Two days later, he underwent major surgery in which two feet of his colon was removed when a tumor was discovered. Lombardi left the hospital in early July, intending to take up the head coaching reins again.

But on July 27, he re-entered the hospital and a second operation of an undisclosed nature was performed. Redskin officials, at the request of Lombardi's family, declined to make public either his condition or the nature of his illness.

SURVIVORS

Lombardi is survived by his wife, the former Marie Planitz, a son, Vincent H. Lombardi, and a daughter, Mrs. Susan Bickhem of Chicago

Also surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lombardi of Brooklyn, N.Y., two sisters, two brothers and six grandchildren.

Mrs. Lombardi related recently that her husband had overtaxed himself just prior to reentering the hospital when he attended a meeting of National Football League club owners in New York in July during a deadlocked labor dispute with the pro players.

Lombardi saw his last football game in person two days before going back into the hospital. It was a practice game between

JUAN, GIANTS FIND OUT

All Good Things Must End

CINCINNATI (UPI) — All good things, as Juan Marichal and the San Francisco Giants know, must eventually come to an end.

Wednesday night Gary Nolan and the Cincinnati Reds ended a five-game Giant winning streak and Marichal's six-game personal winning streak with a 2-0 defeat of the San Franciscans.

Nolan did most of the National League West leaders' work for them, fanning nine Giants and knocking in both of the Reds' runs. It was his 16th victory this season against five losses.

KEY BLOWS

Nolan's first RBI came on a second-inning single which followed singles by Tommy Helms and Daryl Chaney. The 22-year-old righthander drove home the second Reds tally on a bases-loaded sacrifice fly in the fourth.

The only hits off Nolan were a third inning double by Jim Hart, a double by Dick Dietz in the eighth and Tito Fuentes' single in the ninth.

The loss dropped the Giants back one game to 15½ games behind the Reds, whose early season lead has provided adequate momentum to keep them atop the standings.

Tonight San Francisco ends its three-game series in Cincinnati with Skip Pitlock 4-4 on the mound against the Reds' Tony Cloninger 6-5.

FINAL MEETING

The Reds will be in San Francisco Monday and Tuesday for the teams' final three-game series of the season.

The Giants management announced Wednesday that four minor league players have been picked up for the remainder of the season.

The four will report to the club Friday in Atlanta. They are outfielders George Foster and Bernie Williams and left-handed pitcher John Cumberland, all from the Giants' Phoenix, Ariz., farm club in the Pacific Coast League, and first baseman Jim Goodson from Fresno of the California League.

Raiders Step Up Tempo For 49ers

"We're stepping up the tempo this week," Madden said Wednesday at the Raiders' training camp, "but it has nothing to do with the fact we'll play the 49ers Sunday. We now are down to our final two pre-season games. That means we'll try to get sharper," Madden said.

Ray Leach of Novato was among those eliminated yesterday from the Northern California Golf Association Amateur Championships at Spyglass Hill course in Pebble Beach.

Leach, who last week won the Utah State Amateur, lost to veteran golfer Dr. Jack Luceti, 5 and 4 in the second round.

Leach thus failed in his bid to win the Norcal event for the second time. His victory came in 1968, the year he was graduated from Novato High School.

JACK HANLEY

Reds' Pete Rose Is Not Bashful

Pete Rose may not win his third consecutive National League batting title this season. Rico Carty and Roberto Clemente have a 40 point bulge on Rose. But Rose will lead the league once again in more than 600 times at bat. And he also will lead once again with 200 or more hits.

A switch hitter, Rose hits southpaws or righthanders impartially. This is his sixth consecutive season with a .300 or better average. His .335 in 1968 and .348 last year won him his consecutive batting titles. This will be his fifth year of 200 or more hits.

ROSE PLAYS baseball in a way that commands the respect of old timers who constantly talk about the fierce competitors of other eras. But when the old timers get around to mentioning Rose, they pay him the ultimate tribute by comparing him with the greats of the past.

The stories about Rose beating out walks have been written and re-written. But there is something exciting about the way Rose runs out a walk just as he does every ball he hits.

Rose has the kind of confidence that irritates the man on the mound. To a pitcher Rose's display of confidence isn't just that. It is outright cockiness.

"SURE I'M cocky" Rose says. "What's wrong about it. Lots of guys are cocky. If you're aggressive they say you're cocky. They rib me about running to first on walks. Anybody can walk to first on a base balls. Anyone can do things the way everybody else does. I don't want to be like everybody else.

"I want to be different. The fans notice you when you're different. Jackie Robinson was different. He wasn't like everybody else. When I was a kid I lived two miles from Crosley Field. My Dad took me to almost every game and I remember watching Robinson. He did everything.

"ROBINSON WAS exciting to watch. Fans came from all around to watch him. I was determined as a rookie to become an exciting major league player. I didn't want to be just another major leaguer. I wanted to be an exciting one."

Obviously Rose is not a retiring, bashful fellow to interview. He is as refreshing in an interview as he is on a ball field. He is a complete extrovert. And he is somewhat of a philospher, too.

"YOU CAN'T do anything if you don't think you can," he said. "It's not only important in baseball but everything you do. You got to have confidence.

Rose isn't just an uninhibited ball player with boyish enthusiasm, plus a great talent with a bat. He studies pitchers but doesn't attribute his success to that.

"Pitchers screamed when they lowered the mound," said Rose. "They've been hollering this year about the lively ball.

"I'D LIKE to have an expert tell me how lowering the mound would help a hitter. And, as for the rabbit ball, just remember it won't go anyplace without contact. A batter still has to hit it.

"There's one real reason why hitting is up these past seasons. Expansion. With expansion, 20 new pitchers came up last year. How many would still be in the minors if not for expansion. I'm not saying they're minor league pitchers but they'd still be down there getting experience.

Redskins Shaken By Lombardi's Death

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI)—Veteran flanker Bob Long, visibly shaken by the death of his coach, Vince Lombardi, said today the Washington Redskins will go ahead with their preseason game against the Miami Dolphins Saturday night because "that's the way he would want it."

"He would expect a great performance from us," Long said as he and other members of the Redskins sat grimly around their hotel headquarters after learning of Lombardi's death.

Long, whose pro football potential was discovered at Wichita State by Lombardi, played four years for him at Green Bay and later moved to Washingtcon to join him again. He spoke quietly, reverently of the passing of his mentor.

"I owe a great deal, my life, the direction of my life, to him," he said. "Everything I am is in some way of his making. I'm a very lucky guy that he was part of my life. How fortunate I am to have heard his teaching—how to live and love and try for perfection."

Long said he saw Lombardi in a Washington hospital three weeks ago. On duty with the National Guard, Long was given time off to drop by the hospital.

"He held out his hand and squeezed my hand," he said.

Tight end Jerry Smith said he believed that Lombardi's teachings and ideals "which he gave to us all both in football and life will stay with us forever."

"All the things a man searches for all his life I found in Coach Lombardi," he said. "He gave me a deeper meaning of life. He justified hard work, dedication, pride and love."

Quarterback Sonny Jurgensen said Lombardi would be missed by the entire nation and that he, Jurgensen, benefited greatly from him, though they worked together for only one season.

"I had an opportunity to get real close to him and benefited tremendously by it—not only as a football player, but as a person," he said. "In this short period of time, I grew to love the man. I hope we can go on and play the game of football and game of life the way he wanted it played."

Wide receiver Charley Taylor said Lombardi had been "a tremendous impact" on his life and "taught me how to play football" as no coach before him. Center Len Hauss, a co-captain, said, "The Redskins are fortunate, if not blessed, for having had him for one year." "He was a father to all of us," linebacker Chris Hanburger said.

"I thank God for letting such a man come my way," defensive halfback Brig Owens said.

Acting Coach Bill Austin said "words are inadequate to express my deep sorrow and regret" at Lombardi's death.

"He was and always will remain in my memory a man of unequalled ability, of character, drive and integrity," he said. "He was an inspiration to those of us who were privileged to have worked for and with him. For me, the death of Coach Lombardi is a deep, personal loss."

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

It's Starting To Look Like 1969 Season For Mets

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

It's beginning to look like 1969 all over again for the New York Mets.

The Mets are only a half-game behind the National League East's first-place Pittsburgh Pirates after a 7-3 win over the St. Louis Cardinals Wednesday night.

The two big heroes of 1969 — Tommie Agee and Tom Seaver — combined Wednesday night in their latest triumph.

10-HITTER

Agee had two hits, drove in two runs and scored two to lead the Mets' offense while Seaver, who had lost six of seven previous decisions, went the distance with a 10-hitter to raise his record to 18-10. Another reason for optimism is that the Mets were five games out of first place a year ago compared to their current deficit of a half game.

"We did the same thing as we're doing now about a year ago this time," said Agee after Wednesday night's victory. "This looks like the same as last year."

Seaver, who was 25-7 in 1969, struck out 11 to raise his league-leading total to 259 and his 19th complete game of the season set a club record. Cardinal rookie Jerry Reuss suffered his sixth loss against five wins.

OTHER SCORES

The Montreal Expos beat the Pirates, 10-7, the Chicago Cubs routed the Philadelphia Phillies, 17-2, the Cincinnati Reds downed the San Francisco Giants, 2-0, the Atlanta Braves shaded the Los Angeles Dodgers, 4-3, and the Houston Astros beat the San Diego Padres, 2-1, in other NL games.

In the American League, it was Boston 10-1 over Detroit after a 6-4 loss, New York 3 Baltimore 2, Washington 4, Cleveland 1, Oakland 2 Chicago 1, and California 3 Kansas City 1. Minnesota at Milwaukee was rained out.

John Boccabella of San Anselmo hit a three-run ninth-inning homer to lift the Expos to victory over the Pirates despite a grand slam homer by Gene Alley which gave Pittsburgh a 6-1 lead in the sixth inning and a homer by Bob Robertson which tied the score in the ninth. Mike Marshall won his second game for the Expos while Joe Gibbon suffered the loss for the Pirates, who have dropped seven of their last eight games.

Joe Pepitone, Randy Hundley, Milt Pappas and Cleo James homered and Pepitone, Hickman, Hundley, James and Ernie Banks each drove in three runs in the Cubs' 20-hit attack off four Philadelphia pitchers. Pappas went eight innings to win his 11th game against six losses for the Cubs. Oscar Gamble homered for the Phillies.

GRAND SLAM

Hal King's grand slam homer in the first inning and 47-year old Hoyt Wilhelm's six shutout innings of relief paced the Braves to their win over the Dodgers. Tom Haller hit a three-run homers for the Dodgers but Don Sutton suffered his 11th loss against 13 wins.

Jim Wynn's two-run homer and a combined four-hitter by Wade Blasingame and Fred Gladding provided the Astros with their victory over the Padres. Wyn's homer, his 24th of the season, came after a single by Cesar Cedeno in the fourth inning. Blasingame had a shutout until Ollie Brown homered in the ninth and Gladding took over to strike out Ed Spiezio after Blasingame walked Nate Colbert.

Gutteridge Is Out As White Sox Pilot

CHICAGO (UPI)—Don Gutteridge, on his own request, was released as manager of the Chicago White Sox Wednesday after a conference with new General Manager Stu Holcomb in Oakland.

Holcomb, named executive vice president and director of player personnel in charge of the club on Tuesday, went to Oakland to confer with Gutteridge.

The Sox announced that he informed Gutteridge that he would not be rehired for 1971, and said Gutteridge asked for his immediate release.

Holcomb said he would announce the Sox' new manager for 1971 at a press conference previously scheduled for Sept. 14.

Gutteridge, a longtime member of the White Sox coaching staff who returned to the club in Al Lopez' second term as manager, took over as manager last year when Lopez asked to be relieved.

The current White Sox have the worst record in the major leagues, 49 wins and 87 losses.

The departure of Gutteridge was the second result in less than 24 hours of the club's "reorganization plans for 1971 and the future." Ed Short was fired Tuesday from his post as director of player personnel.

49er Week Proclaimed To Mark Anniversery

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Mayor Joseph L. Alioto has officially proclaimed the week of Aug. 31 through Sept. 6 as San Francisco 49er Week in honor of the team embarking upon its 25th anniversary season. A kick-off rally, luncheon and performances at a number of downtown locations by the official 49er will highlight the week's activities, which end with Sunday's exhibition game with Oakland.

Janusch Wins Playoff

Mark Janusch defeated Vince Roquemore, 83-88 yesterday in a playoff round to win the Peacock Gap Junior Golf Tournament. They had been tied at the end of regulation play. Kim Kaufman finished third.

Moulder Of Champs Lombardi Dies At 57

the Redskin and the Baltimore Colt rookies in Baltimore.

TELEVISION

Even in the final stages of his illness, he watched the first four Washington pre-season games by means of a closed circuit television arrangement set up in his hospital room.

Mrs. Lombardi authorized a statement Wednesday that her husband was near death from "an extraordinarily virulent form of cancer."

Vincent Thomas Lombardi became such a legendary, larger-than-life figure on the American scene during the pro football boom of the 1960s that it's often forgotten that he didn't achieve success until late in life.

Lombardi was an obscure assistant coach at age 45 who was well-known only in football circles when the Green Bay Packers signed him on Jan. 28, 1959 to a five-year contract as general manager and head coach.

LONG WAIT

Lombardi had waited many long and sometime bitter years to get this one big chance to be his own boss. If he had not been a success, he probably would have faded quickly back into obscurity. But failure simply wasn't accepted by the man who drove himself as hard as he did his players.

Just nine lears later — on Jan. 14, 1968 when the Packers won their second straight Super Bowl — Lombardi had reached a zenith in American sports that has seldom been attained and he was being compared favorably with such coaching giants as George Halas and Paul Brown. From an obscure assistant coach, he had become one of the most recognizable men in America. His burly figure and the smile that was all teeth had become familiar via TV in living rooms throughout the country.

His record speaks for itself. In nine seasons at Green Bay, his teams won five NFL titles and the first two Super Bowls.

Russ Cut U.S. Lead In University Games

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

TURIN, Italy — The Soviet Union picked up six gold medals Wednesday to cut the U.S. lead to 19-15 as the sixth World University games moved toward their conclusion.

Twelve more finals were scheduled for completion today. The United States, which built its lead exclusively on the swimming and diving events, had a chance only in six of the track and field events Wednesday, while the Russians were featured in each of the 12 finals.

Horse Racing

DEL MAR, Calif. — Jockey Bill Shoemaker drove Queen Janine to a neck victory Wednesday at Del Mar in the $16,500 Osunitas Stakes for fillies and mares for his only victory of the day that left him three short of the alltime riding record.

The win was the 6,029th of Shoemaker's career as he closed in on the retired John Longden's mark of 6,032 victories.

Football

MILTON, Mass. — The Boston Patriots Wednesday signed running back Jim Nance to what his lawyer called "one of the finest contracts in professional sports today." Nance, twice winner of the AFL's rushing title and the league's comeback player of the year in 1969, played out his option last year and was acting as a free agent. His new contract calls for a salary of around $80,000, making him second only to Gale Sayers of Chicago in salary for a running back.

BUFFALO, N.Y. — The Buffalo Bills of the National Football League announced Wednesday they obtained cornerback Alvin Mitchell in a trade with the Cleveland Browns for an undisclosed draft choice.

Golf

PORTLAND, Ore. — Nineteen-year-old Lanny Wadkins of Richmond, Va., led 150 golfers Wednesday when he fired a three-under-par 67 to move into the first round lead of the 1970 U.S. National Amateur Championship. Wadkins, who has already won the Southern and Western Amateur titles this year, toured the Waverly Country Club course in 34-33 to take a one stroke lead on the field.

Rowing

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. — East German oarsmen won six of their seven heat races to dominate the action in Wednesday's first round competition in the third World Rowing Championships.

The six East German crews gained Saturday's semi-finals by winning heats in the fours with coxswain, the pairs without cox, the pairs with, the fours without, the double sculls and the eights.

Baseball

COLUMBUS, Ohio — The Columbus Jets of the International League will be liquidated at the end of the current season because of lack of public interest and the poor condition of Jet Stadium. "We're at the end of the road," Club President Ralph Anderson said Wednesday.

The Jets, which began in the International League in 1955, drew 141,749 fans for 63 home dates this year, averaging a little more than 2,200 per game.

FAT CARS DIE YOUNG!

But Volvos live to ripe old ages. Because Volvos are unfettered by fat.

That's why a Volvo's trunk holds more than a Lincoln's. And why a Volvo has more leg room in front than a Cadillac and more in the rear than a Buick.

So take a look at our Volvos. Driving a long-lasting, lean car can help put the fat where it belongs.

Tennis Sudden Death Has Fans Buzzing

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI) — Rod Laver and Mrs. Margaret Smith Court begin defense of their U.S. Open Tennis championships today while the West Side Tennis Club still buzzed over Wednesday's opening matches which marked the arrival of sudden death in a major championship.

Laver was to oppose fellow Australian, Allan Stone, while Mrs. Court faced young Pamela Austin of Rolling Hills, Calif.

GIMENO OUT

The first day of the $160,000 title event saw the disappearance of three of the 20 seeded men — two by defeat, one by default. Highest ranked man to lose was sixth seeded Andres Gimeno of Spain, a straight set victim of 25-year-old Tomas Koch of Brazil. The 33-year-old Gimeno admitted to an inexplicable case of nerves while Koch had his first service under great control in taking a 6-3, 6-4, 6-3 decision.

Mary Riessen of Evanston, Ill., 17th seed, fell to Jean Baptiste Chanfreau of France 2-6, 7-5, 1-6, 6-4, 6-0.

Ilie Nastase of Romania, ranked 13th, failed to appear and was defaulted, as was his countryman Ion Tiriac.

26 SETS

In singles play Wednesday, there were 26 sets which were decided by the "sudden death" tiebreak system, under which, when a set reaches 6-all in games, a nine point game is begun, with the first player gaining five points the set winner at 7-6.

The new rule played a major role in the 1-6, 7-6, 6-1, 6-4 victory by Stan Smith of Pasadena, Calif. the 11th seed, over his Davis Cup doubles partner, Bob Lutz of Los Angeles. The tiebreak loss of the second set took all the vigor out of Lutz' game.

One match was decided by the rule, when Ray Ruffels of Australia defeated Jean Loup Royer of France, 6-7, 6-3, 2-6, 7-5, 7-6.

CHARLIE COE OF OKLAHOMA WON THE U.S. NATIONAL AMATEUR GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP BY THE LARGEST MARGIN IN THE HISTORY OF MATCH PLAY SINCE 1895 WHEN HE BEAT RUFUS KING, 11 AND 10, AT ROCHESTER.

Opponent Says Clay His Old Self

ATLANTA (UPI) — His manager, Angelo Dundee, said it was a miracle things went so well. One of his opponents said he was his old self — with all the moves still intact.

A tired, perspiring Cassius Clay acknowledged it all, admitted he was out of shape, but vowed he could get ready to take on all comers including heavyweight champion Joe Frazier, in less than two months.

Clay, a little fatter and a little slower than he was when pushed out of the ring three years ago for refusing to be inducted into the Army, began his comeback Wednesday night with an eight-round exhibition in a steaming, crowded little gym on the campus of Morehouse College.

Although little more than a sparring session, it marked a monumental breakthrough for the deposed champion, rebuffed repeatedly in his bid to start anew. It gave him a chance to prove to himself and his critics that he could still fight and it served to put the boxing world on notice that he at last had the license that had been denied him in so many other cities.

"He was the same old Cassius Clay," said Johnny Hudgins of Miami, one of three heavyweights who fought Clay.

FISHING IN THREE STATES

Getting Away From The Crowd

By RALPH CHATOIAN

If you want to try fishing someplace where you're not getting your line tangled or your elbow bumped by the guy next to you, don't go west, young man, go northeast — at least northeast of here.

That's where I went during my August vacation — the states of Montana, Wyoming and Idaho — a trip purely for fishing with some occasional sight-seeing thrown in.

There were five of us crammed into a camper pick-up for the trip — Sacramento area school teachers and coaches Dick Cristofani, Charles Lee and Bruce Sommers, Santa Clara businessman Bill Bjorge and yours truly.

Our first stop was the Gros Ventre River, fishing in the shadows of the mighty Tetons majestic mountains of Wyoming, just outside Jackson Hole. The cutthroat trout were numerous, but small, so after a few hours of catching and releasing it was back to the camper and a short drive to the Snake River. More fishing, few fish, so we moved on.

Next stop on this tour was the mighty, fast-moving Madison River in Montana which provides excitement aplenty when you float down the current on a tiny, two-man life raft. There's no time for fishing as you guide the raft between huge boulders protruding from the shallow water, so it's best to pull up to the side and do the fishing while wading in the stream.

It doesn't take a monster fish to give you a king-sized fight when using dry flies and a short, limber flyrod on this fast water. An 11-or 12-inch rainbow in this current is terrific sport. We floated about a 15-mile stretch near Ennis, Mont.

The hottest fishing we found came at our next stop, the Wise River, also in Montana. To reach our spot, we turned off at the town of Wise River itself, population about 30, and drove 20 miles down a dirt road to reach the river which meandered through a grassy meadow sprinkled with grazing cattle. The water moved slowly through the meadow and it was clear as glass, but if you were careful not to "spook" the fish you could catch and release all you wanted, the fish going to 13 or 14 inches, and most of them brook trout, as pretty a fish as roam the creeks.

We realized we would be among the last to fish this stretch in solitude, for the dirt road was being converted to a paved one, which would lead fishermen to the spot by the score. As it was when we were there, we had the stream all to ourselves.

The largest trout I took out of the stream was a 13½-inch brookie, and I lost a nice fish that broke my four-pound leader tippet and swam off with a prize deer hair fly.

We saved just enough fish for a good meal, and if you have not tried brook trout you're really missing out. The taste is delicious.

Next stop took us out of the state of Montana and into Idaho, and another meeting with the Snake River. We took out the rafts and spent a day floating a stretch called Box Canyon, catching rainbow trout at various stops along the way.

Henry's Fork of the Snake was our last fishing stop and gave us a chance for the trophy fish. Lee, a 6-foot-3, 230-pound wrestling coach took advantage of the opportunity. Just watching him play and land the trip's biggest fish was exciting. It was a fat rainbow trout, 22 inches long, and was taken on a dinky size 18 Adams dry fly.

The section of Henry's Fork we fished was beautiful. The river was wide, the water slow moving and clear, and wound itself like ribbon through a meadow ringed by pines.

The secret to this fishing was to wait for a "hatch," a certain time of the day, (usually once in the morning and again in the evening) when insects hatch on the water and the fish come out of their hiding spots to feed. It only lasts for maybe an hour, but fish are rising all around you in that hectic hour.

The trick is to present the fly in exactly the right manner to fool the fish. One mistake, one splash, and the fish is gone. The fly has to be set down softly on the water about a foot in front of the trout, and has to match the "real" bugs that are hatching.

Charley matched and presented correctly. I didn't. So Lee, who also won his share from me in poker, took the pool for largest trout. To make matters worse, he had the three largest fish of the trip, also landing a 19-inch rainbow from Henry's Fork and a 17-inch German brown from the Madison.

But we all caught fish, all had a good time and are already talking about next summer and steelhead fishing in British Columbia.

That sounds like a good idea, wouldn't you say?

BOWLING TIPS

Timothy T. Top Trotter

Without the breaks and with the cough, he captured the prized Hambletonian for three-year-old trotters Wednesday, winning the first heat in 2:00 1/5 and the third in 2:00 3/5.

In between he finished second to Formal Notice, who trotted the fastest mile of the year by a three year old, 1:58 2/5, to force the $143,630 race, second richest ever, into the third heat.

Then Timothy T. proved that he warranted his rating as a favorite. He pulled in front of the field at the quarter in :29 3/5, yielded to Formal Notice who led at the half in 1:00 1/5, and went the three quarters neck and neck with Formal Notice in 1:31 2/5.

Timothy T. took over at that point, driving to the front and out-trotting Formal Notice down the stretch to win by a length.

Timothy T., who had won six of eight races before the Hambletonian, was doubtful going into the stake despite his favorite's rating because he had that cough, a red spot on his throat, and a congestion. His driver, John Simpson Sr., thought it was an allergy. His owner, Johpn Simpson Sr., thought it was a cough.

Concepts Outlined For McNears Beach

McNears Beach in East San Rafael, expanded by additional shoreline to the north, will be primarily for family day use, considerable open space and lawn areas, some fishing, and passive recreation.

This in general is the Marin County Park and Recreation Department's concept of the future use of McNears Beach. Director Pierre W. Joske and his staff presented the ideas in a preliminary master plan yesterday before the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission at the Civic Center.

Park planner Donald Rolph, who drew up the master plan for McNears Beach, said the swimming pool, tennis courts and concession area will be concentrated in the present location, with no plans for expansion.

"The pool and tennis areas are fine as long as they are serviceable," said Joske, "but in the long run, they may be phased out." He explained that active recreation such as tennis can be provided in other areas that are less expensive than prime bay front land.

Rolph envisages a fishing pier jutting out into deep water, with about four docking spaces at the end of the pier, and perhaps floating buoys for other boats to tie up.

Rolph proposed that Quarry Road, leading from San Pedro Road to the beach, be made a two-lane parkway so that it will not be chopped up by a series of private driveways.

China Camp, which lies to the north of McNears Beach, should remain open to the public in a relatively natural state, said Rolph.

His report that the China Camp area is now zoned light industrial came as a surprise to the commissioners.

Chairman Lothar Salin suggested that the county planning commission should be asked to change the zoning at China Camp to prevent industrial development.

The commissioners will take a field trip to McNears Beach at 5 p.m. Sept. 14 to review the master plan on the site.

Access Eyed For Bikes, Pedestrians

What access can be provided for pedestrians and bicyclists along Corte Madera Creek between Bon Air Bridge and College of Marin?

That question will be discussed at a public hearing before the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission at 2 p.m. Oct. 14 at the Civic Center.

Parks and recreation commissioners set the public hearing yesterday to discuss public access to the creek banks and what acquisitions would be needed for such a trail.

The Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission also:

PARK FEES — Approved the following fee schedule for group use of major county parks: $5 for groups of less than 30; $7.50 for 30 to 50; $15 for 50 or more. The fee for individual use is 50 cents per car, except at McNears Beach, where a per-person fee is charged as long as the pool is open.

PARK BOND FUND — Got a report from the state that Marin is eligible for $10,800 more in state funds as its share of $1 million still undistributed from the $40 million State Park Bond Fund Act of 1964. Commissioners recommended that the money be used for McNears Beach improvement.

MELTON FERRIS — Agreed on Sept. 25 or Oct. 2 as tentative dates for a dinner party to honor former commissioner Melton Ferris of Bolinas, who retired from the commission in July.

FATAL PLUNGE — A once sporty Mustang, that carried a young woman to her death today, lies demolished in the back yard of a Marin City home. The car, in which Arletta Pelet died, plunged down a Highway 101 embankment and sheared off part of the roof and wall of this home before coming to rest upside down. Egypt, Russ Accused Of Pact Break

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States publicly accused Egypt and Russia today of violations of the standstill arrangement under the Middle East cease-fire agreement and demanded that they be stopped.

In a formal statement containing for the first time public charges of violations, the State Department said, "We are continuing to watch the balance closely, and as we have said previously have no intention of permitting Israel's security to be adversely affected."

The American statement urged at the same time that Israel-Arab peace talks be resumed at once at the United Nations.

The State Department's press officer, Robert J. McCloskey said shipments of U.S. military aid were continuing to Israel. He declined to say whether the rate and amount had been increased because of the Egyptian-Russian violations in the standstill area near the Suez Canal.

McCloskey declined to say how many violations of the standstill the United States had detected.

State department officials said there had been no shooting violations. Officials divided the Russian-supported Egyptian violations into three categories:

—Construction within a 32-mile prohibited zone on the western side of the Suez that has increased the number of Egyptian anti-aircraft missile sites since the ceasefire went into effect Aug. 7.

—A a number of anti-aircraft missile sites that were previously unoccupied but which officials said were now being occupied.

—Evidence of movement of equipment within the zone closer toward the ceasefire line, which is the Suez Canal.

McCloskey said the United States had protested the violations through diplomatic channels to both Russia and Egypt.

Asked whether Washington was demanding that the missiles be pulled back or simply that there be no further violations, he replied: "We want the violations stopped."

The U.S. protest was delivered to the Egyptian foreign ministry today by Donald C. Bergus, the chief U.S. representative in Cairo. It was

Man's Body Found With Stab Wounds

The body of a young man who had been stabbed 12 times was found yesterday down an embankment on Seminary Drive on Strawberry Point. (See photos, page 7.)

Nearby lay a demolished cheap cardboard suitcase containing three women's slips.

Lt. Guido Battaglia of the sheriff's department said that the man, a Caucasian who appeared to be between 20 and 25 years old, had been killed elsewhere and dumped off the road sometime after 1 a.m.

The body was found by a Strawberry resident who noticed the suitcase on the road and got out to investigate. He called sheriff's officers about 1 p.m.

The victim had not been identified today. Lt. Battaglia said that his fingerprints were not on record with the Criminal Identification and Investigation Bureau in Sacramento but a check is being run with the FBI.

There was no identification on the body.

Asst. Coroner Eugene R. Fontaine said the stab wounds, which included five on the head and one in the heart, appeared to have been made by a slender instrument such as a shish kebob skewer or a screw driver.

He estimated that the man was killed sometime between 1 and 7 a.m. yesterday.

Fontaine said that the man, who had sun-bleached blond short hair, a little goatee and hazel eyes, was 5 feet 4 inches tall and weighed about 150 pounds.

He said he was dressed in a black tee shirt, gray slacks with black stripes, a tan corduroy jacket and buckled shoes.

There was no wallet or money on the body.

Lt. Battaglia had no theories about the suitcase which contained used women's underwear and two broken pairs of glasses except that it appeared to have been run over by a car.

California Highway Patrol officers were called to the scene to investigate tire tracks, although Battaglia said it was not known whether they were old or new marks.

He said that the lack of blood at the Strawberry scene indicated the man had been killed elsewhere.

The body was found on the north side of Strawberry Point near the Golden Gate Baptist Seminary.

U.S., Japan Form Pollution Pact

TOKYO (UPI) — The United States and Japan, two of the most polluted nations in the world, announced Friday a joint agreement to combat pollution of the environment.

The agreement stipulates that experts of both countries will exchange information and technology in pollution control.

The announcement of the agreement also said that Russell Train, chairman of President Nixon's Council on Environmental Quality, will visit Japan this fall for talks with Japan Prime Minister Eisaku Sato.

Dredging Ban Is Asked For Russian River

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Dredging at the mouth of the Russian River at Jenner should be banned at least temporarily, the state Water Resources Control Board was told today.

The recommendation was contained in a report prepared by the board's staff which conducted a study of the dredging proposal by Northern California Aggregates, Inc.

The staff said the board should order the North Coast Regional Water Resources Control Board to prohibit "all waste discharges in the proposed operation until completion of studies" which proved the project could be carried out without severely damaging the ecology.

The report also said there was not enough evidence to insure that the project would meet state water quality standards.

Conservationists opposing the dredging charged that it would allow salt water to intrude in the wells in the coastal area, would cause "aesthetic debasement," would inflict "irreparable damage" to the surrounding ecology, and would create "a sulfurous basin" at the mouth of the river.

The Jenner Coastline Conservation Coalition, in a June 19 letter, asked the board to ban discharging waste materials into the river in the area three miles upstream.

Northern California Aggregates obtained the Utah Construction Company's lease from the state Lands Commission.

The firm said it wanted to mine sand and gravel with a suction dredge and stockpile the dredged materials behind diked areas.

The river mouth, according to company officials, would have been kept open permanently so that gravel could be transported by barge to the San Francisco Bay Area. They added that maximum dredging was expected to be 90 feet deep at the river mouth.

The staff report said a North Coast Board survey showed that existing requirements on dredging would not assure protection of the "aquatic environment."

The North Coast study also said the operation would alter physical features of the estuary and it could not be determined what long-range effects the dredging would have on fish.

Mill Valley Woman Killed As Car Forced Off Road

A young Mill Valley woman was killed and her husband hurt today when their auto, southbound on Highway 101, was apparently forced off the road by another car and crashed down a steep embankment into the roof of a Marin City home.

Arletta Pelet, of 160 Cascade Drive, was dead on arrival at Marin General Hospital. Pierre Pelet, 33, was treated for multiple scrapes and released.

California Highway Patrol officers, who found Pelet wandering around in a dazed state near the overturned vehicle said he told them his car had been forced off the freeway by a white Cadillac. Patrolmen could give no further details of the cause of the accident.

The wine red Mustang left the road about one-half mile north of the Rodeo Avenue offramp in an area where the highway has no guard rails. The car plunged down a 70-to-80-foot embankment, struck the roof of the Diana Harrison home, 225 Drake Avenue, then came to rest on its top in the Harrison backyard.

Mrs. Harrison said she was starting to clean house when the crash occurred about 8:15 a.m. and had just walked out of the living room into the rear of the house. "It sounded just like a bomb exploding," she said.

The living room window was shattered in the impact, which also sheared off an exterior portion of the roof.

Mrs. Pelet's body was trapped in the vehicle for several minutes, but was finally removed with the aid of the Marin County Fire Department which also washed away gasoline which had spread in a pool over the concrete yard.

Mrs. Pelet was the 25th traffic fatality in Marin this year as compared to 20 auto deaths for the same period last year.

Hanoi Slaps Down Bruce's Peace Pitch

PARIS (UPI)—U.S. Ambassador David K.E. Bruce said today the United States was ready to negotiate a peace accord that would safeguard the right of all parties in Vietnam. Then the Communists repeated all of their hardline demands.

Today's session had started on the first hopeful note in many months with Bruce's statement and a pledge by the North Vietnamese negotiator to "listen carefully" to Bruce's remarks. The hopeful note was short lived.

Hanoi negotiator Xuan Thuy, in his first meeting with Bruce, promised to listen but then said that "after nearly 20 months with more than 80 sessions, it is now clear that the United States is not showing a serious attitude and goodwill."

Nguyen Van Tien, the Viet Cong's No. 2 negotiator, followed him and served notice the Communist side has not backed down from its demand for an early, total and unconditional U.S. military pullout from South Vietnam and the dumping of President Nguyen Van Thieu's Saigon government.

After five hours of wrangling the conference broke up with only an agreement to meet again next Thursday. The Viet Cong and South Vietnamese said the conference remained deadlocked.

Bruce and Thuy did not shake hands today when they met. They merely bowed across the

No Hint Of Slowdown By Safety Employees

The county's 210 safety employees — deputies, firemen aids and communications workers — entered their third day of work without a contract, but with no hint of a strike or slowdown.

"The last thing we want to do is disrupt essential services," declared Newl G. Weaver, president of the Marin County Employees Association and acting general manager.

Will there be a sudden walkoff or slowdown, particularly with the long labor day weekend coming up?

"I feel sure there won't," replied Weaver. "There's been a feeling throughout that they don't advocate disruption. But of course, there is always a possibility. But I don't think so."

Weaver said the employees' next move will depend on the outcome of today's consultation with San Francisco Attorney Jake W. Ehrlich. Sgt. Wade R. Powell and Alfred Curry, members of the employees' negotiating team, went to see Ehrlich this morning "to get legal opinions," said Weaver. "Mr. Ehrlich has not yet been hired. The question of whether to bring in an attorney or whether there is any reason for an attorney still remains."

Weaver said the safety employees are always open to negotiation. "But at this point, it's a standoff. They (county negotiators) won't go up anymore and we can't come down."

The county's last proposal for a 7.5 per cent raise was rejected by the employees, who are holding out for 10 to 12.5 per cent raises.

The 1969 contract for safety employees expired Monday midnight. By action of the Marin County Board of Supervisors, all safety employees began drawing 5 per cent more pay effective Sept. 1.

About 30 wives and children of the safety employees continued marching in front of the Civic Center entrance this morning for the third consecutive day. They carried placards asking for better pay.

CRISIS GROWING

Israeli Cabinet In Secret Talks

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Israeli cabinet met throughout the day today in utmost secrecy in Tel Aviv to study the growing Egyptian missile crisis, and the well-informed newspaper Maariv said Defense Minister Moshe Dayan wanted to scuttle the "ineffective and unworkable" cease-fire.

Alternatively, Maariv said, Dayan demanded that the Defense Ministry in consultation with Prime Minister Golda Meir have a free hand to counter a reported Egyptian missile buildup as it saw fit. There were hints Wednesday Israel might take action against the missiles.

From the cabinet meeting Dayan went to give an off the record briefing to Israeli newspaper editors and was appearing on Israeli television tonight when an aide said, "Many of the unanswered questions may be answered then."

Despite reports Dayan was ready to resign, an aide said he emerged from the crucial session still minister of defense "and let's hope he will continue to be so."

UPI correcpondent Peter D. Lynch in Tel Aviv said tentative U.S. confirmation of Israeli charges that Egypt had continually violated the ceasefire since it went into effect Aug. 7 had not allayed Israeli fears.

"It's all right for Americans, but these violations will have to be paid in Israeli lives," one official said.

As the cabinet met today Israel lodged its ninth official complaint of Egyptian ceasefire violations by bringing Russian-built missiles closer to the Suez Canal.

The cabinet met in its dual capacity as the Ministerial Committee on Security Affairs, which automatically placed its deliberations under the official secrets act—an indication of the gravity with which the government views the situation.

There were reports Israel had given the United States two weeks to seek the removal of any.

any Egyptian missiles and that it had decided not to participate in the New York talks for 10 more days. But a spokesman said this was "just sheer speculation."

"We might know something definite later this afternoon,"

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Suharto Arrives

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (UPI) — President Suharto of Indonesia arrived in The Netherlands today for a shortened state visit that twice was postponed by protests of political opponents in Holland.

Suharto was met at the airfield by Queen Juliana and Prince Bernhard. The queen broke protocol to shake his hand as he stepped from the plane, followed by his wife. She usually receives foreign visitors at one of her palaces.

Suharto's visit was postponed twice and cut to 24 hours after a group of young Ambonese Indonesians shot their way into the Indonesian ambassador's residence and held the ambassador's family hostage for 10 hours.

Space Cutbacks

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — Two out of every five moonport jobs have been eliminated by space cutbacks during the past two years, but the Kennedy Space Center work force now is leveling off.

Dr. Kurt H. Debus, the center director, announced Wednesday the current employment level here, ranging from 15,000 and 15,500, will remain constant until 1973. During the peak of the buildup for project Apollo, 26,600 people worked at the center.

From 1973 on, the future of manned launchings at the Cape — and the future of its manpower — remains in doubt. The newly trimmed moon flight program eliminated two Apollo missions that were to keep the center's billion dollar launch complex active into 1974.

Extortion Charge

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — An unemployed car salesman has been arrested on federal charges of threatening to blow up a Trans World Airlines jet in a $20,000 extortion plot.

Arrested at Hollywood High School Wednesday as he opened a TWA flight bag supposedly filled with the ransom money was Lowell Francis McDonald, 41, described as a resident of Hollywood from Pennsylvania.

The FBI said the extortionist telephoned TWA offices three times earlier in the day giving elaborate instructions for depositing the money at the school.

34 Flood Deaths

MANILA (UPI) — The worst flood waters to hit the Philippine capital gradually receded today, leaving 34 dead, thousands homeless and the danger a fire could spread.

With 22 inches of rain reported, an area the size of Florida was affected. Manila itself was hardest hit with four or five feet of water in many areas of the city. President Ferdinand E. Marcos declared a "state of calamity and emergency" and mobilized a major relief program.

A fire broke out today in a seven-story building across the street from the U.S. embassy in the city's "tourist belt" and firemen who brought their trucks through four-foot deep water to fight the blaze warned it could spread to neighboring buildings.

Chile To Vote

Chile's 3.5 million voters decide Friday whether this constitutional democracy, with a record of orderly successions dating from 1932, will become the first nation to freely elect a Marxist president.

The candidates are:

Dr. Salvador Allende, 62, a Communist-backed Socialist.

Attempted Bombing

ATHENS (UPI) — A Cypriot man and an Italian woman were killed Wednesday when a bomb they apparently were preparing to set off in or near the U.S. embassy exploded prematurely, Athens police said today.

There were no injuries to embassy personnel.

Police identified the couple as George Tsekouris, 25, a Cypriot studying in Italy, and Maria Angeloni, 31, an Italian secretary. They were suspected in an earlier bombing of the Athens-Pireaus subway Aug. 21, police said.

Powell Suit Filed

NEW YORK (UPI) — The state senator who beat Adam Clayton Powell in June's Democratic primary has filed suit to prevent the veteran congressman's name from appearing on the November ballot as an Independent party candidate.

Charles B. Rangel charged in a New York Supreme Court suit Wednesday the petitions Powell gave the board of elections did not carry enough valid signatures.

Nuclear Sea Ban

GENEVA (UPI) — The 25-nation disarmament conference wound up its 1970 session today with general agreement on a joint United States-Soviet treaty to ban nuclear weapons from the world's seabeds.

The treaty, first proposed a year ago and modified three times to meet the demands of nonaligned countries, will now go to the United Nations General Assembly.

U.S. and Soviet spokesmen said they hope the General Assembly will approve the treaty by acclamation so that it can be opened for signature by all nations by the end of the year.

Koenig Dies

PARIS (UPI) — Gen. of the Army Pierre Koenig, one of the leaders of the Free French army during World War II, died Wednesday night, American Hospital officials said today. He was 71.

Koenig served as defense minister under two Fourth Republic governments.

Koenig, born Oct. 10, 1898, in Caen, Normandy, began his military career in 1918. Former President Charles de Gaulle made him a general of the Free French forces during World War II in 1941.

During the Nazi occupation of France, Koenig served as the head of land troops in the Africa campaign and was a hero of the Bir Hakeim stand against the Germans.

Computer Helps Find Bullet Path

The first bullet fired in the case pierced a gasoline station sign and went astray.

To find it, the M. B. Associates firm of San Ramon fired test bullets into an identical sign and fed ballistics information into a computer, the department said Wednesday.

The computer suggested looking in a driveway a block southeast of the killing site and that's where detectives found the slug which was sent away for analysis.

Patrolman Ronald Tsukamoto, 28, was slain by a second bullet fired by a bystanding Negro who has not been caught. The shooting took place Aug. 20 as the patrolman was talking to a motorcycle driver about an illegal U-turn.

Redwoods League Acquires Plot

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Save the Redwoods League announced Wednesday that a 270-acre plot had been acquired as an addition to the Montgomery Woods State Reserve.

To purchase the plot, the league put up $57,000 which was matched by state bond funds.

Proposition 15 Facing Court Test

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Secretary of State H. P. Sullivan was under court order today to remove the opposition argument to Proposition 15 from the November ballot's voters pamphlet or permit a rebuttal statement to the argument.

Superior Court Judge William A. White's order, issued Wednesday, said Sullivan could take either action or appear at a hearing Sept. 15 to explain why he didn't.

SUIT FILED

The order was issued on a suit filed Monday by Bruce W. Sumner, chairman of the Constitution Revision Committee. Sumner contended the opposition argument was improperly submitted by Assemblyman Victor V. Veysey, R-Brawley, and was "untrue."

Sumner asked that the argument opposing the proposition which streamlines Article XX of the state constitution be removed or he be permitted to write a rebutal statement to appear in the voters pamphlet. The constitutional revision measure was drafted by his committee.

NOTES VOTE

Sumner said Veysey did not obtain permission from the presiding officer of the Assembly to write the opposition argument. He also noted Veysey twice voted for the legislation which put the measure on the ballot.

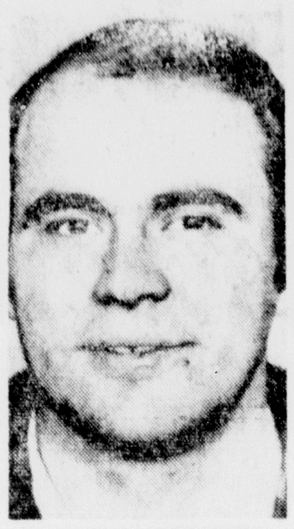

Veysey said he did not realize until later that the proposition would remove from the Constitution veterans' guarantees, including the right of reinstatement for persons who left state jobs to serve in the military.

Sumner said Veysey used a false statement that veterans' guarantees in state law would be lost if the measure was approved.

"This simply is not true," he said. "Existing section 3.5 (of Article XX) says only that '. . . the Legislature may provide for the reinstatement . . . etc.' and this language guarantees nothing."

Military Club

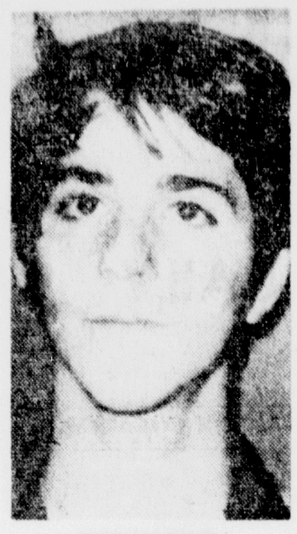

The Marin Military Affairs Committee will hold its first general membership meeting Oct. 8 at the Hamilton Air Force Base Officers' Club. The evening's activities will include the installation of officers.

FBI Seeks Four In Wisconsin Blast

MADISON, Wis. (UPI)—Four young men who slipped into the underground after being stopped by police investigating the Aug. 24 explosion at the University of Wisconsin were being sought today on federal charges.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover announced Wednesday that charges of sabotage, conspiracy and destruction of government property had been filed against the four.

They were identified as Karleton Lewis Armstrong, 22, Madison, a former student at the University of Wisconsin; his 19-year-old brother, Dwight Allen Armstrong, a high school dropout; David Sylva Fine, 18, of Madison and Wilmington, Del., who recently worked for the UW student newspaper, The Cardinal, and a former staff member of a Students for a Democratic Society Publication at the University of Delaware, and Leo Frederick Burt, 22, Madison, a summer session student who also wrote for the Cardinal.

"We don't have any idea where they are," U.S. Attorney John Olson said. "We will have a hard, long pull now that we've gotten this far."

The FBI said, however, there were indications the fugitives might be in New York where the Armstrongs had asked relatives to telegraph them money. Agents also intercepted a letter saying Fine and Burt were in New York en route to Canada.

The explosion in the early morning hours of Aug. 24 killed Robert Fassnacht, 33, a research physicist who was the father of three, and injured four other persons. The blast, set in a stolen van truck, tore through part of the Army Mathematics Research center on the campus and caused $6 million damage.

According to an affidavit filed in U.S. District Court, a car containing the four young men was stopped by a Sauk County police officer north of Madison shortly after the bombing. They told the officer they were university students going to an outing at Devil's Lake, Wis., the affidavit said. Later, it said, the car was traced to the Armstrongs' father, Donald.

Investigators said the explosion may have been set with a mixture of fuel oil and nitrogen fertilizer. The FBI charged that Karleton Armstrong bought large quantities of both before Aug. 24.

The affidavit quoted a friend of the Armstrongs, Maxim Sliter, as saying that shortly before the bombing the Armstrongs told him they were responsible for the abortive aerial bombing of the Badger Ordnance works near Baraboo, Wis., last New Year's Day.

"Karland Dwight Armstrong advised Sliter that they were going to perpetrate further bombings in the near future, that these bombings would be done late in the evening so that no one would be hurt," the document said. "The boys advised him that they had a great amount of explosives in their possession, namely nitrate and primacord."

A Madison service station operator, the affidavit said, identifield Karleton Armstrong as the person who bought 100 gallons of fuel on Aug. 16. The plant manager of the Farmers Union Cooperative said Armstrong used a fictitious name when he bought 1,700 pounds of nitrogen fertilizer Aug. 19.

The FBI said the Armstrongs contracted relatives in Madison and asked that money be wired to them in New York. Agents found at a Madison home a letter from Fine, postmarked in New York, saying, "We (Dave and Leo) are in N.Y. with good contacts ready to head for Canada.

The affidavit said the note directed an Eliot Silberberg to tell The Kaleidoscope, an underground newspaper, to pass word to "all the media." A few days after the bombing, The Kaleidoscope printed a Note from "The New Year's Gang" (an apparent reference to the attempted bombing of the Badger Ordnance Works), accepting responsibility for the research center bombing.

Plan On Transit Fund Is Supported

I-J Special Report

SAN JOSE — Diversion of highway funds for transit, proposed in a constitutional amendment on the November ballot, was endorsed unanimously yesterday by Bay Area Air Pollution Control District directors.

The amendment, Proposition 18, would allow counties to use up to one-quarter of their share of highway funds for any other transportation facilities. The diversion could be done only by a favorable majority vote of the people balloting in the county.

The highway lobby already has mounted a major campaign against the proposition, which would cut away the present constitutional requirement that highway funds, mostly from gas taxes, be used exclusively for highway purposes. Freeways serve more persons at less cost than transit, according to opponents of the measure.

Yesterday's strong endorsement came after Ruth Church Gupta, San Francisco attorney, urged the board of directors to support the amendment. She represented the Californians Against Smog, a group of environmental and health organizations formed to campaign for its passage.

Seven of the 12 directors attended the monthly board meeting in county offices. Marin Supervisor William A. Gnoss and Sausalito Councilman Wyman Hicks voted for the endorsement.

The amendment, authored in the Legislature by Sen. James R. Mills, D-San Diego, would allow use of highway funds for construction or acquisition of transit facilities, but not for their operation.

Such use of a county's share of the highway funds, however, would mean that its highway construction would be cut by an amount equal to the funds voted for transit. Mills argued that 87 per cent of the trips on the state highways start and end within the same county.

The one-quarter limit on diversion was suggested by Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post as the maximum amount that could be diverted in any county without adversely affecting the state highway construction program outside of that county.

Mills, according to material distributed by Mrs. Gupta, also noted that rural counties could use their highway funds to improve county roads which are not eligible for inclusion in the state highway system.

REGULATIONS — Received report that the district's advisory council will meet on Sept. 16 for a final action on staff recommendations to toughen limits on polluting industries. The council's members have been hearing the recommendations for seven months against a background of strong objections by industry.

VIOLATIONS — Received report that violation notices had been issued by inspectors on Aug. 14 against Cala Foods Inc., Novato, and on Aug. 18 against Co-Op Shopping Center, Corte Madera, for improperly operating multi-chamber incinerators.

SMOG — Received report that in 19 of the 30 days through Aug. 20 oxidant values were above the state standard.

VARIANCES — Received report that the district's hearing board had denied renewal of a variance for mobile heater planers, machines that heat asphalt pavement for repaving — and produce clouds of oily, smelly smoke.

Association Eyes Brown's Hall Future

Directors of the Homestead Valley Community Association are considering the sale of the association's meeting place, Brown's Hall, because of deficits incurred in operating the facility.

Secretary Audrey Peterson said the board met Tuesday to discuss several proposals under which the group would sell or lease the hall.

Uses mentioned were a cinematography center, a classic film theater and an organic food snack bar, she said.

"The board is seeking the best way to use the hall — the best for the community, that is," Mrs. Peterson said. A major concern if the hall is sold or leased is some arrangement for rehearsal space for the Homestead Players.

The board appointed a committee, headed by vice president Orville Erringer, to study the offers and report at a special board meeting Sept. 15 at 8 p.m. at Brown's Hall.

Any decision must first be approved by the general membership of the association at a community meeting, Mrs. Peterson said.

The association operated the hall during 1969 at a $1,371 deficit, partly because an application to the state for property tax exemption was denied after it was contested by Marin County.

Texas Diphtheria

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)— The city reported its 76th and 77th diphtheria cases of the year Wednesday and its 46th and 47th cases since Aug. 1.

South Sonoma Schools To Be Open On Sept. 9

All public schools in southern Sonoma will open Sept. 8; close Sept. 9 for admission day; reopen on Sept. 10.

Bussing in Petaluma elementary schools will be limited to the Penngrove schools where students will be on double session until the completion of modular classrooms next month.

The bus schedule for the Petaluma High School District is unchanged from last year with service offered to students living 1.5 miles or more away from school. Complete schedules are available at the district office, Fifth and B Streets, Petaluma.

Complete bus schedules will be mailed this week to homes of students in the Old Adobe School District, Petaluma. Parents not receiving schedules should contact the district office at La Tercera School.

Bombings Tied To POW Status

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (UPI)—H. Ray Rainwater, new national commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, said Wednesday the VFW will ask the President to resume bombing North Vietnam if the Communists refuse to establish a prisoner of war exchange program

"A resolution passed at the VFW National convention last month called on the North Vietnamese to begin a prisoner exchange program within 30 days" of the receipt of a petition, he said.

"If they do not, we (the VFW) will officially ask the President of the United States to bomb Haiphong and the dikes which protect the North Vietnames rice fields."

Figures On Contaminated Air Sought

I-J Special Report

SAN JOSE — Bay Area citizens should be told how many particles of contaminated air they inhale, air pollution officials were told yesterday.

Peter B. Venuto, a business instructor at San Jose State College, said such information was needed so citizens can judge the threat of pollution to their health. He made his proposal at the monthly meeting of Bay Area Air Pollution Control District directors.

Venuto, founder of Citizens Against Air Pollution, long a gadfly of the district, yesterday praised its board of directors — which has four new members among its 12 directors. Venuto long fought unsuccessfully for full disclosure of district records, and the board finally granted partial access last spring.

"For the first time," Venuto said, "There is a great deal of hope — at least as much hope as there is smog."

The average person inhales about one-third of a cubic foot of air each minute, or some 15,000 quarts of air a day, he said. A measure of the number of contaminated particles in each cubic foot thus would be "a very vital statistic," he said.

District officials agreed to consider the feasibility of getting the information Venuto requested.

Toll Building Contract Given

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Two contracts for work on the administration building at the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge Toll Plaza have been awarded by the State General Services Department.

A $174,344 contract went to the Wilner Construction Co., Daly City, to provide a larger, improved cashiering facility, including installation of security equipment and construction of a new vault.

E. H. Morrill Co., Berkeley, got $167,108 to install a forced air heating, cooling and filtering distribution system.

Report Released On Pollution Tonnage

I-J Special Report

SAN JOSE — The Bay Area Air Pollution Control District, long stung by critics for allegedly granting variances to polluting industries, yesterday released for the first time a list of variances by company names coupled with the tons of contaminants each emits.

The list, presented at the district director's monthly meeting, showed only two companies with variances emitting more than one ton a day. Most of the 14 variance permits were for operations emitting less than one-tenth of a ton a day.

The two exceptions were the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. and the DuPont Co. The utility, on five to 10 days a year, was estimated to emit 150 tons a day of contaminants from its Antioch power plant, and 88 tons from its plant in San Francisco.

These tonnage figures will be cut by about one-third after the utility imports additional low-sulfur fuel oil, directors were told by the district's chief administrative officer D. J. Callaghan.

The power plants have to switch from gas to oil during especially cold weather, when the gas is needed instead by domestic and industrial customers, he said.

Callaghan said that these emissions occur at a time of year when the dispersion of air contaminants is good, thus the emissions "really don't cause much of a problem."

The DuPont plant in Contra Costa County emits nine tons a day of contaminants, but the emission will be cut to less than one-tenth of a ton per day when a new incinerator is installed in May 1971, Callaghan said. The time was needed to design the incinerator, he added. Interim improvements should take care of two-thirds of the problem next month, he said.

Both PG&E and DuPont should meet district regulations when their promised improvements are made, Callaghan predicted.

The list of variances as of July 29 included only one in Marin, that one for clearing land in the Point Reyes National Seashore. This variance permit has been used only in stormy weather, and no complaints ever have been received about its use, Callaghan said.

The list of variance permits and corresponding tonnage figures was requested last month by Sausalito Councilman Wyman Hicks, a director of the district.

Marin Supervisor William A. Gnoss asked Callaghan to have the district engineers take a look at the stranded drydock in Richardson Bay. The county may seek to burn them down, Gnoss said, adding he was opposed to the suggestion because oil in the wooden structure may cause it to burn for several days.

At Hicks' suggestion, the board directed Callaghan to issue tonnage figures with the monthly list of variance permits.

The district already reports the tonnage of contaminants emitted by industries violating regulations. In the list presented yesterday for violators reported in July, American Smelting and Refining Co. of Crockett emits 97.3 tons a day, Phillips Petroleum Co. of Martinez, 72.4: Shell Oil Co. of Martinez, 41.6; and Standard Oil Co. of Richmond 89 tons. The figures are based on 1969 data.

The district figured that an average of 2,581 tons of contaminants were emitted each day during 1969 by stationary sources under its jurisdiction.

Pleads Guilty To Weed Count

Citos of 35 Lincoln Drive was arrested after police seeking him on a $45 traffic warrant from Merced County found five planters containing marijuana-like plants in his living room.

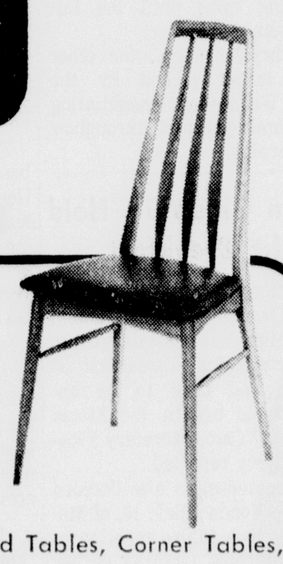

Citos was freed on $1,000 bail. A preliminary hearing was set for Sept. 29.

Former House Aide Receives Sentence

NEW YORK (UPI)—Dr. Martin Sweig, suspended chief administrative aide to House Speaker John W. McCormack, was sentenced to 30 months in prison and fined $2,000 today for his conviction for perjury.

Sweig, a long time friend of the speaker, was convicted July 9 of lying to a grand jury after an 11-day trial before U. S. District Judge Marvin E. Frankel.

Sweig and Washington Lobbyist Nathan Voloshen were indicted on charges of using McCormack's office for influence peddling and of lying to a grand jury investigating the case.

Voloshen pleaded guilty to the charges shortly before the trial started. Sweig was convicted on one count of perjury but acquitted on five others and on one count of conspiracy to misuse the speaker's office.

Frankel stayed the execution of the jail sentence and payment of the fine to allow the Court of Appeals to hear the appeal Sweig filed after his conviction.

Frankel called the conviction "a ' grevious case of perjury" and said: "I am not in disagreement with the judgement of the jury."

Frankel said there were "very profound charges of corruption" made against Voloshen and Sweig and that Sweig had information about corruption in government but chose to keep silent.

Frankel told him, "if in the future the case of your appeal is not successful, you might wish to speak more freely at a later date and if so I would be always available to reconsider in any application as to your sentence you might make."

Before seetnncing him, Frankel disclosed that a presentence report intimated that Sweig had received $5.000 in gifts during his association with Voloshen. Paul Smith, Sweig's lawyer, denied there was any truth in the report.

Voloshen pleaded guilty to both perjury and misusing the speaker's office and was scheduled to be sentenced Sept. 17. The 72-year-old influence peddler has been ill, however, and that could be moved back. He was unable to answer a subpoena calling for his appearance as a witness in a court case in Brooklyn Monday.

Plans Set On Access To Beaches

The Strawberry Recreation District board last night decided to take steps to guarantee public access to beach and marsh areas of the Strawberry Peninsula, clerk Jeanne Heick reported.

Directors instructed J. Martin Rosse, district architect, to prepare legal descriptions of certain areas which the board feels the public has a right to use. The areas are in privtae ownership.

The action was taken after a committee reported that the California Supreme Court in February ruled that the public may continue to use beaches and their access roads if such use has gone unchallenged for five years, Mrs. Heick said.

After descriptions are prepared, the district will file briefs in the courts claiming permanent easements to beach areas on the southwest side of Strawberry Point and in the Strawberry Cove-Strawberry Lagoon area.

A motion to claim easements for the widest possible public use was approved 4-0, with director James L. Andrews abstaining, Mrs. Heick said.

Directors also instructed their attorney, Stephen H. Kaufmann to attend the Marin County Planning Commission meeting on Sept. 14 and inform commissioners that the board opposes any development in the Strawberry Cove area.

The Strawberry Recreation District board also:

TENNIS — Was informed that residents are anxious that the tennis program, discontinued last month because of personnel and money problems, be reinitiated. The board also decided to hold a round robin tennis tournament for women but left the date open.

CLEANUP — Set the week of Oct. 5-9 as Fall Cleanup Week, during which Mill Valley Refuse Service will conduct free pickups of up to three cubic feet of rubbish placed in a pile at curbside. Pickup will be on the regular collection day.

FILING — Instructed Kaufmann to consult with the county counsel's office about emergency legislation passed by the state which changed the deadline for filing for the November election from Sept. 4 to Aug. 28. The board is concerned that persons interested in filing for election to the board may be prevented from doing so.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned to tomorrow at 8 p.m. at Strawberry Point School to continue discussion of the filing deadline.

Man Hit By Car Reported Fair

A 67-year-old Mill Valley man was reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital after he was struck by a car yesterday as he walked across Throckmorton Avenue in Mill Valley.

Mervyn L. Latson, of 153 Sycamore Avenue, suffered a concussion, a broken knee and multiple bruises when he was hit, about 6:45 p.m. by an auto driven by Kay Shear, 25, of 220 Grandview Avenue, Novato.

The women, according to police, said she was blinded by the sun as she was traveling west on Throckmorton and did not see Latson who was crossing in a crosswalk west of Corte Madera Avenue.

Murphy Campaign Aides Appointed

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — Former Santa Rosa Mayor Jack Ryerson and Dr. Dudley S. Moore, a Santa Rosa dentist, have been named to the campaign to reelect Sen. George Murphy to a second term.

Ryerson was named Sonoma County chairman, and Dr. Moore was named to the executive committee of the campaign region covering five northern counties, including Sonoma.

NLRB Rules I-J Employee Fine Illegal

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A National Labor Relations Board examiner ruled today that the union on strike against the Independent-Journal violated the law in disciplining a member, Gordon Dixon.

Dixon, a union member for 40 years, is composing room foreman who fired a fellow employee for taking the afternoon off without permission Oct. 10, 1969, three months before San Francisco Typographical Union 21 began its current strike against the newspaper.

Subsequently Dixon declined to appear at union proceedings concerning the case and refused to rehire the discharged employee. As a result, the union last Jan. 23 fined Dixon $418.

NLRB Examiner Allen Sinsheimer Jr., who conducted three days of hearings on the dispute, decided the union action amounted to unlawful coercion of an employer in the selection of Dixon as a foreman who adjusts grievances.

Sinsheimer also concluded the union violated case interpretations of the law by commencing proceedings against Dixon because he continued to work during the strike.

The examiner rejected a union interpretation that the law permits enforcement of a union's internal rules against a foreman in Dixon's position who crosses picket lines.

Sinsheimer recommended that the NLRB issue an order directing the union to rescind the fines and other actions against Dixon.

Last month Sinsheimer also recommended an NLRB decision in favor of the employer and against the union. He said picketing of newsprint shipments at a San Francisco pier constituted an illegal secondary boycott.

an official source said. "Until then, speculation is folly."

Egypt accused Israel today of trying to wriggle out of a peaceful Middle East solution under U.N. terms and called for a summit of African leaders to support Egypt in the Arab-Israeli conflict.

The statement came from Mohamed Fayek, Egyptian representative to an Organization of African Unity conference in Addis Ababa who stated Egypt's case at start of debate on the Mideast situation.

The Israeli viewpoint is that the United States should speak out firmly against Russian and Egyptian actions in moving SAM2 missiles closer to the Suez Canal in violation of the truce. A spokesman Wednesday said the U.S. statement should be "loud and clear."

Instead, the United States sent word to Russia and Egypt warning them to avoid any further violations of the fragile cease-fire agreement lest they impair the peace talks. Israeli sources said Defense Minister Moshe Dayan wants the United States to demand withdrawal of the missile sites, otherwise the talks will be "meaningless."

Informed sources said a majority of the cabinet, including Prime Minister Golda Meir, was swinging toward Dayan's hard line. Mrs. Meir and Dayan have conferred frequently during the week on the crisis but a spokesman said they had no meeting before today's session.

The session was held inside the Defense Ministry compound in the heart of Tel Aviv. Mrs. Meir, Foreign Minister Abba Eban and others drove from Jerusalem to attend. The site meant the meeting was being held in Dayan's backyard, and indications were it would last all day.

As they met a military spokesman said Israel had discovered new Soviet ground-to-air missile sites 19 miles west of the canal and that a ninth formal complaint was sent to the United Nations truce supervisers headquarters in Jerusalem.

Jail Sentence In Drug Case

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The former coordinator of Marin's New Careers program, Michael R. James, yesterday was sentenced to six months in jail with credit for time served since July 10, and placed on three years probation in superior court.

James, 28, of Oakland was arrested Dec. 8 in the Fillmore district of San Francisco and charged with possession of three small balloons of heroin. He was subsequently fired from the position as coordinator of Marin's New Careers program.

He pleaded innocent, but changed his plea to guilty July 18.

White Cane Days Set In October

The annual white cane campaign of the Lions Clubs of Marin to raise funds for eye care service will be conducted Oct. 2 and 3 throughout Marin.

"Great strides have been made in the eye sciences recently," reported Michael Conley, white cane days chairman of the San Rafael Lions Club. White cane days give residents an opportunity to help "extend these innovations toward serving needy who are blind or have sight impairment."

The clubs forward 100 per cent of the donations to a fund for eye care service, he reported.

Half dimes were minted from 1794 to 1873.

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

Nuisance And Public Good

Dan Dumpty owned a large empty lot on which he piled old equipment, cars, trash, and the like. Weeds and clutter added to the lot's ugliness.

The city prosecuted Dan and the court fined and ordered him to clean up the place. Dan appealed to a higher court, and, on a "technicality," won.

The district attorney filed a new action charging Dan with maintaining a public nuisance. This time Dan claimed he had been put in double jeopardy, but the court ruled against him. He had to pay and to clean up his lot. A public nuisance is a "continuing" crime for which the district attorney could prosecute.

In other cases guests held wild parties in a hotel where narcotic arrests and other crimes were frequent. The hotel was not meeting health standards. In court the hotel owner claimed he did his best to keep his guests in line but he could not do so.

Still the district attorney sued to close the hotel on the ground that it was a public nuisance. The city did close it.

In still another case, Art had inherited an apartment house which his father had built years before. In 1923 it had been a fine structure, meeting all the standards of that time. But now it was a danger to the public. Because of changing standards, the court ruled that an abatement proceeding was valid.

A new building code may be "retroactive" if its terms are reasonable and public safety and health are involved. For example, it would be reasonable for owners to have a reasonable time to meet requirements for expensive changes.

On the other hand, if scientific discoveries show that a building needs corrections at once, it would be reasonable to have the owner make prompt corrections, however costly.

understood that he delivered it to Mahmoud Riad, foreign affairs adviser to Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

McCloskey said shortly before 1 p.m. EDT that he did not know yet whether the U.S. ambassador to Moscow, Jacob Beam, had delivered the protest to Soviet officials. Beam had been instructed late Wednesday night to try to present the protest personally to Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

McCloskey said the violations of which the United States has firm evidence all have taken place since Aug. 19. That was the day the United States said it did not have conclusive evidence to support Israeli charges of earlier Egyptian violations.

UAW Negotiating With General Motors

DETROIT (UPI)—Negotiating committees for the United Auto Workers and General Motors Corp., one of the union's two strike targets, met for less than an hour today before recessing talks until the late afternoon.

At Chrysler Corp., the other strike target picked by the UAW Wednesday, negotiating subcommittees met throughout the morning.

Marin Group To Hold Benefit Breakfast

Directors of the Marin City Home Owners and Improvement Association last night decided to sponsor a pancake breakfast, at a date and time to be announced, to benefit the Marin City Boys' Club, secretary Flossie F. Berry reported.

The homeowners also decided to invite Vonda Riley, 16, of Marin City to a future meeting to talk and show pictures of her summer as an exchange student in Norway, Mrs. Berry said.

Noisy Night AF Jets Bring Complaints

Jet engines, which had been undergoing repairs, whined loudly, according to Novato residents, from 8 p.m. yesterday to 1 a.m. today.

Hamilton Air Force Base information office reported that repair difficulties delayed tests usually made during daylight hours, and a certian number of jets are required to be ready to fly by 5 a.m. daily.

A Measure Of Stress For Exec

By JAMES WILKINSON
(London Express News Service)

LONDON — The dynamic boss of a major industrial concern may be a "mouse when he gets home," a doctor reports.

And because of the strains involved in being an executive a big inquiry into the health risks run by business menwas called for by the doctor, Bill Jones, the director general of the Health Education Council.

"We don't know whether people play a role at work consistent with their own personality and then change when they get home," he said.

The "tycoon at work-mouse at home" syndrome is probably not common, Jones said, but "a man can't adopt the same attitude to his wife whom he has known for 23 years as he does to his subordinates at work."

This continual stress of playing two roles in life may have something to do with the illnesses that beset middle-aged executives.

"At present we can't measure the degree of stress that's safe for bosses, especially those who are not born leaders," he said.

The trouble is that executives are too sensitive about what they disclose about their work methods and private habits and so proper research on the subject cannot easily be done, he said.

"A penetrating, frank and prolonged study needs to be made by medical and behavioral scientists. Industry should welcome this and encourage executives to offer themselves as guinea pigs," Jones told a London conference of health visitors.

The signs of the overstrained boss were there for all to see. He began to distrust his colleagues, had a mania for checking small points, refused to take holidays, made unclear decisions and talked too much — often using glib catch phrases instead of thinking clearly and with judgment.

Eventually when the strain became too much and he began to crack he often did things that would have appalled him under normal circumstances.

Jones summed up these lapses as "wine, women and song" — a sort of diversion and relief.

"The problem is we can't measure responsibility properly like you can measure certain health risks in manual workers," Jones said later.

"A firm's most valuable assets are often its executives and there is no known way of assessing them properly. It is difficult to judge who would be the right man for a particular job, for example.

"The whole thing needs a more sophisticated approach," he added.

TALKS

conference table before beginning their arguments.

Diplomatic observers said the initial inconclusive exchange between Bruce and Thuy indicated there had been no shift in either side's basic position.

It also dashed hopes in French political circles that Thuy, a former foreign minister who has spent several months in Hanoi in consultations, has returned to Paris with a flexible position.

Observers said, however, that American and Hanoi negotiators soon may agree to hold secret talks to determine whether there is an area of agreement in their platofrms.

Tien, the Viet Cong negotiator, said "the Vietnamese people will never accept any bargain" on the troop withdrawal issue and that the Viet Cong has not changed its mind that the United States must dump Thieu's "dictatorial, warlike, corrupt and abhorred" regime.

Thuy said the negotiators must take up the Viet Cong's 10 point program which calls for U.S. troop evacuation and creation of a coalition cabinet. He said if the U.S. government continues its present policy the Vietnamese will fight until it achieves a true peace and will unite with Laotian and Cambodian peoples "to defeat American aggression."

In a 13-page statement Thuy fired broadside after broadside at the Nixon administration, claiming it wanted war, not peace.

He said Hanoi did not seek any humiliating defeat of the United States but was offering it an "honorable way out" of the war and that the Communist demands were "extremely flexible and open." Then he said if the United States would agree to the total troop pullout and a new coalition government for Saigon "the discussions can start on the specific questions."

San Quentin Man Collapses, Dies

Death was attributed to apparently natural causes by the Marin County Coroner's Office.

The Bay Cities ambulance, summoned at 10:45 a.m. to transport the 50-year-old man, was driven by his son, Jack Atnip, who was unaware of the victim's identity until reaching the scene.

Funeral arrangements for Atnip, a native of San Francisco were pending at Keaton's Mortuary.

OBITUARIES

Funeral For A. E. Ruedy Tomorrow

Funeral for August E. Ruedy, of 366 Meadow Way, San Geronimo, will be at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow at the Harry M. Williams Mortuary in San Rafael.

Ruedy, 74, died at his home about five days ago, apparently of natural causes, according to the Marin County coroner's office. His body was found Tuesday by his landlord Stanley Votes.

He was born in Oakland and was a veteran of World War I. He lived in Oakland until moving to San Anselmo 25 years ago. He was a self-employed furniture contractor, designing and building custom furniture. He retired to San Geronimo seven years ago.

He is survived by a sister, Mrs. Henriette R. Swanson of Menlo Park.

Burial will be in Golden Gate National Cemetery in San Bruno.

Development On Its Way To Approval

A proposed 22-unit housing development received partial approval last night when the Sausalito Planning Commission agreed to grant a variance to David Hunter, owner of the 145,000 square foot planned site.

But the commission withheld approval of the conditional use permit needed before the development can be started until the Sausalito City Council acts on the variance, according to city clerk Miriam Ansell.

The project, to be located on Santa Rosa Avenue above Glen Drive, would include apartments, duplexes and some single-family dwellings, Mrs. Ansell said.

The variance will be reviewed by the city council at its Sept. 15 meeting.

The Sausalito Planning Commission also:

HEARING — Postponed a hearing, scheduled for last night, on proposed amendments to the city's General Plan until Sept. 10 at 8 p.m. in City Hall when the commission will hold a special adjourned meeting. The amendments would incorporate the recently adopted Marinship and Central Waterfront plans into the General Plan.

TEST SPAR — Approved a condition use permit to allow construction and maintenance of a 50-foot sail boat mast — for testing sails — at North Sails Inc., 2670 Bridgeway.

PARKING — Denied an application from Alexander Anolik to permit installation of tandem parking at a residence at 911 Bridgeway.

Cambodians Retake A Strategic Village

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—Three battalions of Cambodian troops including mercenaries trained in South Vietnam today recaptured the village of Srang whose fall on Sunday had opened a new Communist threat toward the capital.

"We are great! We are great! We are great!" said Battalion Commander Danh Croch, visibly delighted over the victory.

Srang is 26 miles south of Phnom Penh and was captured Sunday by the Viet Cong who held it during bitter fighting for three days.

Croch said the final assault was made by three battalions (about 1,200 men) of Khmer of Kampuchea Krom, Cambodians who were trained and paid by the American forces in South Vietnam.

The victory for the Cambodians came as fairly light fighting was reported in South Vietnam.

A U.S. F4 Phantom jet fighter-bomber exploded on a runway at Da Nang Wednesday night, killing three Americans and wounding 14 others. And other battlefield action in Vietnam killed five Americans and wounded 27.

In Phnom Penh, university students, civil servants and high school students demonstrated on behalf of Cambodian neutrality and independence. Informed sources said the demonstrations would last for days and end with Premier Lon Nol declaring the nation a republic.

Under Prince Norodom Sihanouk, deposed as chief of state March 18, Cambodia was a constitutional monarchy.

Demonstrators carried posters denouncing the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese and exhibited pictures of the Cambodian royal family in uncomplimentary caricature.

The U.S. Command also announced that 63 U.S. soldiers were killed and 585 wounded last week, up from the 52 dead and 358 wounded the previous week. It raised the U.S. dead in Vietnam since Jan. 1, 1961, to 43,481.

South Vietnamese spokesmen said 33 iVet Cong and North Vietnamese were killed Wednesday in fighting in the Mekong Delta, 49 miles southwest of Saigon. The spokesman said 26 of the dead were killed in air strikes.

Viet Cong and North Vietnamese gunners shelled 28 Allied outposts overnight, including five American installations. U.S. casualties were one dead and 13 wounded.

Two Americans were killed and five wounded in booby trap explosions Wednesday in Quang Nam Province, which includes Da Nang.

The level of fighting was low and Allied communiques showed no flareup in Communist activity as predicted for today's first anniversary of the death of President Ho Chi Minh of North Vietnam.

To commemorate the date, Ho's last will and testament was broadcast by Hanoi Radio along with remarks of Le Duan, North Vietnamese Communist Party secretary-general.

U.S. spokesmen said the fire that destroyed the $2 million Phantom jet at Da Nang Air Base broke out when a fuel tank fell off. The plane was loaded with bombs and other ordnance. Later it blew up as firemen fought the fire on the runway.

Fire Officials Get Vote Of Confidence

The San Rafael Fire Commission has given a vote of confidence to Fire Chief Vance Trivett and officers of the city fire department, accused in a suit of harassment of firemen.

The vote Monday night followed the unannounced dropping of the suit last week by the San Rafael Firemen's Association, City Mgr. James H. McCown said today.

The firemen dropped the suit a week after an unannounced meeting Aug. 19 called by the city manager for representatives of the fire commission, firemen and city officials. This meeting resolved the differences between firemen and their officers, McCown said.

The group will still hold one or more meetings to discuss the wages and hours differences. Firemen have asked for wage parity with the police department and a cut in hours from 63 to 60 per week.

In addition to the city manager, those attending the meeting were: Vice Mayor Fred E. Jensen, Councilman Harry A. Barbier, Fire Commissioner Harry M. Williams, Administrative Assistant Virginia Congdon, City Atty. David Menary Jr., Fire Chief Vance Trivett, Fire Capt. James O. Kennon, Thornton C. Bench, attorney for the firemen and Marvin Bollmer, former president of the firemen's association.

Writs of mandamus were served by the firemen's attorney on the city council, fire commission and city manager on July 29, charging failure of the city to negotiate in good faith on wages and salaries, and harrassment of individuals in the fire department, according to McCown.

The harrassment charges have been settled and the next meeting — for which public notice will be given — will be to discuss wages and hours, said McCown.

The San Rafael Fire Commission also:

CAPTAINS — Voted to open examinations for captain to anyone within or without the department if a vacant position cannot be filled within the department.

RESIDENCE — Voted to let the residence of a fireman be determined by his superior officers on an individual basis. This does not nullify the present requirement of residence in Marin County, but holds this policy in abeyance.

SNORKEL — Received notice that the new $85,000 snorkel should be delivered the last part of December.

OUTSIDE JOBS — Asked for an annual list of outside jobs held by firemen.

Borman Reports On Prisoners

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — Former astronaut Frank Borman has told President Nixon there has been no "major breakthrough in the position of the North Vietnamese government" for an estimated 600 Americans being held prisoner in Southeast Asia.

Borman said, however, the Soviet Union and several other countries he visited in his world trip as Nixon's special emissary had agreed to undertake new initiatives with Hanoi on behalf of the prisoners.

"Everywhere we went we had sympathetic reaction and all the countries we contacted indicated they would take new initiatives with Hanoi on this subject," Borman told the President Wednesday.

A Frayed Cable Halts Cable Car

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A cable frayed Wednesday, halting the Powell Street cable car lines for two hours.

Engineers drew the cable into the carbarn for repairs between 11:10 a.m. and 1:15 p.m.

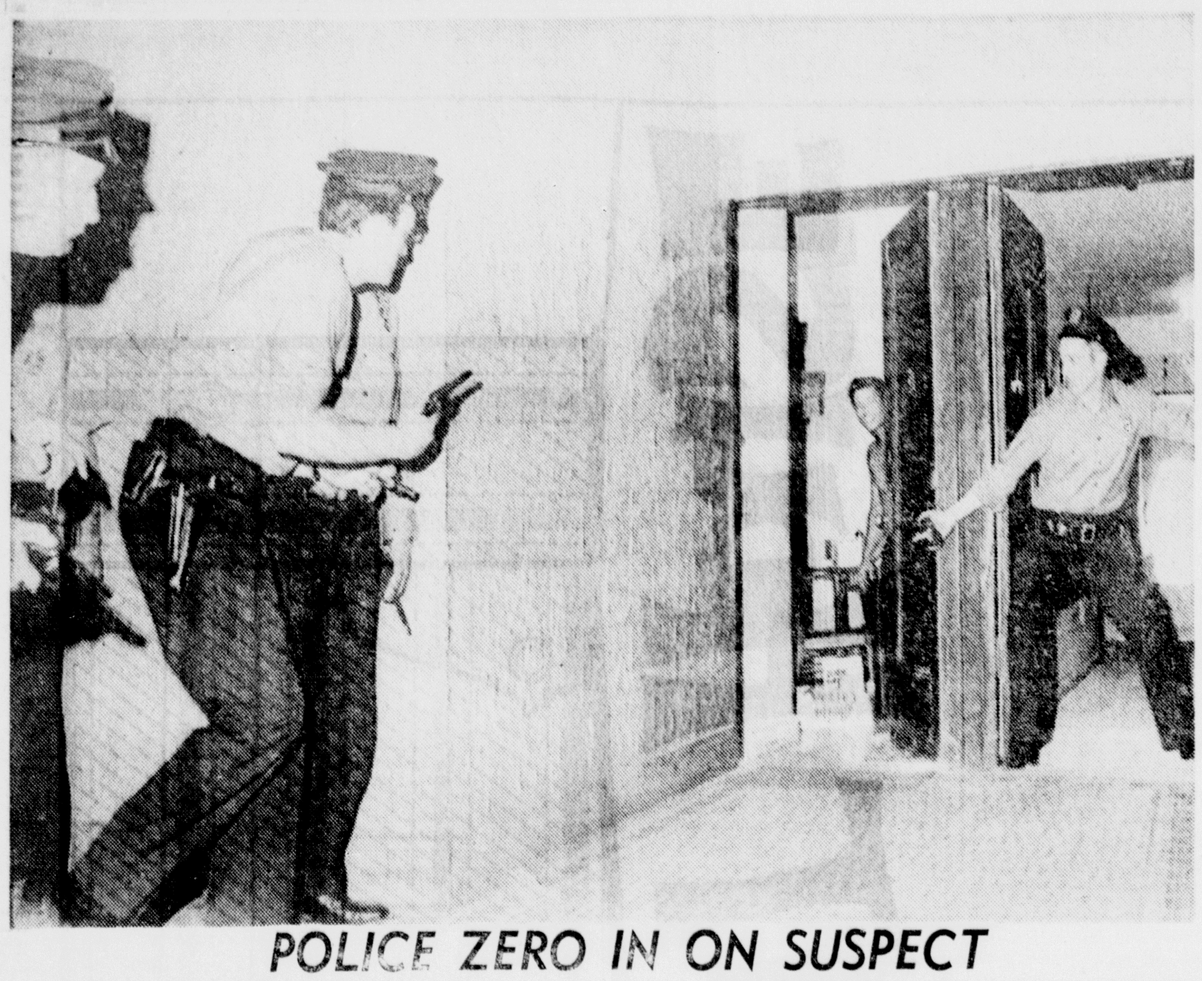

Service was halted between Market Street and the carbarn for both the Mason and Hyde Street lines which operate part of their routes on Powell Street.

POLICE ZERO IN ON SUSPECT

With raised pistols, New York City policemen zero in on 32-year-old Benjamin Cruz as he appears at his front door. Policemen were called to the apartment house yesterday after Cruz fired a shotgun in an apparent fit of anger through his living room door and into the apartment next door. He was charged with possession of a dangerous weapon and illegally firing it within the city limits.

Judge Takes Self Out Of Davis Case

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Judge Robert F. Peckham disqualified himself yesterday from hearing a suit between University of California regents and Angela Davis, fugitive one-time instrutcor in philosophy.

The U.S. District Court judge said he would not serve since he is the first cousin of Mrs. Harold J. Haley, widow of a Marin County judge for whose slaying Miss Davis is sought.

Miss Davis, who police say purchased the guns used in an unsuccesful escape try from Judge Haley's courtroom, is charged with murder and kidnapping.

The regents had refused to renew Miss Davis' contract, saying the Negro militant was guilty of unprofessional conduct during off campus speeches.

Her suit to regain her position had been assigned to Judge Peckham.

In their petition for a dismissal, regents said the issue is moot since Miss Davis is unavailable to perform the proposed contract. They also said her remaining a fugitive from justice is "onconscionable and deprives her of the right to any chance of equitable relief."

Tunney Opens Drive With Murphy Blast

Tunney, son of former world heavyweight champion Gene Tunney, embarked on the drive from his adopted hometown of Riverside, where he began his career as a congressman in 1964.

His initial two-day campaign foray is scheduled to take him up the Central Valley to Sacramento, then to Los Angeles and San Francisco for both public appearance and private fund-raising dinners.

"George Murphy said on the day that we both went to Congress for the first time six years ago that he wanted to go to bat for California in the Senate," Tunney said in prepared remarks for his campaign kickoff.

"Well, as far as I'm concerned, George Murphy has struck out," the 36-year-old Connecticut-reared congressman added.

Tunney then listed key votes that he said the Republican senator cast against legislation beneficial to Californians. Included, Tunney said, were votes against medicare, the nuclear nonproliferation treaty, free school lunches and an increased federal minimum wage.

"What has George Murphy done for the school kids of our state? For the senior citizens? What has he ever done for the average homeowner?" Tunney asked in questions he then answered.

"He's done too little too late, and that's exactly what California is going to do for him."

Tunney, who won the Democratic nomination by beating fellow Rep. George Brown in the June primary, pledged if elected to work for better middle and low income housing, a "revitalization" of the California aerospace industry and a federal crackdown on the "overproduction" of dangerous drugs.

Bomb Rips Unoccupied Police Car

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A bomb was thrown into an unoccupied patrol car Wednesday while policemen were investigating a burglary complaint in the predominantly Negro Fillmore District.

Patrolmen Richard Bodisco and Joaquin Santos said the burglary complaint was legitimate, eliminating the possibility that police had been lured into the area.

Police said they were looking for a 5-foot-10, 175-pound Negro wearing a beige or light yellow sweater and driving a black and red sports car with no grill.

Student Body President Steps Aside

BERKELEY (UPI) — Leigh Steinberg announced Wednesday he had disqualified himself by cheating on an exam from serving as student body president on the University of California's Berkeley campus.

Steinberg, 21, was elected as a moderate and had championed campus non-violence while attacking the "rhetorical overkill and violence" of student radicals.

Before a news conference Wednesday, he said chancellor Roger Heyns had told him he had been placed on disciplinary probation, which disqualified him from extra curricular activities.

"I've had a conspicuously disastrous career in foreign languages all my life," he said. "To graduate, I had to pass the language proficiency test, so I had a friend take the French exam."

"That was a pretty stupid idea," he continued.

One Arraigned On Marijuana Charge

A San Quentin Village resident has been arraigned in Marin Municipal Court on a felony charge of possessing marijuana but another man arrested with him Saturday on suspicion of possessing hashish for sale was not charged.

Released Tuesday was Robert Earl Kay, 22.

Thomas Maurice Purbaugh, 21, pleaded innocent yesterday and a preliminary hearing was set for Oct. 6.

The officers said they found a bag containing several packets believed to contain hashish in the men's car which had been stopped because it didn't have a front license plate.

Neither 'Truncheon' Nor 'Bomb' Is Answer, Agnew Tells Legion

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—Americans would "choose the policeman's truncheon over the anarchist's bomb," but neither is the answer to real peace, Vice President Spiro Agnew said Wednesday.

True peace "lies in that pattern of mutual respect and mutual forbearance that is the essence of a civilized society," Agnew said in a talk before the American Legion's 52nd National Convention.

"The American system is the greatest engine of change and progress that the world has ever seen," he declared. "There are some who look at the faults and cry that the system has failed. Their problem is that they don't understand the system."

While noting that rights in the Constitution's First Amendment must be protected, Agnew declared that "smashing windows, burning offices, assaulting people in the streets are not acts of speech or assembly."

Such violent action, the vice president declared, trespass on the "rights of others to be safe in their lives and property and safe in the free enjoyment of their liberty."

The vice president also said the U. S. venture into Cambodia assured additional withdrawals of American troops from southeast Asia but added that it will be necessary for the United States to maintain a sizeable peacetime army "for a long time to come."

As Agnew left the Portland coliseum after the talk, women members of the legion's auxiliary sang "God Bless America" to drown out chants from nearly 200 young persons who carried antiwar and antiadministration placards.

Oregon's Governor Tom McCall, speaking on the convention's next to last day, said he was sending home National Guard troops he had called in to guard against disturbances from youthful demonstrators.

The 300 State Policemen brought to Portland for the same purpose have returned to regular duties.

Agnew Tells Asia: Expect More Aid, Less Troops

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew returned to Washington today from a 30,000-mile tour, convinced he made his point with Asian allies: expect more material aid but fewer American troops.

Agnew told former President Lyndon B. Johnson he felt Asian leaders were reconciled to American troop withdrawals if they could get more military and economic aid.

The vice president briefed Johnson for 2 1-2 hours Wednesday at the LBJ ranch near Austin, Tex. The Johnson visit was the last event on a tour that carried Agnew to five Asian countries.

The toughest assignment of Agnew's diplomatic tour came in Seoul, where South Korean President Park Chung-Hee made clear his displeasure with American plans to withdraw some of its troops. Agnew tried to placate Park with a promise 54 Phantom jet fighters would be transferred permanently to Korean soil and that South Korea would be given increased economic aid.

In South Vietnam, President Nguyen Van Thieu asked Agnew for assurance that a "residual force" of 50,000 Americans would be left in his country. He also asked for a pledge of an additional $100,000 in American aid this year.

Pot-sniffing Dogs Aid Customs Inspectors

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Already in wide use by police agencies across the country, dogs are trained to sniff out marijuana now are helping inspectors along the Mexican border, according to the Customs Bureau.

The bureau said it plans to deploy the pot-sniffing dogs at all U.S.-Mexican border points

No Intent Now To Move Indians

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The federal government has plans for removing Indians from Alcatraz Island but has "no present intention" of using them, a General Services Administration executive says.

Thomas E. Hannon, GSA regional administrator, said that Wednesday while commenting on a San Francisco Chronicle report concerning a confidential Navy memo on the plan.

"There has always been a plan to remove the Indians if and when such drastic action is necessary," he said.

Indians invaded the abandoned prison on San Francisco Bay Nov. 19, 1969, saying they want to turn it into a tribal cultural center.

BODY FOUND DUMPED ON STRAWBERRY POINT

Bagley Hit For Missing Eco Votes

Joseph A. Forest, Democratic nominee for state Assembly, yesterday criticized his Republican opponent for missing votes on six environmental bills.

Forest, speaking at a reception at the Bolinas home of Paul Harris, said that the missed votes were contrary to the support of such bills claimed by the incumbent, William T. Bagley.

The seven votes were on blils to authorize Marin to enact local logging regulations (passed), require public access to navigable waters (defeated), request the federal government to halt oil drilling in the Santa Barbara Channel (defeated), end the right of a public agency to acquire land for park purposes and then develop it for an airport site (passed), bar open dump burning and limit agricultural burning (defeated), and limit oil and gas leases within the Santa Barbara Channel (defeated.

Forest charged that by missing such votes Bagley showed he "just isn't particularly interested in conservation."

Santa Rosa Man Fair After Crash

A 36-year-old Santa Rosa man was reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital where he was taken yesterday following a one-car crash westbound on Highway 17, just east of Highway 101.

Richard V. Atherton was treated for a concussion, chest bruises, two broken fingers and a broken wrist after the car he was driving left the road and crashed into a chain link fence and utility pole.

According to the California Highway Patrol Atherton apparently fell asleep at the wheel as the auto approached the off-ramp to Highway 101 at about 8:30 p.m.

Auto, Bike Collision Sends Boy To Doctor

A Novato 8-year-old was to see his own doctor for injuries suffered yesterday when his bike collided with a car on Vineyard Road near Trumbull Avenue, Novato police reported today.

Ronald John Montgomery, of 2201 Vineyard Road, was hit by a car driven by Timothy Peter Lepinski, 17, of 34 Sunnyhill Road, at about 4:05 p.m., according to the report.

West Marin Plan Maps Available At Civic Center

The West Marin General Plan, as approved by the Marin County Board of Supervisors in March of last year, is now available in a single-sheet printed form at the Marin County Planning Department in Civic Center.

Planning Director Werner Von Gundell announced that copies may be purchased for $2.50 each. The publication consists of a colored map about two feet square, with explanatory text printed on both sides.

The general plan envisages an ultimate total of 50,060 housing units on 43,410 acres in West Marin. This means an average density of 1.15 units per acre, the density approved by the supervisors.

The county planning department is located on the third floor of the Civic Center.

PYTHON PACKING—SCHOOL STYLE

Don Alford, 17, of Wilmette, Ill., demonstrates how to pack a 14-foot python for school. Step one (left), disentangle it from your body and then, step two (right, stuff it into a suitcase. Actually Alford's snake, Tickles, has a special box for traveling. Don was so distraught on the thought of leaving Tickles behind as he enters the University of New Mexico this fall, that he's won permission for Tickles to board at the university's biology laboratory. Don has studied reptiles since he was 12 and has fathered some 2,000 different reptiles living in his basement.

Sides Say Creek Work On Schedule

The Army Corps of Engineers and the contractor for Phase 3-A of the Corte Madera Creek project agreed yesterday construction is back on schedule but the completion date remains in question.

Ronald D. Price, project superintendent for J B and C Co., said the job will be finished by the original completion date of Oct. 29.

He said a five-day extension until Nov. 3, granted by the Army on account of a bank cave-in in August, was meaningless since he was also required to keep his work on schedule with the Oct. 29 deadline.

Col. Charles R. Roberts, district engineer for the corps said the project was "generally back on schedule" with some phases ahead and some behind the approved schedule. He added the Army had lifted its Aug. 15 requirement that the contractor go to overtime and doubleshifts to ge the work back on schedule.

A difference remained however, between the Army and the contractor on the granting of the five-day extension.

Price said he could see no reason for the five-day extension if he is required to continue on the original work schedule.

Roberts said, "What the five-day extension does is extend the penalty clause to Nov. 3."

Certain phases of the project the cleanup and the placing of the adjacent fence can be completed after the rains come, Roberts continued, and these were the phases which would probably be completed during the five-day extension. However, he added, he was not sure the contractor would need the added five days.

He said that the Army had required J B and C Co. to speed up its work with overtime and double shifts at the contractor's expense in order to insure that all excavation, laying of concrete and backfill would be finished before heavy rains flooded the project.

Price yesterday, in outlining the progress of the creek work, said the placing of canal walls is now about a week behind schedule, but should be in place by Sept. 25, one week ahead of time.

Other canal work is ahead of the allocated time, he continued. Excavation is three weeks ahead and the placing of the concrete canal floor will be completed tomorrow, one week ahead of schedule.

He concluded that the placing of backfill behind the already completed section of the canal will begin next week.

Couple Wins $11,500 From Marincello

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — An $11,500 damage verdict against developers of the proposed Marincello planned community in Southern Marin was upheld yesterday by the California Court of Appeal.

The court ruled in favor of a Sausalito couple, Mr. and Mrs. Warren V. Glass Jr., who had sued because a master plan and model for the tract showed Spencer Avenue serving as a main access road to the development.

Actually, the Glasses said, they owned part of Spencer Avenue and adjacent land and had neither sold it to the developer nor dedicated it to public use.

The court upheld a decision awarding the Glasses $5,000 general and $6,500 punitive damages.

Driver's Head Hurt In Car-Horse Crash

Sonja Phillips White, 38, of 70 Santa Maria Drive, Novato, was reported in satisfactory condition at Hillcrest Hospital with head injuries suffered yesterday at 10:30 a.m. when her car struck a horse and tree on Petaluma Boulevard North near Gossage Avenue, north of Petaluma.

The Californias Highway Patrol said a horse being led by Janet West broke loose and darted across the road in the path of Mrs. White's car. After striking and killing the horse, the car veered into a tree.

Decision On Petaluma River Dredging Hit

Representative Don H. Clausen, R-First District, has called the Army Corps of Engineers decision not to dredge the Petaluma River "totally unacceptable" and has called for reconsideration.

In a letter to Col. Charles R. Roberts, district engineer, Clausen said he could not accept the corps' decision that the condition of the river doesn't warrant dredging.

"If shoaling has caused the rived to be non-navigable, even at low tide, then, in my judgment, the provisions of the authorized federal jroject are not being carried out," Clausen said.

Shoals on the river have prevented the annual visits by Marin and Bay Area yachtsmen. Clausen said Petaluma Chamber of Commerce reports show $100,000 has been lost in yacht business.

Clausen said his staff would continue to press for an early dredging date.

Supersonic Booms Attacked

LONDON (London Express Service) — A surgeon warned yesterday that low frequency shock waves produced by Concorde's supersonic boom could be a serious health hazard.

Overweight men and women in their 50s and above were exceptionally vulnerable, he said.

The surgeon, Dr. Logan Dahne, 69, former ear, nose and throat consultant at a Reading, Berkshire, hospital, has retired to St. David's, Pembrokeshire.

He claimed that the physical shock of a sudden very low frequency sonic wave from Concorde could contract the heart muscles, shrink arteries and momentarily cut off the blood supply to the brain.

Grasshoppers and other large insects are the main diet of the sparrow hawk.

Larkspur Woman Discovered Dead

A 63-year-old Larkspur woman was found dead in her car in a parking lot at Marin General Hospital at 7:30 a.m. today.

Coroner's investigator Keith Craig said Julie Allen Bond of 2000 Redwood Highway had been dead about three or four days when found by a gardener.

She was reported missing to Larkspur police Saturday.

Craig said no note was found with the body, but she had threatened to kill herself in the past. Three empty bottles of barbiturates were found in the car.

The body was taken to Keaton's Mortuary in San Rafael where an autopsy was to be performed.

Hole-In-One Contest May Be Included

A hole-in-one contest may be added to the list of activities for the Rohnert Park Founder's Day weekend, Sept. 11-13, the chamber of commerce said yesterday.

Day reported other activities include a pageant to select Miss Rohnert Park on Sept. 11 at 7:30 p.m. at the Rohnert Park Junior High School.

Game and food booths will open at 11 a.m. on Sept. 12 and 13 at Alicia Park. The recreation department has scheduled contests for children and adults as well as a soccer game and softball game.

A ball honoring the new Miss Rohnert Park has been set for Sept. 12 from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. at the community center. Music will be provided by the Tony Napoli band.

The chamber will also sponsor a chicken barbecue starting at noon on Sept. 13 at Alicia Park.

Larkspur Will Seat Youths On Panel

Larkspur City Council last night introduced an ordinance that will create two seats for young persons on the city's park and recreation commission.

As proposed the commission would be expanded from five to seven members, with the two new seats to be filled by persons under the age of 22, preferably local high school or college students.

Councilmen handling a long list of matters mostly minor, had a diverse audience, ranging from Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, to blues singer Janis Joplin.

Mailliard chatted briefly with councilmen before the session, and said he hoped to keep lines of communication open with the city councils in Marin.

Councilman Neil R. Brixon thanked Mailliard for his efforts on the Corte Madera Creek project, and said the work of Mailliard and Rep. Don H. Clausen, R-First District, "have made it a lot easier."

After a closed session with City Atty. Robert W. Elliott, the council authorized condemnation proceedings against C. T. H. Wright to acquire two strips of land.

City Mgr. Kent Bathurst said the city is seeking a 70-feet wide strip of land, running about 200 feet long on each side of Doherty Drive at Magnolia Drive. The land is needed for reconstruction of the intersection, he explained.

There was a protest from Councilman Alfred Malvino against cities sharing the cost of five additional sheriff's deputies requested by Sheriff Louis Mountanos for patrol in unincorporated areas.

The patrol services should be paid for by the people in the unincorporated areas, not shared by the cities, which pay for their own police patrol, Malvino asserted.

Mountanos asked for the additional deputies Tuesday so two men can ride in patrol cars in key areas at night, and the Marin County Board of Supervisors deferred discussion until next Tuesday.

Councilmen agreed to lodge a protest with supervisors against sharing in the cost of the proposed additional deputies.

Miss Joplin was at the meeting to protest paying about $1,000 toward an engineering survey for construction of a curb and gutter and cul-de-sac along her property at 380 West Baltimore Avenue.

After some discussion, it was determined that the engineering work would cost about $500, and she should pay the costs. She also is to pay for the curb and gutter, estimated at $600, and the city is to pave the cul-de-sac.

The Larkspur City Council also.

GIFT — Received a donation of $1,500 to the city from the Schultz Foundation.

CHANTICLEER STREET — Postponed until Oct. 7 considering a petition with 45 signatures from residents of the Meadowwood area protesting the closing of Chanticleer Street to through traffic.

HAWTHORNE SLIDE — Approved drainage work, estimated to cost $4,500 to prevent further slides along Hawthorne Avenue, between Sycamore Avenue and King Street, where there was a slide last winter.

PARKING REQUEST — Referred to Police Chief Howard H. Clark a request from Mrs. A. J. Batiloro of 25 Olive Avenue for no parking along the south side of Madrone Avenue between Bridge Road and Foley Lane.

BUY LOTS — Approved purchase of two 25-by-60-foot parcels near the city's north ridge in the Chevy Chase Park tract at a cost of $40 a parcel in tax payments.

EOC VACANCY — Heard a report from Bathurst that the staff has been unable to find anyone to serve on the Marin Economic Opportunity Council, and agreed to ask the council for suggestions.

JOB STATUS — Voted that Harlan Barry, who has served his six-month probationary term as administrative assistant, be given permanent status.

GASOLINE STATION — Agreed to hear on Oct. 7 an appeal from the CPD Corp. of planning commission denial of a gasoline service station permit on Bon Air Road between the Safeway store and Bon Air Bridge. The appeal was denied Aug. 19, but the firm contended it hadn't received written notice of that hearing.

WALK FOR HUNGER — Approved a request from Marin Walk Against Hunger, a group that is raising funds to combat hunger by hiking for so much money a mile, to hike through Larkspur on Sept. 20, as part of a planned 20-mile route.

ANIMAL CONTROL — A planned discussion on animal control was cancelled when no representative of the Marin County Humane Society appeared.

STREET ABANDONMENT — Set Oct. 7 for a hearing on proposed abandonment of a portion of Alta Avenue, between Citron and Cedar Avenues, which is only a street on paper.

CONFERENCE — Authorized Bathurst to attend the International City Managers Association meeting in San Diego Sept. 20-24.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned in memory of the late Superior Court Judge Harold J. Haley, who was slain Aug. 7.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned until 8 p.m. today for a joint meeting with the planning commission and park and recreation commission to discuss formation of a policy on controls along the north bank of Corte Madera Creek.

Councilmen Will Stay Without Pay

Larkspur city councilmen, now unpaid, agreed last night to maintain that status for a little while longer.

Councilman Alfred Malvino felt since the 1970-71 budget is set, it was too late to consider voting for council salaries, but it should be considered before the next budget is adopted.

Mayor Benton A. Sifford Jr. proposed that the council announce its intention early enough so that residents who oppose the $150 a month salary, set by law, can protest.

City Manager Kent Bathurst said he would put the matter of council salaries on the agenda of the February meeting.

A Glimmer Of Hope For Marin Public Transit

It looks as though, little by little, we're getting that much-needed public transportation system in Marin.

The Marin County Transit District board on Tuesday approved operation of a shuttle bus service between San Rafael and Novato by Marin Transit Systems, Inc., the home-owned Marin City company that runs the shuttle between Mill Valley and the Tiburon ferry.

The new shuttle — subject to approval and subsidy by the Golden Gate Bridge District — will serve Marin General Hospital, San Rafael, the Marin County Civic Center, Hamilton Air Force Base, and Novato.

That includes routes where bus service is most needed.

WE HAVE OFTEN contended that feeder or shuttle bus service actually is more important to alleviating Marin's transit jams than faster service on the highway. Buses with dependable schedules to reach such places as Marin General Hospital and the Civic Center will indeed be a boon to many residents. The last attempt at local bus service, in San Rafael nearly a decade ago, failed to meet the needs for transportation other than to the downtown area, and failed to keep dependable schedules.

Since the bridge district has been given jurisdiction over Marin's public transit, the approval by the transit district board is but a beginning step. We hope the bridge district directors will go along. The need is here.

WE MUST ALL bear in mind that no public transportation system is going to be an overnight success. People just don't change their travel habits that easily — even when the means they have been using were unsatisfactory. All studies of public transit in Marin have stressed that it will be a losing proposition for several years at least.

That's where the subsidy comes in. The bridge district could choose to operate the buses itself. But if it did so, it should expect to operate them at a loss. Subsidizing Marin Transit Systems probably would cost the bridge district no more, and would encourage a home-owned, self-help venture that deserves encouragement.

Anyway, with one shuttle running, with the bridge district's ferry in operation, and with another shuttle proposed, there's at last a glimmer of hope for public transportation in Marin.

Milkweed's Miracle

The thick white juice that oozes out of a broken milkweed stem is a rather remarkable substance.

The American Indian used it as an antiseptic to be put on cuts and wounds. In recent years, it has been found to contain a powerful poison, which probably accounts for its antiseptic action.

It has long been touted as a cure for warts. We make no claim for it, but a friend with a wart of long standing on the back of his band tried rubbing it with milkweed latex regularly and it completely disappeared. Now that we know most warts are caused by viruses, perhaps the poison in the latex is a specific treatment for the virus.

We know it's still a very "iffy" proposition, but it would be interesting if this old Indian remedy would find a place in modern medicine.

September Means: Be Careful

Marinites usually look forward to the warm, golden days of September and October when the heavy ocean fogs subside and we get a good serving of hot weather.

This is the season when we must be extremely careful about fire. Everything is tinder dry, just waiting for a spark, a live cigarette butt, any kind of fire to start a raging conflagration.

Do be careful.

State Proposition 20 Offers Attractive Use For Bond Issue

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — If the people of California intend to continue financing public projects through bond issues, there appears to be no better way to spend the people's money than the approval of Proposition 20 on the Nov. 3 ballot.

This provides for $60 million in bonds for construction of recreational facilities at reservoirs and streams of the state water project.

Ray Arnett, director of the Department of Fish and Game, says the bond issue will give the greatest single boost to water-oriented recreation in California in many a year. In this, he is joined by Ray Nesbit, executive director of the Wildlife Conservation Board.

THE BOND ISSUE would provide $6 million for fish and wildlife enhancement and fishing access sites. The remianing $54 million would go toward producing water recreational facilities at new state water project lakes when they begin impounding water.

Experience indicates, say officials of the state Department of Parks and Recreation, that as soon as dams are completed and begin storing water, there is immediate demand for public usage. With 45 million visitors at state parks last year, the additional funds would provide facilities for another 15 million.

So many water-oriented sports have developed during the last decade that it is hard to keep track of them. However, the funds would be used to develop all types of boating, water skiing, fishing, camping, picnicking, riding, hiking, sightseeing, equestrian centers, staging areas, corrals, fish cleaning facilities, sandy swimming beaches, play areas, and scenic overlooks.

BESIDES ALL this, funds for stocking streams and making access available to the public to fishing waters, wherever they might happen to be, would be available. Of course, there never would be enough money, but the bond issue would be a great help if the public wants to spend its money in this fashion.

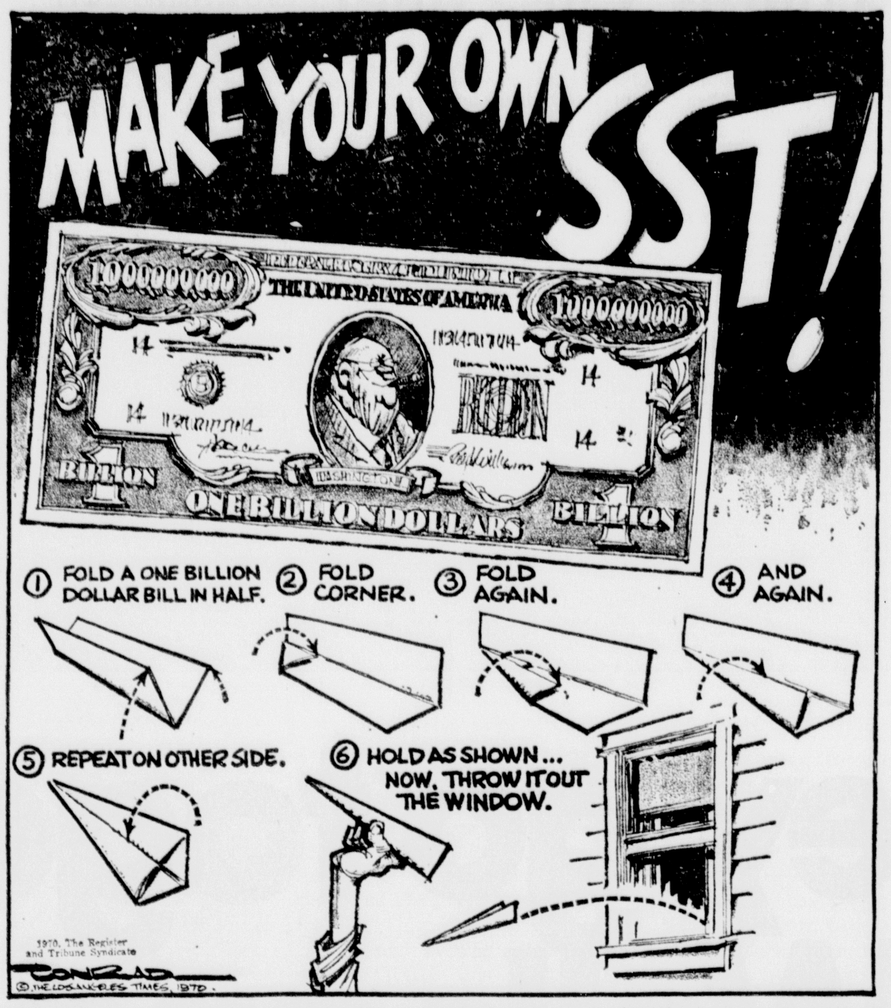

Enlargement of fish hatcheries would be another way to get rid of the bond money. This is necessary because it's futile to go fishing when there are no fish to catch, and the normal production of trout and other fish is insufficient to satisfy the voracious fishermen of California, who catch them almost as fast as the fish and game department can stock the streams, canals and lakes.

There will be, Nesbit commented, approximately 58,000 acres of reservoir surface and 500 miles of open canals in the state water project, added to the hundreds of miles of stream and river shore-line, much of which will need developing to provide proper access for the public.

Plaudits To Two For Dipsea Win

Kudos to Mr. (Norman) Bright and Mr. (Don) Makela for their victories Sunday in the Dipsea race. This race, although just for fun for many, to place near the top requires weeks of intensive, persistent work — as it should be — but still done for the sake of sport.

As you notice, I left Mr. (Richard) Delgado out of my expression of congrats, and not by oversight. . .

I too live in Woodacre; I too have my sport — horseback riding . . .

I've been riding almost daily here for five years now and have had only four unhappy experiences, all involving Mr. Delgado. Our first confrontation I was riding with my daughter, a lovely quiet evening, when suddenly both horses darted off to the side, very surprised by a man running up behind them, unheard, in tennis shoes on the pine needle-padded street. We assumed he didn't realize and asked him not to run up behind the horses as it frightened them . . . As he ran on I told him I wouldn't want him to get kicked in the face; his reply was "I'll sue you."

The second time was up in the water company property fire roads (we have their permission to ride there). This time we saw him coming and all three horses pulled off to the side of a narrow road to let him by, asked him not to run by, our request ignored . . .

The third episode was much the same, he approached from the rear, still running, the horses were surprised, and this had to be quite obvious to him as they were squeezing themselves against the embankment on the side of the road.

The fourth confrontation was the payoff. This time I was alone . . . when suddenly my horse jumped in the air, hit the pavement, slipped, fell to her knees, scrambled to her feet and dashed to the edge of the road. It wasn't until she again had herself squeezed against the embankment that I realized what had frightened her. You guessed it — tennis shoes, shiny blue pants and failing arms. This time I hollered "Someday you are going to kill someone." His response, as he ran on, "I hope it's you!" . . .

Attorney's Claim Probably True

A noteworthy sidelight to the Judge Haley tragedy would be the comments of the attorney for one of the convicts. "Could have freed him," was the claim. The shocking thing is that he was probably correct.

Just find a legal technicality in the trial records and convictions are voided. No matter if the man is guilty as sin, the higher courts will free him to do his thing, be that murder, rape, or whatever his propensity may be.

The pendulum is long overdue to swing back the other direction.

Agnew's Vietnam Speech Echoes Johnson Policies

Reprinted from St. Louis Post-Dispatch

The striking thing about Vice President Agnew's VFW speech is its resemblance to the speeches President Johnson used to make in justification of his escalation of the war. Anybody who thinks President Nixon is pursuing a different policy from Mr. Johnson's will find it difficult to explain the Agnew line.

For here are all the old themes that the Johnson administration used to expound, the themes that were finally rejected by the American people when public opinion made it impossible for Mr. Johnson to run for re-election.

Here is the false assumption that the interests of the South Vietnamese people and those of the Thieu-Ky government are identical.

HERE IS the ancient and long-discredited domino theory, which assumes that revolutions occur not as the consequence of indigenous social conditions, but as the result of some Communist pushing a button in Hanoi, Peking or Moscow. Mr. Agnew quotes with approval President Nixon's cute little remark that skeptics about the domino theory should talk to the dominoes. Fair enough. Why not talk to the Indonesian Domino, which was supposed to fall toward the Communists but actually fell the other way?

Here, also, is the historically preposterous and dangerously unbalanced assumption that Vietnam represents the kind of challenge to "collective security" that was posed in World War II. Here is the incredible claim that unless we "win" in Vietnam, Germany and Japan will join the nuclear arms race.

AND FINALLY here is the assumption that the only alternative to isolation is American imperialism; that unless we control Southeast Asia it will go by default to Communism; that the people of Asia count for nothing save as pawns in a big-power conflict. Here is the assumption that the problem of Vietnam can be solved by military means, that any solution involving withdrawal of our troops must be a "humiliation" and "defeat."

All of these arguments were made by President Johnson and rejected by the people when they demanded an end to the war. Mr. Nixon himself promised to end it. He is delivering instead, a policy designed to reduce the level of combat and casualties to politically tolerable proportions, while maintaining in Vietnam for years to come a military garrison of thousands of men backed by expenditures of billions of dollars.

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

Bill Moiles, shameless sage of Worcester, Mass., confesses that while motoring from Los Alamos to Santa Fe, N.M., he caught sight of a mare nursing a new-born colt, and was heard to comment, "Oh, well, a foal and his mummy are soon parted."

A crabby but extremely rich old party, who had disappointed a score of eager apparent heirs by refusing to shuttle off of this earth, approached his 94th birthday, tottering but full of beans. "We'll have to get the old boy something, but what?" worried a great granddaughter. "He still hears and sees everything, but does find it harder and harder to walk, it seems." "Good," nodded her husband. "How about six cans of floor wax?"

MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON — Secy. of Defense Melvin R. Laird introduced that fine, gimmicky phrase "fly before you buy" to point up determination not to be stuck with billions in cost overruns and planes of dubious worth. The opponents of the supersonic transport (SST) have modified the Laird slogan to "learn before you buy."

A very small fraction of the traveling public, wanting to cut an hour and a half to three hours off the flight time to London and four to five hours off the time to Tokyo, will use the SST when it is operational. For these privileged travelers, the government will pay a subsidy estimated as high as $3 billion.

A GROUP of ecological scientists, meeting recently at Williamstown, Mass., warned that 500 SSTs, the estimate for 1990, would deposit in the airless, windless stratosphere enough water vapor and particles of sulphur dioxide, hydrocarbons and soot to raise the temperature by 6 to 7 degrees centigrade. The deposit would be 10 times greater over the northern hemisphere, where SST traffic would be heaviest.

The scientists phrased their warning carefully, avoiding any prediction of doomsday. They did say, however, that the consequences of this newest invader of man's million-year-old environment are unknown and unpredictable.

THE TWO senators from Wisconsin, Gaylord Nelson and William Proxmire, lead the opposition. Proxmire chaired a subcommittee calling for rejection of the proposed appropriation of $290 million on the score that urgent domestic needs had far higher priority than the supersonic plane.

Nelson, who has led the fight on all forms of pollution, will shortly introduce a bill setting rigid standards for both noise and pollution for supersonic planes. Any plane, whether foreign or domestic, that could not meet these standards would not be permitted to use American airports.

But there is a catch. Nelson's proposed bill must go before the Senate Commerce Committee, of which Sen. Warren G. Magnuson of Washington is chairman. Magnuson and his fellow Washington senator, Henry M. Jackson, are the chief boosters for the SST.

Employment at the Boeing plant in Seattle is down to 50,000, less than half of what it was two years ago. Under Boeing's contract for the SST, $708 million has already been spent. With completion of the prototype and successful testing, the company would go on to sell airlines around the world.

WHATEVER the objective case for the SST, as set out in the hard sell of the Transportation Department, there is a stout political wind behind it. Jackson has put the Nixon administration deeply in his debt by, among other things, helping to put over Senate approval of the second phase of the Safeguard antiballistic missile system. Boeing recently got a contract for an airborne warning and controls system, a kind of flying defense early warning line, ultimately to cost $2 billion.

The dark suspicion is growing in the Senate that the goodies on the Pentagon Christmas tree are being handed out as rewards for services rendered.

Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine is enraged that a $2.1 billion contract for 30 destroyers went lock, stock and barrel to Litton in Mississippi, with no share for the Bath Iron Works in her state. Her charges of hanky-panky in the letting of the contract were brushed off by the Department of Justice.

All this could sway enough defectors to kill the SST. The appropriation of $290 million passed the House by a margin of only 16 votes. But jealousies and suspicions aside, the doubts of the scientists are a powerful deterrent. And the havoc already created by the poisons loosened into the environment in the pursuit of profit, and what is sometimes called progress, underscores those doubts.

WINDOW ON THE WORLD

Bombing, Proved Futile, Goes On In Indochina

By FREDERICK NOSSAL Toronto Telegram News Service

HONG KONG — (TNS) — Dropping bombs on an Asian guerrilla army is like trying to kill a mosquito with a machine gun. It is an extremely destructive yet unusually ineffective method of coping with the problem.

In the case of North Vietnam, former president Lyndon Johnson bombed himself out of the White House, but could not bomb Hanoi into submission.

Today, however, the air war in Indochina is proceeding as before, with bombs of all descriptions dropping from the skies.

North Vietnam is relatively immune to the air attack. But people in South Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia must still contend with regular aerial bombardments.

FOR THREE YEARS the United States attempted to bomb many parts of North Vietnam into the Stone Age. According to Hanoi's foreign ministry, in the three years to July, 1968, the United States dropped a greater tonnage of bombs on the 130,000 square miles of North Vietnam than the combined works unleashed on the European, African, Asian and Pacific theaters during World War II.

Unlike North Americans and Europeans, most Asians live on the land and indeed off the land. Years of defoliation campaigns by the U.S. armed forces, millions of dollars worth of poisonous chemicals sprayed over paddy fields, rubber plantations and forests, could not deprive Vietnam's guerrilla armies of the cover and the food they need.

THE FACT IS that an agrarian people, unlike an industrial nation, cannot be bombed into submission. Somehow, the peasants and the guerrilla armies of Asia will survive, and will acquire food and weapons to fight back.

This is true particularly when the war involves a foreign nation. During their invasion of China in the 1930s and 1940s, the Japanese did not have much trouble in subduing the cities. But they could not pacify the countryside.

The same happened in China after the end of World War II when Chiang Kai-Shek's nationalist forces tried to subdue the Communists.

President Johnson thought he could use his army of more than half a million men — supported by aircraft — in the same way you might wield a gigantic broom. This broom would clean South Vietnam of Communists, and after that everything would be fine.

But there were never enough U.S. troops to occupy every little town and village. Whenever the American pulled out, the guerrillas would reappear.

What is more, the peasants hate the Americans even more than the Saigon army because they are foreigners and therefore intruders.

This applies today to South Vietnamese operations in Cambodia as well.

Bombs will never win the war in Indochina, either for the United States or for the military regimes Washington supports.

Speaking Of Communications Gaps– Take A Look At This

The communications gap between the Army Corps of Engineers and the contractors for Phase 3-A of the Corte Madera Creek Flood Control Project appears much wider than the concrete creek bed separating their field offices at College of Marin in Kentfield.

The corps has six full-time employees overseeing the $1.54 million job being done by JB and C Co. of Arizona this year and next year. Since the crew often swells to about 15 including surveyors, and since much bookkeeping and other supervisorial work are involved, the corps is spending at least $55,000 and probably upward of $100,000 to guide the project.

WHAT DOES the money buy? James Wolfe, chief of the construction operations division of the corps, said the corps people watch for mistakes by the contractor and make sure the work meets specifications.

Ronald L. Price, project superintendent for the contractor, said his watchdogs are not averse to resurveying or redoing soil tests.

Why, then, did a water main burst, delaying the work five days? And why did a bank collapse adding an additional five days delay without adequate preventive measures being taken?

The answer appears to be that the ponderous corps decision-making apparatus has not responded fast enough to situations at the creek and has not properly communicated its decisions.

THE CORPS hired the company and has the authority to see that specifications are lived up to and that potentially dangerous situations are corrected.

"If he (the contractor) does make a mistake and we catch it, then we catch it before he makes it," Wolfe said in justifying the close supervision of the corps.

In an Aug. 13 telegram blaming the contractor for the ruptured water main, the corps said JB and C was "dumping, stockpiling and loading gravel material directly on a visible crack paralleling" the creek and water line.

If the corps knew this before the mistake was made, then why wasn't it caught?

NOT CATCHING the delaying problems that have forced the contractor to work 12 hours a day every day may have been an oversight by the corps' supervisors, but their inability to convey even the meaning of a five-day extension to Price indicates how serious the communications gap is.

Wolfe told the Independent-Journal that the project would be evaluated with a Nov. 3 completion date in mind for work to a point 1,800 feet upstream from College Avenue.

Price maintained that he was being forced to stick to his original schedule which called for an Oct. 29 completion date in spite of the five-day extension.

Clearly, the contractor and the Army are not communicating with each other enough for the smooth completion.

Since JB and C will return next year to pave the creek up to a point 200 feet downstream from the Ross Post Office, it would seem wise for the overseer and the builder to begin communicating more effectively.

Innocent Plea To Robbery, Burglary Counts

Larry Cleary Walker, 22, of Marin City pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal court to three counts of armed robbery and one of burglary.

Walker of 31 Cole Drive was rebooked into Marin County Jail Monday after being implicated in a July 11 hold-up of three men in a Mill Valley home.

He was already in jail for violation of parole.

One other man is awaiting trial and a third is awaiting sentencing after pleading guilty to assault with a deadly weapon.

Police said $1,235 was taken from Kenneth M. Stevens of 85 Tamalpais Avenue, Mill Valley, and two guests after three armed men forced their way into the Stevens' home and tied the occupants.

Walker is to appear for preliminary hearing on Tuesday.

ART BUCHWALD

When Mother Nature Lay Dying, She Had Nothing To Leave

MARTHA'S VINEYARD, MASS. — The other night I was home reading a book when I received a telephone call that Mother Nature was dying. I dressed hurriedly and rushed over to the hospital. A lot of people had gotten there before me and they were all sitting in the waiting room crying and wringing their hands. I searched out the doctors, who were in another room having a heated argument as to how to save her. Each doctor seemed to have a different remedy.

One doctor said, "We have to get her some fresh air. She can't breathe. We'll have to turn off the power plant because of the smoke."

"ARE YOU OUT of your mind?" another doctor said. "We turn off the power, and she'll freeze to death."

"Perhaps we could keep all cars away from the hospital," "That would relieve her breathing."

"Out of the question," a fourth doctor barked. "How would we get back and forth to work if we prohibited cars near the hospital?"

"Gentlemen," another doctor said, "I don't believe it's the air that is hurting her as much as the water. We have to find some water that's drinkable. Strong measures must be taken immediately against polluting the hospital water."

THE DIRECTOR said, "Where would we get the money to support the hospital if we closed down the factories because they're polluting the streams?"

"We'd also have to give up detergents," a doctor added, "and we can't have a clean hospital if you give up detergents."

"Isn't anybody going to do anything?" I shouted.

They saw me for the first time and one of the doctors said angrily, "We're sorry, this is a medical conference for professionals only. Would you kindly leave?"

I WALKED OUT and down the hall. Suddenly I saw a closed room, which had the name Mother Nature handprinted on the door. Underneath it, in large red letters, was another sign: NO VISITORS.

No one was in the hall, so I opened the door. There was Mother Nature propped up on pillows. She looked old and tired and haggard. I couldn't believe anyone could have changed so much in 10 short years. But she seemed glad to see someone and smiled weakly.

"Hi, Ma," I said. "You're looking swell."

"You wouldn't kid a very sick lady, would you?" she said, gasping.

"No, I'm not kidding. You look wonderful. I've just been talking to the doctors and they say they'll have you on your feet in no time."

"THOSE QUACKS don't know anything," she said. "All they do is come in every few hours and take my temperature and give me something to relieve the pain. I think I've had it this time."

"Don't talk that way, Ma. You've survived worse things than this before."

"It's never been this bad," she said, and then started having a coughing fit. "This time the grim reaper's coming to get me."

"But if you go, we'll all have to go, Ma," I cried. "You have to hold on. Please, Ma!"

I KEPT complaining of pain," she whispered, "but no one would pay attention to me. I said, 'If you keep doing what you're doing I'm going to die.' But everyone said, 'Ma, you'll never die.' Why didn't they listen to me?"

"We're listening now, Ma. We're listening. We have the best doctors in the world. They're out there now, and they have a plan."

"I guess the real thing that hurts," she said, "is that my will won't be worth anything now. I left every person in the world clear water, pure air, green fields, brilliant sunsets and blue skies. It wasn't much, but it was everything I had."

Just then the door opened and a nurse came in. She went over to the bed waving a thermometer.

"Come on, Mother. It's time to take your temperature."

Weed Case To Juvenile Hall

The case of Susan Moore Allen, 18, of Mill Valley, charged with possessing marijuana in Mill Valley Monday, was transferred to Juvenile Hall in Marin Municipal Court yesterday.

Miss Moore of 750 Lovell Avenue was arrested after an unidentified man told police marijuana seeds were under the seat of her car. A responding officer asked her if she had the seeds and she handed him a bag of them, according to police.

She told police she was keeping them for friends.

Here Come The Leather Girls

By JANE ROGERS

London Express Service

Leather, just in case you hadn't already noticed, is now in, as an all-year round, all age group fashion must. So much so that it is becoming the staple item, like wool tweed, on which to base your fashion planning.

The other day when I walked through the fashion department of one of England's leading glossy magazines, I noticed that it smelled just like a tannery — almost all the clothes there waiting to be photographed were made up in leather or suede.

Sensible things to buy in leather are little jackets and waistcoats, overcoats for outdoor wear and even trousers. Stupid things to choose, in my opinion, include anything in really pale suede (it will live at the cleaner's) and dresses made up in leather, because you can't really keep them as clean and fresh as you would like.

Now, in the wake of the leather boys with their black jackets studded with brass, come the leather girls, for the new young crop of designers now graduating are concentrating on leather and suede outfits for the girls who as their boyfriends, are taking to the road now on motorbikes and mopeds.

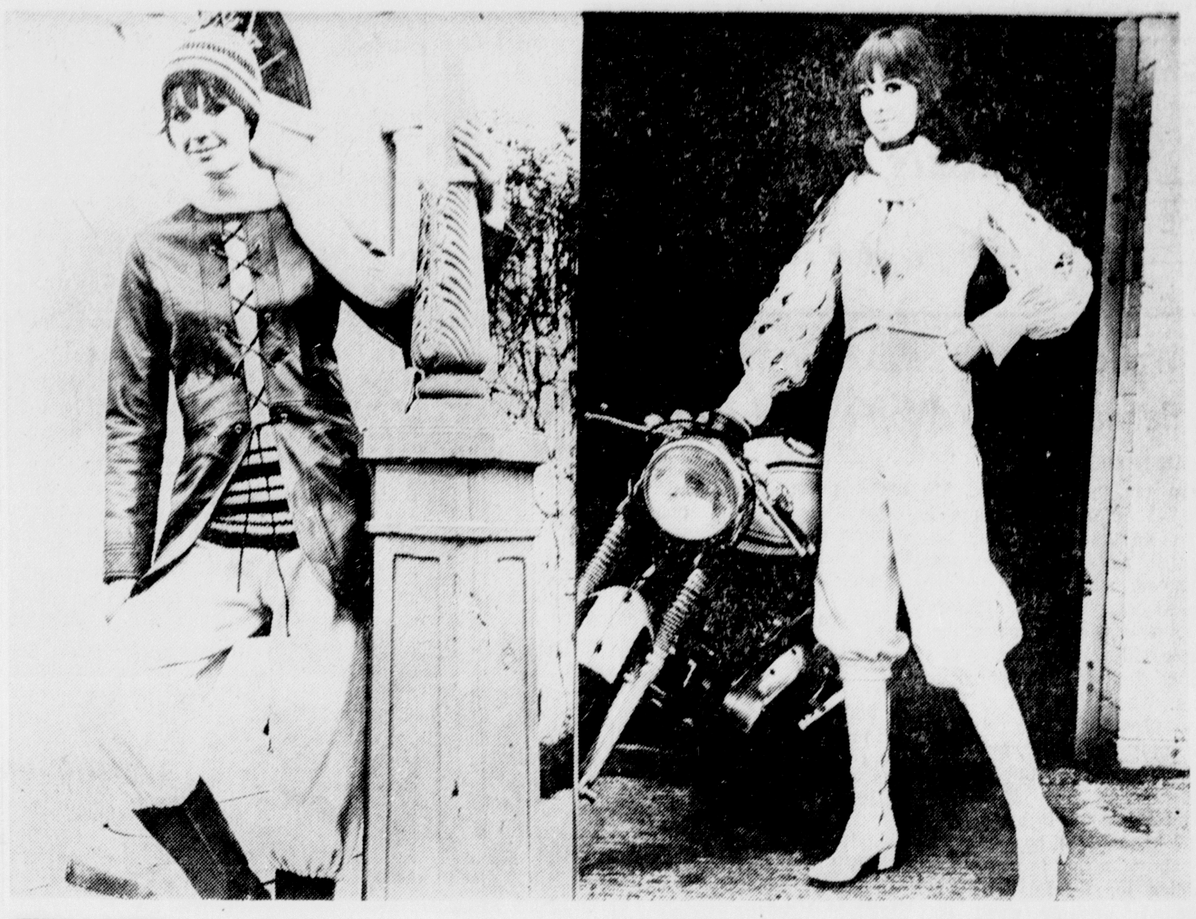

LEATHER LOOKS good with any of the earthy materials, especially wool, and Ann Grannell, a new designer from the Harrow School of Art, designed a russet colored leather jacket with a lace-up front to go with a knicker-bocker suit in hand-knitted wool. The shaping of the jacket was particularly clever because all the seams were curved, to give it a feminine look and the impression of a high waist, which is always flattering.

The knicker-bocker suit has voluminous trousers that finish in an elasticized band just about at boot-top level but are designed to be worn over your boots rather than tucked in them, a much more comfortable idea. To go with the top comes a gay striped cap and a long college scarf, for a very young-look yet up-to-minute outfit.

Anne goes back to Elizabethan times for another knicker-bocker suit made, this time, entirely out of white leather but again with a very feminine appeal about it. Both the sleeves of the jacket and the sides of the knickers are laced up loosely, Tudor style — an effect that looks pretty, rather than practical. But the leather is spongeable, so it should not need cleaning too often.

I particularly liked the little chopped-off jacket that laced up the front and would look equally good worn over a long skirt. Underneath it there is a crepe blouse with a cowl neckline to fill in the gaps between all that lacing.

IF YOU haven't already taken to leather, both these outfits may seem far too extreme for you, but they are a signpost to the way that fashion is going, and just what you can do with leather and suede. Meanwhile do, at least, treat yourself to a sleeveless cardigan in suede or, if you're really good at dressmaking — why not try making one up for yourself? Lightweight leather is very easy to sew, and if you cut the body of the jacket in it, using an ordinary paper pattern then add knitted sleeves to avoid having to do any really tricky shaping, you'll have something that is bang up to date and very individual at the same time.

Peter S. Bricca Weds Karen Singer In Ross

The garden of the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Bricca in Ross was the setting for the marriage of their son, Peter Stuart Bricca, to Karen Gay Singer of Greenwich, Conn., on Saturday afternoon.

Karen is the daughter of Mrs. Robert D. Singer of Greenwich and the late Mr. Singer.

The bride attended Redwood High School when her family lived in Tiburon and was graduated from high school in Greenwich and she has attended the University of Oregon. Karen has two brothers, Dan and Tom Singer, of Greenwich.

Peter is a graduate of Redwood High School and the University of Oregon. He is the grandson of Mrs. Stuart Moser of Pebble Beach.

Both Karen and Peter will take VISTA training in Boulder, Colo., beginning Sept. 16.

Creating Elizabethan Foods Fair Task For Mrs. Cooksey

Eating and baking in the Merrie Olde Dayes of Elizabethan England were a festive, often flamboyant feature of daily life. The bakers, chefs and innkeepers of Renaissance times were known for their gastronomical masterpieces.

Thanks to Mrs. Susan Cooksey, catering coordinator (Gude Foode Wench), equally festive gourmandizing will be available at the Renaissance Pleasure Faire and Ha'penny Market to be staged all four weekends of September, including Queen Elizabeth's Birthday Sept. 7, in the Hidden Wood near San Rafael.

Some 72,000 Faire-goers are expected to attend the nine days of the Faire — most arriving early and staying all day —so appetites grow sharp. The task of providing authentic Renaissance food to huge numbers of people and offering them variety of fare from many lands of that period falls on Susan Cooksey.

Behind her is a stint managing a food booth at the Los Angeles area Faire last May — but it is quite a jump from one booth to total reponsibility for feeding staff and visitors alike for nine days, with many visitors eating two meals — or more or less continually.

Behind this catering coordinator who tackles fantastic logistical as well as culinary problems with aplomb, is some knowledge of the restaurant business acquired working with friends who have restaurants. At the southern Faire she managed a food booth representing two Eastern men who have a Westwood gourmet restaurant called the Cafe Four Oaks. This is how she came into real contact with Ron and Phyllis Patterson, creators of the Faires. Before, she had helped at earlier Faires with others' food booths, but had had none of her own.

LAST MAY she offered Greek food dishes. She discovered that many of the people who came to the Faire were vegetarians, so for them produced a summer frute soupe, traditional in medieval Europe and still enjoyed today.

She says there are no exact measurements or ingredients for this; just let yourself go creative and it will be good. Blend various fruit juices of your choice, adding cinnamon, nutmeg, cardamon and other spices; lemon juice, and a box of raisins. Heat to a boil; this is what makes the raisins expand, releasing their fruit sugar, and sweetening and thickening the "soupe."

This year the foods will be more varied than ever before, but according to the research no Olde English "gooye" was quite as popular as the pye.

Its history actually started with the Romans, who learned pastry-making from Egypt. A piping pye, or pasty, was originally made with meat or fish. Fruit pyes appeared in about 1600. According to one tale, the fruit pye was an invention of Queen Elizabeth herself, who wanted to make use of a gift of preserved cherries. The Queen had a sweet tooth and an appetite which was notorious. For one royal feast, 104 peacock pyes were served.

Henry VIII also was legendary for his love of pyes. At his Christmas dinner, he might have seal pye with his fish course, venison pye containing whole haunches of deer and then a veal pye highly spiced. All this, of course, in addition to the many puddings and roasts, and desserts of sweet pastries, perfumed fruits and candied flowers.

SUSAN THINKS modern hostesses might build fantastic varties around recreation of some legendary pyes which seem to have been historic — those four and twenty blackbirds that did indeed hop from a pye — and others holding live frogs and a court jester!

So what can the Faire goer expect when hunger strikes? Throughout the fairgrounds beef and pork pyes will be plenty and the feasting varied. Bangers and mash (English sausage on a stick with mashed potato) — grilled ribs, thousands of chicken legs, lamb or vegetarian shish-kabobs, Swedish stew served with pickled beets and marinated salmon from an ancient Swedish recipe will be hot and ready for the famished visitor.

More exotic fare such as piroshki from Russia, falafel from the Middle East, halvah, four kinds of baklava from Greece and Armenia, will vie with Banberry tartes and Wayfarers' Bredes for flavor. There will be pumpkin, carrot and orange date bread, ginger men and ginger bread castles.

Churros from Spain will be offered, along with cheese and sausages, exotic coffee and bagels, Merrydown meade, lemonade and cider, orange, ginger and gooseberry wine, and beer.

Dominican College To Offer Lecture Series

In response to the interest of Marin women who want to return to college, Dominican College will present a second series of eight faculty lectures on a central theme.

The semester's theme is "Modern Man: Victim or Hero." Sessions are scheduled on eight Wednesdays from 10 a.m. to noon from Sept. 9 to Dec. 2 in the library on the San Rafael campus.

The continuing education program will explore through contemporary literature the role of man in a century of transition, in a time of revolution, under ogranized power, in a condition caused by mechanization.

The lectures and group discussions will be based on seven books including works by Hemingway, T.E. Lawrence, Sartre, Osamu Dazai, Ken Kesey, R. Buckminister Fuller and Flannery O'Connor.

Listed as English 129, the one-unit course is open to any interested woman. Credit is optional. Students may register at the College before the course or at the first session next Wednesday.

PRESS GUIDE IS AVAILABLE

A guide for press chairmen of organizations interested in getting news to the Marin Women's Section of the Independent Journal is available at the San Rafael main office and the Novato, Mill Valley and Southern Sonoma I-J offices.

The booklet, "Getting News Into Your Newspaper," is issued as a service of the Independent-Journal Women's Section to assist press chairmen for women's organizations.

WOMEN BECOMING VETS

An increasing number of women in West Germany are taking up a career in veterinary medicine and they now make up 5.6 per cent of West German veterinarians. It requires eight years of training and internship in West Germany, and most of the women vets specialize in treating smaller animals, such as the guinea pigs shown here.

This is a thing that flutters.

We have things that flutter, too. All kinds of things from day-dresses to dancedresses. And the reason is very simple. All those hard mean architectural fabrics of recent fashion years are giving way to new fluttering fabrics. To quivering matte jerseys. And slinky crepes. To knits. And to new fabrics that look so much like silk even a silkworm doesn't know for sure. Like to flutter a little yourself? And feel unconstrained? And free? And very very female? Then see us. Soon. And ask to see our things-that-flutter collection.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Wedding Won't Be Worthwhile Because They Won't Send Gifts

DEAR HELEN:

I'm the third daughter. My sisters had big weddings with lots of gifts, and I found out later that neither of them sent thank-you notes. Really, they're spoiled brats.

It's only human nature that people will stop giving gifts to a family that doesn't appreciate them. When I graduated from high school, I only received a few presents, compared with my sisters' loot. Same reason, probably.

Now I'm going to be married and I know it will be the same. I'm almost afraid to plan a big wedding for fear no one will come. I probably won't get enough presents to make it worthwhile.

Is there any way to let people know I'm not like my sisters and I'll thank them for wedding gifts? — ABOUT TO BE SLIGHTED AGAIN

DEAR ATBSA:

We-e-ll you can't exactly add to the invitations, "P.S. I'm very prompt about thank-you notes."

If you're the different one friends and relatives may be generous in their response, but if you're planning a big wedding only because the loot will make it worthwhile I'd suggest an elopement instead. A practical-minded gal like you would scarcely enjoy an affair that might not break even. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm 16 and have two sisters and two brothers.

When my oldest brother was born, my parents took pictures galore. They bought him everything. Then my older sister got almost the same plush treatment.

Two years later I came along, and my folks only took a couple of pictures. I've had to wear hand-me-downs all my life.

When my sister went to her senior prom a big fuss was made. After her graduation, we celebrated with a dinner out. Dad stood in the aisle and photographed the whole ceremony.

This year it was my turn. You guess it: Ho-hum time. No pictures for my prom. I got a new dress only because my sister's wouldn't fit. On my graduation, Dad took only one picture which didn't turn out. Afterwards, we went to dinner, but he didn't join us.

DEAR LONELY:

No, Honey, you're a repetition — a victim of the second time around "blahs" which parents often show without even knowing it. They love you just as much, but only the firsts of a first-born son or daughter have the special newness that turns a father into a fatuous photographer and a mother into sentimental jelly.

You won't fully understand this until you have several children of your own. And then I hope you look back to the slights you felt, and make sure each grows up aware that he is as important as the first. — H.

(P.S. Our youngest, Sue reading over my shoulder says if I don't fix hamburgers and fries for dinner she will tell the world about the Bottel family albums — pictures by thousands of our No. 1 son; hundreds for No. 2; dozens for our next-to-last daughter; and — well, excuse me while I go shop for buns and mustard. — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

stout and ale, yogurt with honey and canteloupes. The sweet tooth will be appeased with chunk chocolate if one prefers something simple.

SIMPLICITY AND natural wholesome foods are Susan's consuming interest, and responsible for much innovation in foods offered at the fair.

Back in Los Angeles, where she makes her home most of the year, Susan experiments with organic gardening, growing plants and raising animals. She is presently considering an experiment in catering with a partner, the idea being to teach people about organic foods and how to use them on a mass basis.

At her house there are 17 varieties of fern nurtured by a friend, and 14 varieties of African violets she tends herself. With her 11-year-old son Jon, Susan goes in for camping, hiking, swimming, and teaching small children everything from art to trampoline.

She anticipates parent activities at Harvard School for Boys in Los Angeles, where Jon has earned a scholarship to start seventh grade this September. He has already developed an interest in anthropology and archeology, while Susan likes to restore antique cards — and now and then turn out a pie, strictly from "scratch."

As "Gude Foode Wench," Susan sees to it the Renaissance Pleasure Faire has variety in its pyes — including onion pye, for which a recipe follows, blackbird pye, and the Banbury Tart, which is a pastry crust tucked with a mixture of raisins, nuts, lemon juice, dried fruits and other ingredients.

Use one 9 inch pie shell.

Ingredients for filling: 2 medium onions sliced or chopped, 1 C. white sauce made with whole wheat flour, 1 C. shredded Monterey Jack or Cheddar Cheese (sharpness according to taste); Parsley to cover filling; 1 T. nutmeg, white pepper, garlic salt, paprika.

Instructions for filling: Saute onions until tender. Mix with white sauce and spices; except paprika. Pour into pie shell in layers, alternating with cheese. Plan this so cheese forms the top layer. Top with parsley and paprika. Bake for 15 minutes in medium oven (about 350°).

Author Predicts New Values For Humanity

The ecology fad may be passing, but necessariy attention to but necessary attention to ecology will produce "ecological man," significantly different from the "civilized man" produced by the last 15 centuries, Marin County teachers were told today.

George B. Leonard of Mill Valley, author of "Education and Ecstacy" and west coast editorial manager of Look magazine, in his keynote speech at the fall teachers' institute predicted: "We are moving toward ecological man."

He suggested that "ecological man" may turn out to be closer to paleolithic man than to the highly civilized man of today.

"Paleolithic man was in touch with the results of his actions," declared Leonard. Civilized man is not, he said, but has become "a component in a machine."

The writer-editor suggested that many basic values of western culture will have to be discarded as man makes the adaption to his surroundings necessary to save the world. Among them, he listed competition "a very ineffective way of motivating"), acquisition, aggression, and "cold, detached observation." This last, he said, must give way to "feeling involvement," for "the idea of the detached observer is definitely a false idea."

"Just to save our world," said the speaker, "we all of us are going to have to go through significant changes in the kind of people we are."

"The new consciousness," he declared, will cause mankind to emerge from "the long, dark age called civilization."

In attempting to establish rapport with his audience, Leonard asked for a show of hands to a series of questions. One of them asked how many had participated in encounter groups. About 40 per cent raised their hands.

The institute, attended by teachers from all the smaller school districts in Marin County, was opened in the College of Marin Theater and Fine Arts Building by Virgil S. Hollis, county superintendent of schools. He asked the teachers to ponder the question, "Do you perceive your role as a guide or a leader?"

After Leonard's keynote speech, the teachers divided into sectional workshop meetings which continued throughout the day.

Castro May Come To U.N.

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)— Cuban Premier Fidel Castro sent word to the United Nations Wednesday either he or President Osvaldo Dorticos would come to the U.N. 25th anniversary observance Oct. 14-24.

But sources close to the Cuban delegation expressed doubt Castro would be the Cuban representative to deliver a speech in the U.N. General Assembly Oct. 23.

Word of Cuba's decision to take part in the celebration was in a note from Castro to the United Nations.

New Voters Not Stating Preferences

A marked increase in the number of newly registered voters in Marin who declined to state a political party preference was reported today by elections officials.

The percentage of persons who declined to state a party choice was 3.5 per cent statewide for the June primary eleciton, but some 10 per cent of more than 3,000 new Marin registrants have declined to state a party.

The new registration figures, certain to hit a record for Marin, also showed that Democrats were narrowing the lead in Republican registration, reported Peter C. Meyer, county elections officer.

DEADLINE NEAR

The deadline to register is at midnight next Thursday. More than 500 deputy registrars are combing the county for new voters.

The county elections office in the Civic Center will be open to 9 p.m. tomorrow, Tuesday and Thursday. Monday and Wednesday are legal holidays.

Citizens also may register at city halls, fire houses, some pharmacies and at political campaign offices.

Democratic headquarters will be open until 10 p.m. Tuesday through Thursday for registration at 188 East Blithedale Avenue in Mill Valley and at 7368 Redwood Highway in Novato. Republican headquarters in San Rafael will dispatch deputy registrars to the home of anyone telephoning the headquarters to register.

A JUMP SEEN

Meyer predicted that at least 98,000 would be registered in Marin, a jump from the previous record of 96,695 set in the 1968 general election. More than 96,000 already are registered, up from 92,956 in the June primary election.

Democratic registration apparently has gained 10 per cent, he said. Democratic registration for the June election was 41,989, and Republican registration was 45,287.

Tricia, Escort Take Vacation

Miss Nixon has spent most of her free vacation time with Cox this summer in New York and on Long Island. In line with her wishes for privacy, the White House declined to say that she had a houseguest — Cox — during her recent stay here.

Judge Orders Board To Re-Hire Teacher

Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court late yesterday issued a writ of mandate ordering Lagunitas School District to reemploy Richard Plant, eighth grade teacher who once resigned and then withdrew his letter of resignation.

The order was issued on application of A. Leonard Bjorklund Jr., attorney for Plant. It followed a hearing on Plant's contest against what he contended was illegal discharge.

Plant was one of four teachers whose resignations were considered during a closed session of the Lagunitas School District board last March 9. After the closed session, the board announced no action had been taken at it.

Plant subsequently submitted a letter asking that his resignation be withdrawn. But at a May 19 meeting, the board amended the minutes of the March 9 session to show that the four resignations had been accepted during the closed session. This change of minutes was the basis of Plant's successful challenge.

Group Asks End To Autos In City

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Stop freeway building, increase bridge tolls, tax off-street parking heavily and stop building public garages.

Those are just some of the demands of San Francisco Tomorrow, a youthful group that opposes automobiles because it says they are responsible for the city being "remorselessly destroyed as a place to live."

Other suggestions at a Wednesday news conference for changing some streets from one-way to two-way, for tax laws aimed at discouraging San Francisco families from owning more than one car, and for using gasoline taxes for public transportation.

Gas Receipts Will Benefit Cancer Fund

Tomorrow is the beginning of the Long Labor Day weekend, when thousands of Marinites will gas up their cars and head out for the last holiday of the summer.

Tomorrow also is the day that service stations across the county will donate two cents for every gallon of gasoline they sell to a special American Cancer Society fund.

About 100 stations, many of them members of the Marin Independent Service Stations Association, will participate in the drive. With the money raised, the cancer society plans to kick off the home care fund, which will provide outpatient treatment for marin cancer victims who ordinarily couldn't afford it.

The service station association, according to president Donald E. Skilling, got the idea several months ago after one of its members, Edward F. (Ted) Harris, owner of a Mill Valley Station, died of cancer.

"Our group," Skilling said, wanted people to look beyond the banners in front and the tires piled up. Then Ted died and another member's kid became ill with cancer, so we thought this project was natural."

The association picked Friday, Skilling said, "Because it's one of the busiest days of the year. We hope to raise several thousand dollars this way."

Nina Brandt, executive director of the Marin branch of the cancer society, said the home care fund will be administered by the society for all marinites.

"We hope this will enable us to say, 'yes, of course,' when someone calls and asks for help," she said. The fund will cover the cost of home care, such as cooking and cleaning, and special equipment like hospital beds and wheelchairs. "There's a crying need for something like this in Marin," she said.

Skilling said that "it's the first time we've tried anything like it. We want to get the scope of the response."

If the project, called "Fuel Up to Fight Cancer," is a success, the service station association is hoping to repeat it next year. Participating service stations are displaying large green and red signs in their windows, and about 140 stations in Marin County have agreed to take part, Skilling said.

Courthouse Parking Ultimatum Dropped

Owners of an option to purchase the old San Rafael Courthouse property have apparently dropped their ultimatum that development of the property would not proceed until the City of San Rafael agreed to finance underground parking.

San Rafael real estate broker Robert A. Roumiguiere, one of three men who paid $38,000 for an option to purchase the property from the county, told the Independent-Journal this week that development plans are proceeding and that courthouse square probably can be developed without underground parking.

Ernest N. Kettenhofen, who along with Roumiguiere and I-J publisher Wishard A. Brown purchased the option Feb. 10, said in June that unless San Rafael financed underground parking, "the option will be defaulted and the courthouse will be returned to the county."

Roumiguiere, however, said this week the group is trying t keep plans flexible and that d velopment probably will pro ceed with or without under ground parking.

It is not economically feasible for private industry to construc the underground facility, he said, which is about the same thing San Rafael City Mgr. James H. McCown said about the city doing it.

It would cost from $1.5 million to $2 million to build an underground facility, McCown said, and "the city just doesn't have the money."

The city is willing to help with development plans, he said, but will not be able to put in underground parking.

Roumiguiere said development plans now call for major banks on two corners of the square, a highrise office building with retail shops on the ground floor on a third corner, and a remodeled courthouse annex containing office space; remaining on the fourth.

About one half of the square block would remain landscaped open space, Roumiguiere said.

The ground floor stores, he said, would be specialty shops, adding that the group wanted the square "to be a delightful place to go to . . . a place that will be fun to go to."

He said the three will probably ask the Marin County Board of Supervisors for an extension of the Nov. 10 deadline for payment of the remainder of the $767,000 total price of the property to allow them to complete development plans.

Meanwhile, subcommitees of the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce Civic Affairs Committee, which have been studying various issues concerning development of the square — including traffic flow and parking — will report at a 4 p.m. meeting Sept. 17 at San Rafael City Hall.

Behr Asks Earlier Start On Vallejo Freeway Link

I-J Secial Reort

VALLEJO — Peter H. Behr, Republican nomineee for the state Senate in the Fourth District, yesterday called for early construction of a freeway to replace Highway 37 from Sears Point to Vallejo.

Construction is not scheduled until fiscal 1976-77, Behr said, adding it would take two years to complete the job.

The Mill Valleyan pledged that if elected he would work to have the roject done sooner.

Behr, speaking before the Vallejo Kiwanis Club, termed the present two-lane roadway a "killer" route. In 1969 alone, he said, there were 169 accidents with three killed and 62 injured on the 7.4-mile stretch between the Napa River and the Sonoma County line.

In the past four and a-half years, he said, 27 persons have died on the road in auto accidents.

The route carries more than 20,000 vehicles a day, Behr said.

He also supported a proposal by the California Highway Patrol to require headlights during the day along the 9.8-mile section from the Napa River to Route 121 in Sonoma.

Assemblyman Reports License Plate Theft

Someone took the license plate from his car, Assemblyman William T. Bagley of 1010 B Street, reported yesterday to San Rafael police.

Theft of the front license plate A-7 happened between 10 p.m. last Friday and 10 p.m. Saturday, but was not reported by Bagley until yesterday. The license was taken from his 1965 model green Chevrolet Impala while parked on Fifth Avenue just west of H Street.

Family And Pet Together Again

The Alex Bosia family of 370 Calle de la Mesa, Novato, whose dog was picked up by the Marin County Humane Society Saturday, were reunited with their pet after Warren Lockhart of 93 Calypso Shores, Novato, read about the lost dog.

John Gill of the Marin County Humane Society said that their officer had picked up two black Labrador dogs Saturday. The Humane Society made a mistake and gave Lockhart the wrong one, he said.

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

An offer to buy 100 acres in Marin for a permanent center of Elizabethan arts will be made in a few days by the sponsors of the annual Renaissance Pleasure Faire.

"We are very close to a particular property, and will make our offer in the next few weeks," the Independent-Journal was told by Phyllis Patterson. She and her husband, Ronald, began putting on the fair in Los Angeles in 1963, a venture that has grown into a full-time business.

The ranch property "has good freeway access, which is important to the board of supervisors," she said. The supervisors have objected in past years that the heavy crowds visiting the fair block use of county roads.

She declined to say where the property was, except to indicate it was between San Rafael and Novato. It has a bay forest, with a heavy growth of laurel trees "to make it dark and mysterious and interesting with lots of gnarled trees," she said.

The permanent center, which someday could represent an investment of several million dollars, Mrs. Patterson said, will be bought by one of the two corporations she and her husband head.

The purchase will be made by Theme Events, a profit-making corporation, while the proposed educational arm of the center will be operated by the Renaissance Center, a nonprofit corporation.

The nonprofit corporation, according to records filed with the California attorney general's office, had accumulated $78,860 by the end of 1969. Publicity for the annual fairs held both in Marin and Los Angeles stresses that the fairs will sponsor the Renaissance Center, the nonprofit corporation, in order to promote the plan for a permanent center.

Each fair takes in about $200,000, Mrs. Patterson acknowledged. The $490,000 take, however, is offset by costs of about $300,000, she said. The Pattersons are paid regular salaries by Theme Events, she noted, and do not take a percentage of the income.

She declined to elaborate on the finances of Theme Events, saying "it is not anyone's business. It's a legitimate business, and there's no reason to go into that anymore than there would be for any other business."

Mrs. Patterson said that Theme Events also does consulting work on other recreational events, such as one put on by the City of Los Angeles, and that the annual fair was just one of many projects it works on throughout the year.

She said that the nonprofit corporation, the Renaissance Center, originally was formed in 1938 to build the permanent center, but new federal tax laws had made it impossible to use this corporation for this purpose.

If the offer on the 100-acre property is successful, Mrs. Patterson said, then the 1971 fair will be held there.

Construction of permanent facilities then would be "not too many years in the future," she said. Development costs would be shared with "a recreational group with a conservation orientation," she said. She declined to elaborate on what kind of group this may be.

Her husband added that "a whole series of events" would use the property until permanent facilities are built. He said that potential investors had not been lined up. "We've got to get the land first," he said.

Mrs. Patterson noted that she and her husband had looked "at almost every ranch in Marin. We spent most of the year walking," she said, adding that "it takes eight hours to walk 100 acres."

Of the 100 acres, an Elizabethan village would take 10, the permanent fairgrounds would take 25, and 65 acres would be for parking.

"It'll be a total environment of the period, with a very rural atmosphere," she said. "We won't have just plaster walls, but work done by artisans," she said.

"It'll be something like Williamsburg, only on a smaller scale," Mrs. Paterson said.

Financing the project, she concerned, "is going to be very tricky. We'll have to get more money." She declined to say how much money had been set aside by Theme Events for the project, saying making this information public "can hurt us a lot getting a loan."

According to Patterson's plans, the center will have a theater, inns, craft shops, a guildhall, classrooms and a market square.

The 1970 Marin fair, the fourth fair put on in Marin by the Pattersons, will open on Saturday.

Personal Plates Can Be Ordered

The plates are issued for a fee of $25 in addition to the regular registration fees, with revenue derived from the sale to be placed in the California Environmental Protection Program to fight air pollution and support other environmental programs.

Applicants can order almost any combination of up to six letters or numbers which don't conflict with regular license plates or use offensive language.

Fine, Probation For Fatal Crash

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A 23-year-old Novato man was fined $500 yesterday in superior court, given three years probation and ordered to refrain from the use of alcohol.

William Miley Hall of 15 Manzanita Drive received the sentence after he pleaded no contest on July 17 to a charge of manslaughter.

The California Highway Patrol said Hall's pickup truck crossed the center divider on an approach to the Golden Gate Bridge last Dec. 15, and hit a car head-on, killing William B. Lewis of Fairfax and injuring himself and five others.

Attack Try Is Reported

A 17-year-old San Anselmo girl who was hitchhiking from Novato about 11 p.m. Wednesday reported to the sheriff's department that a man, about 30 years old, who gave her a ride tried to rape her.

The girl said that he turned off Highway 101 at St. Vincent's Drive and when she refused his advances, he told her she would have to walk home.

He then followed her out of the car and grabbed her but she said she fought him and fled. She got a ride to Marinwood where she called the sheriff's department.

College Starting Tot Care Center

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— San Francisco State College is going to have a child care center for students this fall partly because "it will be damned good for marriage," president S.I. Hayakawa says.

Hayakawa, of Mill Valley, announcing the plan Wednesday at a meeting in Eureka of state college presidents, declared that "Having babies should not be a form of slavery" and that the center would permit mature young women to resume their studies.

Of S.F. State's 19,000 students last semester, 3,000 supported youngsters.

The center, to start with an enrollment of 100 in an unused dormitory, will be the mixed responsibility of the college and its Associated Students.

Mill Valley Is Observing 70th Birthday Of Founding

A month-long historical exhibit commemorating the 70th anniversary of the founding of Mill Valley opens tomorrow at the Gallery of the Mill Valley Library.

The display traces Mill Valley's history from the early 1800s, when what is now the city was part of the Reed and Richardson ranchos, through the public land auction in 1890, to the incorporation of the city and the first council meeting Sept. 4, 1900.

Early paintings, drawings and photographs and other historical objects will be included in the exhibit. Gallery hours are from 2 to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday. The show will end Sept. 25.

Featured will be a display of memoribilia from the first city council meeting, including the first minutes and the city seal; a working model of an old Mill Valley home and a 10-minute film, "The Mount Tamalpais and Muir Woods Railway," filmed during the descent of the gravity train from the mountaintop to Lytton Square.

The anniversary celebration is being sponsored by the Mill Valley Art Commission, Arts Guild and Library Association and was coordinated by Lucretia H. Little, city historian.

The exhibit contains a collection of rare oils and photographs on loan from the California Historical Society, the Bancroft Library at the University of California and private collectors.

In conjunction with the celebration, more than 40 Mill Valley merchants will feature historical window displays covering the political, economic and cultural history of the city.

Registration Place

The place for registration for part-time and full-time students at the College of Marin has been changed from Olney Hall to the College Center Building from 7 to 8:30 p.m. today, according to publicity director Earlene Jones.

This is the last chance for students to register without paying a penalty, she said. The first day of classes will be Sept. 10.

Marin Suing On Contract Failure

Marin County has filed suit in Marin Superior court against Sears, Roebuck and Company and two other corporations charging failure to live up to a contract for drapes in the Hall of Justice.

The county complaint filed yesterday charged that a $27,700 contract was signed in 1968 with Sears and Fentech Inc. for installation of drapes with a surety bond provided by General Insurance Company of America.

Since installation was never completed, the county is asking $13,300 for damages and extra cost suffered.

The county complaint said that work was started, but never completed because the material was not up to specifications.

Last Trump Not Drawn Until 12th Trick–A Victory Though

In some hands it is necessary to draw trumps to prevent an opponent from ruffing one of your winners. It is not necessary to draw trumps in all hands. It is not necessary to draw all of the trumps even when you do draw some of them. It is not necessary to draw trumps at your first opportunity. Before I put you to sleep with this kind of statement, let me show you a hand in which the last trump is not drawn until the twelfth trick.

Opening lead — ◇ Q

WINS IN DUMMY

West leads the queen of diamonds and declarer wins in dummy with the ace. He can afford to draw two rounds of trumps and does so with the king and ace. But South does not draw the last missing trump because he has work for dummy's trumps.

There is first the question of the clubs. Are they, or are they not, solid? South tests the suit by leading a low club from his hand to dummy's king. West's diamond discard makes it clear that East has a natural club trick.

At rubber bridge, South might concede one club and get on to the next hand. If this hand is played in a tournament, howeveither a heart or a club with ertrick. There is no harm in doing so since South's plan does not risk the loss of the slam.

DISCARD CLUB

South must use one of his high hearts to discard a club from dummy. After taking the two top hearts, South ruffs a heart in dummy. Then he takes the ace and queen of clubs and ruffs a club with dummy's last trump. Now South returns to his hand by ruffing a diamond.

South has won the first 11 tricks, and one trump is still out. South can at last afford to draw that trump. And then, he can safely cash his last club to score the overtrick.

HEART OR CLUB

Note that South would lose one trick if he drew three trumps early. He could then ruff either aheart or a club wit dummy's last trump, but he could not ruff both. East would get either a heart or a club trick.

Vic Damone's Wife Suing For Divorce

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Vic Damone's wife Judith sued for divorce Wednesday to end their seven year marriage.

Mrs. Damone, 34, sought custody of their three daughters and the family home in Beverly Hills. The couple was married in Las Vegas, Nev., Oct. 25, 1963 and separated Aug. 22. It was the 42-year-old singer's second marriage.

Today is Thursday, Sept. 3, the 246th day of 1970 with 119 to follow.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter. The morning stars are Mars and Saturn. The evening stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1916 the Allies turned back the Germans in the World War I battle of Verdun.

In 1939 Great Britain declared war on Germany and France took the same action six hours later, followed quickly by Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and Canada.

A thought for the day: In his first statement to the House of Commons after becoming Britain's wartime prime minister, Winston Churchill said, "I have nothingto offer but blood, toil, tears and sweat."

Tall Building Title To Go To Chicago

NEW YORK (UPI)—Chicago soon will wrest from New York the honor of having the world's tallest building. The new Sears Roebuck tower will be 1,450 feet compared with New York's World Trade Center, which will be 1,350.

New York's Empire State building held the title for years at 1,250 feet.

However, industry's big interest in the Sears tower is not in its Height —that only arouses a shrug, nowadays. The interest is in how you use the space in such a structure, according to Larry Lerner of Saphier, Lerner & Schindler, Inc., the Litton industries subsidary that did the space planning for Sears and the architects, Skidmore, Owings & Merrill.

The Sears people told Lerner and the architects they had discovered over the years that the best way to design a big store was to allocate the space for each department with room for expansion, then tell the architects — "put walls around it and engineer it." They decided the same could be done with a skyscraper.

So Lerner had to figure out virtually where every one of the 7,000 people would work and how to expand each department before the architects went to work.

When Lerner finally had the basic problems solved, the architects were able to design a rather conventional looking modern skyscraper with lots of window space.

Now Saphier, Lerner & Schindler is busy, again using the computer, drawing detailed layouts, placing every desk, business machine, telephone and every item of furnishings for the 7,000 Sears workers.

The company also will design these furnishings and the decorations.

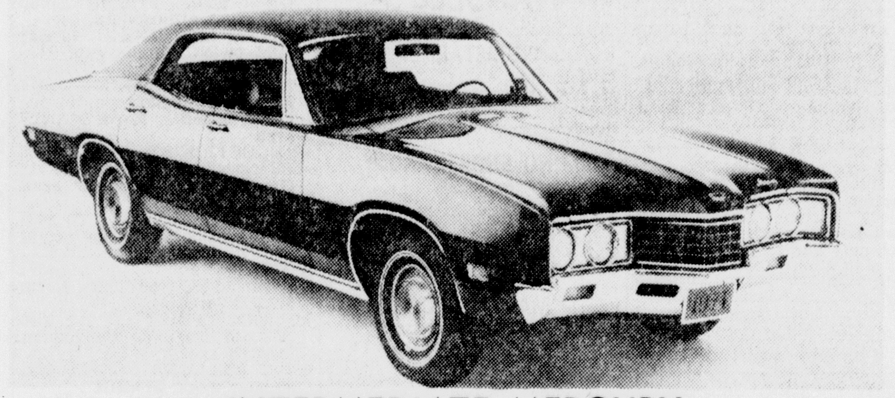

Solid State Division

NEW YORK (UPI) — ILC Industries, Inc., and Solid State Scientific Devices Corp. are negotiating for the purchase by ILC of Solid State's DDC Division. ILC, with headquarter in Dover, Del., is a designer and manufacturer of environmental protective systems and equipment.

PLYMOUTH INTERMEDIATE 1971

Two separate exterior shapes are featured for the 13-model Satellite lineup—one for the four-door sedan shown above and station wagons and one for two-door hardtops. Sedans and wagons have a 117-inch wheelbase, hardtops 115 inches. Cars will go on sale Oct. 6 at Corte Madera Chrysler-Plymouth.

INTERMEDIATE MERCURY

The Montego, Montego MX and the Montego MX Brougham model above have a new front end design with an "egg crate" front grille and argent headlamp doors. Engines range from the 250-cubic inch standard six to a 429-cubic inch V-8. Cars will be offered this month at Marin Bay Lincoln-Mercury, San Rafael, and Larry Brink Motors, Mill Valley.

Market On Plus Side

NEW YORK (UPI) — Belief that the economy is on a recovery path and that interest rates will be coming down soon touched off renewed demand for stocks today following a smart snapback in the glamor group late yesterday. Turnover was brisk.

A four-hour turnover of 10,480,000 shares was well ahead of the 6,840,000 shares which changed hands at a comparable period yesterday.

Point-sized gainers popped up most frequently in the electronics, while motors also attracted demand after moving in reverse gear early in the week.

Some analysts said the threat of an auto strike is expected to hang over the market until Sept. 14, when current contracts expire. Other analysts, however, said they believed the threat wouldn't become serious until the deadline is at hand.

Alan Shaw of Harris, Upham & Co. said the market is presently responding to a number of other items, including belief that interest rates will be coming down shortly and signs that the economy is pulling out of its prolonged slump.

INVESTING

Hold Off Trade For A Merger

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I am about to retire and need advice on increasing my income. My holdings are: Boston Edison, Parke-Davis and Shell Oil. Any suggestions would be appreciated. N.

A. Following a well-established pattern of growth, earnings for Boston Edison were up sharply in the first half to $1.79 a share from $1.40 in the 1969 period. In addition the generous 6.9 per cent yield is suited to your investment goal. Although the near-term earnings picture at Shell is less rosy, shares should be held for better-than-average potential and adequate dividend return. If two very attractive merger proposals were not in the offing I would suggest selling Parke-Davis. These, however alter the picture considerably. A proposal from Revlon was rejected by directors of the drug company in favor of a more lucrative offer from Warner-Lambert. The loss you now have in these shares would be significantly narrowed if the merger is accepted by shareholders. For each Parke-Davis share held you would receive 0.4428 share of Warner-Lambert and based on recent trading levels this places a value on your shares 37 per cent greater than you could now realize by selling.

Q. We have invested in Bell Telephone of Pennsylvania and Northern Natural Gas bonds paying more than 8 per cent. I am afraid we might lose our money. Would U.S. Treasury Notes be safer? L. P.

A. Bonds issued by Bell System members carry the highest (AAA) rating, second only to Treasury issues in safety and can be held without fear of loss. The A-rating assigned to Northern Natural Gas bonds indicates that principal and income are considered secure.

CARPET CLEANING CARPET CLEANING

include
Hagel Steam
Soil, Dirt, and Spots—EXTRACTED
Not Scrubbed deeper — That's the BIG Difference.

1. GENTLE, THOROUGH CLEANING . . . removes the dirt and soil from the carpet pile. The old shampoo method scrubs it in deeper. We use no brushes or harsh chemicals to damage your carpet pile.
2. CARPET PILE BEAUTIFIED . . . the cleaning agent, coupled with the wet steam and the powerful extraction process lift the matted pile, restoring color and texture to a really clean carpet.
3. CONTROLLED MOISTURE . . . carpet shrinkage is minimized because of the fast drying resulting from the powerful extraction process.
4. MOTH PROOFED AND DIRT RETARDED . . . every fibre of your carpet is coated with moth proofing and a dirt retardant during the cleaning process.
5. CARPET MAINTENANCE COSTS REDUCED . . . because thoroughly cleaned carpets wear much longer, and thus the need for frequent cleaning is reduced.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Van Dellen

The ankle, a perfect hinge joint, is damaged more often than any other joint. The structure moves up and down without difficulty, but it has a limited range of motion to the side. One step too far in either direction throws the entire weight of the body upon the joint and creates unusual strain on the ligaments along the inner or outer side of the ankle.

The most common origin of a sprain or fracture is taking a misstep, causing the foot to invert suddenly under force of the body weight. This is likely to happen when walking over an irregular terrain, catching a heel on a stair or stepping into a hole. Women add to the hazard with narrow heels and men with runover heels.

WHEN THE ANKLE is twisted, the ligaments on its outer side are stretched or torn. This is a true sprain, and marked pain and swelling follow. Some of the puffiness results from internal hemorrhage that ensues when the tissues are torn. The skin may turn black and blue within 24 hours. Distress may be so disabling the sufferer hobbles and winces with each step.

In more extensive damage, the tendons tear completely, or the bone may break. These injuries are more serious.

THE VICTIM of a sprained or broken ankle should lie down and elevate the foot. Applying cold or ice packs for an hour or more minimizes swelling and helps control the internal bleeding. An X-ray is suggested to determine whether a fracture has occurred. Thereafter, the part is immobilized. One simple and satisfactory method for a minor sprain is to tape the entre ankle and lower leg.

A PLASTER CAST is needed for a more serious injury. The surgeon usually incorporates a caliper or heel into the bottom of the cast so that the individual may be up and about without bearing weight on the injured ankle. A nonadhesive elastic bandage or elastic adhesive is used for minor sprains. This material is easy to apply and remove and is comfortable and effective.

FOODS AND CANCER

Mr. T. writes: Can eating fried foods every day cause stomach cancer?

REPLY

We do not know what causes cancer, but since frying is such a common way of preparing food, millions of persons would have a stomach malignancy if it were responsible. In Japan, where cancer of the stomach is the leading cause of death in those between the ages of 35 and 54, too many pickled vegetables and too much salt are blamed.

POOR POSTURE

REPLY

When posture is poor, something has to give and the abdomen usually protrudes when the spine bends in this way. The opposite also may occur, in that an enlarged abdomen may cause swayback in attempt to redistribute the body's weight. This is observed frequently in pregnancy.

EGGS AND ARTHRITIS

A.T. writes: Will eating a hard boiled egg every day cause arthritis?

REPLY

No. Neither will soft boiled fried, shirred, scrambled, or poached egg or omelet, souffle eggnog, or custard.

PRESSURE AND WATER

REPLY

No, provided the excess is eliminated thru proper channels and salt is withheld.

TV REVIEW

Comebacks Set For Two Stars

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Two of television's top situation comedy stars—Andy Griffith and Mary Tyler Moore—will attempt comebacks in new series when CBS-TV kicks off its 1970-71 season the week of Sept. 14.

When Griffith quit his old show about a rural sheriff in order to try movies, his was the top-rated series on video. Movies, however, turned out to be a good deal more uncertain because of the current state of the motion piuture industry, and Griffith's success in films was less than earthshaking. So he's back on video.

In his new half-hour series, which bows Sept. 18 with the title of "Headmaster," he portrays the principal of a small private high school in California's San Fernando Valley. His former series was set in a mythical town with a distinctly southern flavor.

Miss Moore also left television's weekly outings while at the top. She played Dick Van Dyke's wife in the comedian's topflight series, and it was still ranked very high in the ratings wehn Van Dkye decided he also wanted to quit the regular grind. He and Miss Moore also tried movies, but neither set the world afire.

In her new half-hour series, "The Mary Tyler Moore Show," which arrives Sept. 19, the actress will play an employee of a local television station newsroom in Minneapolis-St. Paul.

The best word-of-mouth from those who have seen advance showings of CBS-TV premieres has been going to a new half-hour situation comedy called "Arnie," about a blue-collar laborer suddenly promoted to the executive suite of his company.

"Arnie" also has as its star a former television headliner, Herschel Bernardi, who originally gained fame as a police officer in the "Peter Gunn" series, and scored well in the Broadway musicals "Fiddler on the Roof" and "Zorba." The premiere of "Arnie" is Sept. 19, and although reviews will appear around the air date, I can tell you it is very funny.

Other new CBS-TV series will be:

—Tim Conway's variety hour, which debuts Sept. 20.

—"The Storefront Lawyers," an hour drama that arrives Sept. 16 and deals with young attorneys who give free neighborhood legal help to needy clients. The star is Robert Foxworth, who was so good in last season's "CBS Playhouse" production "Sadbird," about a young man torn between the hippie and business worlds.

—"The Interns," an hour drama about young doctors that premieres Sept. 18. Broderick Crawford stars as a veteran warhorse physician, there are a lot of young performers, and I can tell you the show isn't very good.

Reed Panel's New Policy On Transfers

The Reed School District board has adopted a new policy tightening requirements for interdistrict transfers in the wake of reports that large numbers of Sausalito students may try to transfer into the district.

Interim Supt. Stanley H. Friese said the board adopted the policy at its Tuesday meetings, and then denied three transfer requests.

Turned down were applications by Sausalito parents Fred Lyon and Hans Berg and Mrs. D. C. Thompson of Mill Valley. The board voted to allow a child of Mrs. H. La Flamme of Larkspur to come into the district.

Approved were applications by Mrs. Lyle Dybdahl, Michael Wardlow and Robert Van Gutman to allow their children to attend schools in the Larkspur-Corte Madera School District. All attended Reed schools last year.

The board's new policy, Friese said, makes it clear that it "does not encourage transfers."

"The board felt that its primary responsibility is to provide the best possible educational program for Reed students, Friese said, "although at times it may be necessary to accept students from other districts."

Any transfer agreement is subject to the district of residence paying Reed the cost of educating the pupil, Friese said.

"The board feels it is supporting the Sausalito School District board in its efforts to provide the programs its citizens are requesting. If we were to establish the practice of accepting large numbers of students from Sausalito, we would be contributing to the destruction of the district," he said.

The board also decided that membership on its four standing committees will remain at five, rather than going to seven as had been suggested. New appointments to the committees include school facility and transportation, Mrs. Raymond Groo and Jan Whitescarver; and drug abuse, Fred Montegani.

The Reed School District board also:

EMPLOYMENT — Hired Levi Harris, custodian at Reedland Woods School, at $485 a month.

TEACHERS — Hired teachers Carol Finn at $6,745 a year; Nancy Bedient at $8,626 a year and James Steffan and Marjory Moore at salaries not yet determined.

REPRESENTATIVE — Appointed Trustee James Richwagen as representative to the Reed District Parent-Teacher Club Communication Council.

DEDICATION — Appointed Trustee Thomas S. Price to serve with Friese and two unnamed representatives of the parent-teacher club on a committee to plan dedication ceremonies for Reedland Woods School. The ceremony will be held prior to the board meeting Oct. 6.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned to Sept. 15 at 8 p.m. at Del Mar School.

Rentals Continue To Drop, Survey Shows

The availability of homes or apartments to rent or buy continues to decline in Marin and Southern Sonoma, according to a Pacific Gas and Electric Co. survey.

Company reports compiled as of June show that for the fourth straight year, there was a decline in the availability of housing units.

The vacancy ratios in the North Bay Division included:

Mill Valley area, 1.1 per cent as compared to 1 per cent in June, 1969; Novato, .8 per cent as compared to 1.4 per cent; Petaluma, 1.1 per cent as compared to 1.5 per cent; and San Rafael, .8 per cent as compared to 1.1 per cent.

The vacancy ratio was calculated on the basis of the proportion of idle residential electric meters to the total residential installed electric meters.

People's Park Victim Testifies

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—"It felt like a very strong shock wave hitting me in the guts." That was the way William Rundle Jr., 18, described being shot in last year's Peoples Park riot in Berkeley.

Rundle testified in court Wednesday that he was felled by a shotgun blast fired by an Alameda County Sheriff's deputy who has been charged with unlawfully firing a shotgun during the outbreak.

Rundie said he saw the officer raise his gun but thought he was merely trying to frighten bystanders. As he turned away, he was hit, Rundle testified.

Earlier, several witnesses told the court that the deputy who fired the shotgun did so calmly.

Two Car Plants Hit With Bombs

MILPITAS (UPI)—Bombs exploded without injury Wednesday night at two automobile plants in the San Francisco East Bay area.

Milipitas Police Chief James B. Murray said a "medium sized bomb" blew out a large plate glass window and several smaller panes at the Ford Motor Company's San Jose plant which is in this city.

Police in nearby Fremont said a bomb went off about 30 minutes later in front of the main door at the lobby of the General Motors Corporation plant there.

The building's front was damaged, they continued, and a lot of glass broken.

Rick Barry To Make The N.Y. Basketball Scene

NEW YORK (UPI) — There's a new super star around town who could crowd Willis Reed and Walt Frazier off the sports pages . . . and even challenge the Mets, Jets, Yanks, Giants and Rangers for publicity, time and space.

In fact, he's the biggest thing in basketball to hit New York since the Knicks won the National Basketball Association title last season.

The New York Nets of the rival American Basketball Association had Rick Barry under contract today, a surprising acquisition that immediately had Net fans talking title.

Barry, 26, the only player to win scoring championships in both the NBA and ABA, was acquired from the Virginia Squires Wednesday for an estimated $250,000 and a future No. 1 draft choice.

Squires' owner Earl Foreman said Barry, a native New Jerseyite, was dealt away because the former University of Miami Fla. All America made remarks in a national magazine that he (Foreman) considered "demeaning of the state of Virginia and its citizens."

Barry, has nothing against the South, but he says Norfolk, Va., the hometown of the Squires, is too provincial for his tastes and fortunes. He prefers New York or San Francisco where he can indulge in his two off-season enterprises, broadcasting and modeling.

"My interest in backetball was at its lowest ebb at the prospect of playing in Virginia," Barry admitted "but it has been rekindled now that the Nets have taken over my contract."

Barry, who even tried to buy his contract from Foreman, was a most happy fella when he learned of his new surroundings. The Nets picked up the contract which Barry originally signed with the Oakland Oaks and was turned over to Foreman when the club moved to Washington last season.

The Nets have Barry for one year, with an option to renew the contract the following season. After that, there's a legal hassle that must be resolved before Barry can be sure of the basketball uniform he'll wear for the 1972-73 season."

"My future with the Nets doesn't go beyond two years," Barry explained, "because I still have a moral and contractural obligation with San Francisco and I intend to live up to it."

Bob Carlson, the Nets' attorney, said there will be a court hearing Sept. 8 on San Francisco's claim to the immediate services of Barry, but that a trial date probably won't be set until next year.

"I'm sure the validity of our claim to Barry will be sustained," Carlson said, "then we can possibly make a deal with San Francisco owner Frank Mieuli to assure our keeping Rick in New York permanently."

Barry began his successful pro basketball career with the San Francisco Warriors in 1965 and won the NBA scoring championship with a 35.6 average the following season. Barry sat out the 1967-68 season when he jumped to the ABA Oakland team and then won the league's scoring title with the Oaks in 1968-69 with a 34.0 mark.

Two years ago, Barry signed a five-year contract to play with San Francisco again and the case has been in litigation since. Barry said whatever happens in the courtroom, he's still going to play basketball.

"I'm not going to be a Curt Flood and stay out for another season," he quipped.

Marin Grid Talent Is Spread Around

This could be a banner year for Marin Countians cavorting on major collegiate gridirons, according to reports trickling in from compuses near and far.

We'll have starters and possible all-stars on both coasts, with big Tamalpais High alumnus Barry Brink slated for his senior year as tackle for the Dartmouth Indians and another ex-Tamite, fleet, sure-handed Honor Jackson ticketed for big things at University of Pacific.

Brink, who is a chip off the old block of former pro star (Rams, Bears) Larry Brink of Mill Valley, last season anchored the defensive unit that was largely responisble for Dartmouth's 8-1 record. He earned honorable mention All-Ivy League and All-New England and is expected to improve this fall when Dartmouth again is favored in the Ivy League.

'Capable Of Immediate Greatness'

Meanwhile, the UOP press book succinctly treats Jackson to wit: "On the sunny side of the street . . . Receiver Honor Jackson at 6-2 and 190 pounds is capable of immediate greatness."

Honor was a Tiger starter last season following sensational years as a pass snagger at College of Marin and Tam. At Stockton this season, his teammates will include Chris Klyse, junior offensive guard from San Rafael; linebacker Vern Kellerman, a junior from Kentfield; and Jeak Dennis, a tight end from San Rafael. At 24, Kellerman is the senior citizen of the Tigers.

The Bounty County will be represented at both Stanford and Cal. Down on the farm, ex-Drake sensation Don Alvarado will be at flanker and could help quarterback Jim Plunkett pass his way to the Heisman Trophy, while at Berkeley, Pete Richter of Tiguron, a 205-pound soph who prepped at Redwood, is one of four running backs working out with the Golden Bears.

Bruce Kilby At Arizona State

Arizona State fans are expecting big things from defensive end Bruce Kilby, a rugged performer from Terra Linda who started at Arizona Western Junior College last fall.

By the way, Arizona State is the publicity champion thus far as its press, radio and television brochure is 124 pages thick. Not much of a plot, but a lot of good short stories.

San Jose State tells us that Clint Dilts of Corte Madera, a flanker who prepped at Soquel (Santa Cruz County) High, and College of Marin transfer Charles Keppel, an offensive guard, will be major contributors to the Spartan varsity.

Defensive end Charles Collins of San Rafael will be with the U.C. at Davis. He's a 20-year-old junior.

And, well, that's it for the time being on the collegiate grid scene. More to come as the season progresses.

Moving On To Pro Baseball...

AND NOW, on the professional baseball front:

Tom Corder of Novato has completed his rookie season with the Los Angeles Dodgers' Ogden, Utah team in the Pioneer League and is fulfilling his military obligations at Fort Lewis, Wash. Tom, shortstop who starred at San Jose State, got a late start and early finish in his pro debut, batted .238 in the Pioneer League, and is happy to get the military thing behind him so that next year he'll have a full season of play for pay.

Also at Ogden, San Rafael outfielder Dewey Forry had a good recent week and is hitting .258; Ken Johnson of Larkspur is batting .243 at Kinston, N.C. in the Carolina League; John Dolinsek of Novato has a .301 mark at Columbus, Ga. of the Class AA Southern League; and pitcher Russ Dillon of Novato now is 3-5 won-lost for the Greenwood, S.C. Braves of the West Carolinas League. Russ has a 4.75 earned run average.

Leach Ousted In Norcal Golf

Ray Leach of Novato was among those eliminated yesterday from the Northern California Golf Association Amateur Championships at Spyglass Hill course in Pebble Beach.

Leach, who last week won the Utah State Amateur, lost to veteran golfer Dr. Jack Luceti, 5 and 4 in the second round.

Leach thus failed in his bid to win the Norcal event for the second time. His victory came in 1968, the year he was graduated from Novato High School.

A's Odom Displays Confidence

By STEVE TOOMAJIAN

OAKLAND (UPI)—Confident John Odom, partially responsible for the mediocre 1970 performance of the A's, insists Oakland still has a good chance at first place in the American League West.

"There's no way we can finish below second place with the kind of team we have," Odom said Wednesday night after hurling a 2-1 victory over Chicago. "Don't count us out of first, either. We can catch Minnesota."

SEVEN OUT

The A's trail Minnesota by seven games, with three contests left against the Twins next week and three more during the third week of September. Oakland trails second place California by three games.

"We've got six more games with the Twins," Odom said. "They could get knocked out by California, too, so we've got a real good chance to ease right into first place."

Odom, the leading winner for Oakland two seasons in a row, picked up only his seventh victory of 1970 Wednesday night. He was on the disabled list with a damaged elbow for six weeks in the middle of the season.

ERRATIC

The loss of Odom and the inability of the A's to adequately take up the slack has made Oakland more an erratic team than an ambitious pennant contender.

"I'm gradually getting back into the groove," Odom said. "But I'm not anywhere near the pitcher I was two years ago."

Odom limited the White Sox to two hits in seven innings. He watched from the bench as teammate Campy Campaneris drove in the winning run in the bottom of the seventh. Jim Grant pitched two scoreless innings for his 24th save.

Campaneris shot a two-out triple to the centerfield wall to score Steve Hovley, who had drawn a base on balls against Chicago starter and loser Bart Johnson.

TIE SCORE

Odom himself sent the game into a 1-1 deadlock in the third inning when he blooped a double, stole third and raced home on a bad throw by catcher Duane Josephson.

The defeat ruined the debut of interim manager Billy Adair. Don Gutteridge was released as head man of the White Sox prior to the game.

Champion Coach Is Dead At 57

Death came at 7:12 a.m., EDT.

The 57-year-old Lombardi was head coach and executive vice president of the Washington Redskins at the time of his death. Prior to taking charge of the Redskins in 1969, the gruff, taskmaster of a coach had risen to fame by building a championship dynasty for the Green Bay Packers in his first head coaching job.

In nine seasons at Green Bay, he won five National Football League championships and two Super Bowl contests against rival American Football League teams.

A WINNER

Lombardi, after bringing Washington its first winning team (7-5-2) in 14 years in the 1969 season, was first hospitalized on June 25 with a stomach ailment

Two days later, he underwent major surgery in which two feet of his colon was removed when a tumor was discovered. Lombardi left the hospital in early July, intending to take up the head coaching reins again.

But on July 27, he re-entered the hospital and a second operation of an undisclosed nature was performed. Redskin officials, at the request of Lombardi's family, declined to make public either his condition or the nature of his illness.

SURVIVORS

Lombardi is survived by his wife, the former Marie Planitz, a son, Vincent H. Lombardi, and a daughter, Mrs. Susan Bickhem of Chicago

Also surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lombardi of Brooklyn, N.Y., two sisters, two brothers and six grandchildren.

Mrs. Lombardi related recently that her husband had overtaxed himself just prior to reentering the hospital when he attended a meeting of National Football League club owners in New York in July during a deadlocked labor dispute with the pro players.

Lombardi saw his last football game in person two days before going back into the hospital. It was a practice game between

JUAN, GIANTS FIND OUT

All Good Things Must End

CINCINNATI (UPI) — All good things, as Juan Marichal and the San Francisco Giants know, must eventually come to an end.

Wednesday night Gary Nolan and the Cincinnati Reds ended a five-game Giant winning streak and Marichal's six-game personal winning streak with a 2-0 defeat of the San Franciscans.

Nolan did most of the National League West leaders' work for them, fanning nine Giants and knocking in both of the Reds' runs. It was his 16th victory this season against five losses.

KEY BLOWS

Nolan's first RBI came on a second-inning single which followed singles by Tommy Helms and Daryl Chaney. The 22-year-old righthander drove home the second Reds tally on a bases-loaded sacrifice fly in the fourth.

The only hits off Nolan were a third inning double by Jim Hart, a double by Dick Dietz in the eighth and Tito Fuentes' single in the ninth.

The loss dropped the Giants back one game to 15½ games behind the Reds, whose early season lead has provided adequate momentum to keep them atop the standings.

Tonight San Francisco ends its three-game series in Cincinnati with Skip Pitlock 4-4 on the mound against the Reds' Tony Cloninger 6-5.

FINAL MEETING

The Reds will be in San Francisco Monday and Tuesday for the teams' final three-game series of the season.

The Giants management announced Wednesday that four minor league players have been picked up for the remainder of the season.

The four will report to the club Friday in Atlanta. They are outfielders George Foster and Bernie Williams and lefthanded pitcher John Cumberland, all from the Giants' Phoenix, Ariz., farm club in the Pacific Coast League, and first baseman Jim Goodson from Fresno of the California League.

Raiders Step Up Tempo For 49ers

"We're stepping up the tempo this week," Madden said Wednesday at the Raiders' training camp, "but it has nothing to do with the fact we'll play the 49ers Sunday. We now are down to our final two pre-season games. That means we'll try to get sharper," Madden said.

Reds' Pete Rose Is Not Bashful

Pete Rose may not win his third consecutive National League batting title this season. Rico Carty and Roberto Clemente have a 40 point bulge on Rose. But Rose will lead the league once again in more than 600 times at bat. And he also will lead once again with 200 or more hits.

A switch hitter, Rose hits southpaws or righthanders impartially. This is his sixth consecutive season with a .300 or better average. His .335 in 1968 and .348 last year won him his consecutive batting titles. This will be his fifth year of 200 or more hits.

ROSE PLAYS baseball in a way that commands the respect of old timers who constantly talk about the fierce competitors of other eras. But when the old timers get around to mentioning Rose, they pay him the ultimate tribute by comparing him with the greats of the past.

The stories about Rose beating out walks have been written and re-written. But there is something exciting about the way Rose runs out a walk just as he does every ball he hits.

Rose has the kind of confidence that irritates the man on the mound. To a pitcher Rose's display of confidence isn't just that. It is outright cockiness.

"SURE I'M cocky" Rose says. "What's wrong about it. Lots of guys are cocky. If you're aggressive they say you're cocky. They rib me about running to first on walks. Anybody can walk to first on a base balls. Anyone can do things the way everybody else does. I don't want to be like everybody else.

"I want to be different. The fans notice you when you're different. Jackie Robinson was different. He wasn't like everybody else. When I was a kid I lived two miles from Crosley Field. My Dad took me to almost every game and I remember watching Robinson. He did everything.

"ROBINSON WAS exciting to watch. Fans came from all around to watch him. I was determined as a rookie to become an exciting major league player. I didn't want to be just another major leaguer. I wanted to be an exciting one."

Obviously Rose is not a retiring, bashful fellow to interview. He is as refreshing in an interview as he is on a ball field. He is a complete extrovert. And he is somewhat of a philospher, too.

"YOU CAN'T do anything if you don't think you can," he said. "It's not only important in baseball but everything you do. You got to have confidence.

Rose isn't just an uninhibited ball player with boyish enthusiasm, plus a great talent with a bat. He studies pitchers but doesn't attribute his success to that.

"Pitchers screamed when they lowered the mound," said Rose. "They've been hollering this year about the lively ball.

"I'D LIKE to have an expert tell me how lowering the mound would help a hitter. And, as for the rabbit ball, just remember it won't go anyplace without contact. A batter still has to hit it.

"There's one real reason why hitting is up these past seasons. Expansion. With expansion, 20 new pitchers came up last year. How many would still be in the minors if not for expansion. I'm not saying they're minor league pitchers but they'd still be down there getting experience.

Redskins Shaken By Lombardi's Death

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI)—Veteran flanker Bob Long, visibly shaken by the death of his coach, Vince Lombardi, said today the Washington Redskins will go ahead with their preseason game against the Miami Dolphins Saturday night because "that's the way he would want it."

"He would expect a great performance from us," Long said as he and other members of the Redskins sat grimly around their hotel headquarters after learning of Lombardi's death.

Long, whose pro football potential was discovered at Wichita State by Lombardi, played four years for him at Green Bay and later moved to Washingtcon to join him again. He spoke quietly, reverently of the passing of his mentor.

"I owe a great deal, my life, the direction of my life, to him," he said. "Everything I am is in some way of his making. I'm a very lucky guy that he was part of my life. How fortunate I am to have heard his teaching—how to live and love and try for perfection."

Long said he saw Lombardi in a Washington hospital three weeks ago. On duty with the National Guard, Long was given time off to drop by the hospital.

"He held out his hand and squeezed my hand," he said.

Tight end Jerry Smith said he believed that Lombardi's teachings and ideals "which he gave to us all both in football and life will stay with us forever."

"All the things a man searches for all his life I found in Coach Lombardi," he said. "He gave me a deeper meaning of life. He justified hard work, dedication, pride and love."

Quarterback Sonny Jurgensen said Lombardi would be missed by the entire nation and that he, Jurgensen, benefited greatly from him, though they worked together for only one season.

"I had an opportunity to get real close to him and benefited tremendously by it—not only as a football player, but as a person," he said. "In this short period of time, I grew to love the man. I hope we can go on and play the game of football and game of life the way he wanted it played."

Wide receiver Charley Taylor said Lombardi had been "a tremendous impact" on his life and "taught me how to play football" as no coach before him. Center Len Hauss, a co-captain, said, "The Redskins are fortunate, if not blessed, for having had him for one year." "He was a father to all of us," linebacker Chris Hanburger said.

"I thank God for letting such a man come my way," defensive halfback Brig Owens said.

Acting Coach Bill Austin said "words are inadequate to express my deep sorrow and regret" at Lombardi's death.

"He was and always will remain in my memory a man of unequalled ability, of character, drive and integrity," he said. "He was an inspiration to those of us who were privileged to have worked for and with him. For me, the death of Coach Lombardi is a deep, personal loss."

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

It's Starting To Look Like 1969 Season For Mets

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

It's beginning to look like 1969 all over again for the New York Mets.

The Mets are only a half-game behind the National League East's first-place Pittsburgh Pirates after a 7-3 win over the St. Louis Cardinals Wednesday night.

The two big heroes of 1969 — Tommie Agee and Tom Seaver — combined Wednesday night in their latest triumph.

10-HITTER

Agee had two hits, drove in two runs and scored two to lead the Mets' offense while Seaver, who had lost six of seven previous decisions, went the distance with a 10-hitter to raise his record to 18-10. Another reason for optimism is that the Mets were five games out of first place a year ago compared to their current deficit of a half game.

"We did the same thing as we're doing now about a year ago this time," said Agee after Wednesday night's victory. "This looks like the same as last year."

Seaver, who was 25-7 in 1969, struck out 11 to raise his league-leading total to 259 and his 19th complete game of the season set a club record. Cardinal rookie Jerry Reuss suffered his sixth loss against five wins.

OTHER SCORES

The Montreal Expos beat the Pirates, 10-7, the Chicago Cubs routed the Philadelphia Phillies, 17-2, the Cincinnati Reds downed the San Francisco Giants, 2-0, the Atlanta Braves shaded the Los Angeles Dodgers, 4-3, and the Houston Astros beat the San Diego Padres, 2-1, in other NL games.

In the American League, it was Boston 10-1 over Detroit after a 6-4 loss, New York 3 Baltimore 2, Washington 4, Cleveland 1, Oakland 2 Chicago 1, and California 3 Kansas City 1. Minnesota at Milwaukee was rained out.

John Boccabella of San Anselmo hit a three-run ninth-inning homer to lift the Expos to victory over the Pirates despite a grand slam homer by Gene Alley which gave Pittsburgh a 6-1 lead in the sixth inning and a homer by Bob Robertson which tied the score in the ninth. Mike Marshall won his second game for the Expos while Joe Gibbon suffered the loss for the Pirates, who have dropped seven of their last eight games.

Joe Pepitone, Randy Hundley, Milt Pappas and Cleo James homered and Pepitone, Hickman, Hundley, James and Ernie Banks each drove in three runs in the Cubs' 20-hit attack off four Philadelphia pitchers. Pappas went eight innings to win his 11th game against six losses for the Cubs. Oscar Gamble homered for the Phillies.

GRAND SLAM

Hal King's grand slam homer in the first inning and 47-year old Hoyt Wilhelm's six shutout innings of relief paced the Braves to their win over the Dodgers. Tom Haller hit a three-run homers for the Dodgers but Don Sutton suffered his 11th loss against 13 wins.

Jim Wynn's two-run homer and a combined four-hitter by Wade Blasingame and Fred Gladding provided the Astros with their victory over the Padres. Wyn's homer, his 24th of the season, came after a single by Cesar Cedeno in the fourth inning. Blasingame had a shutout until Ollie Brown homered in the ninth and Gladding took over to strike out Ed Spiezio after Blasingame walked Nate Colbert.

Gutteridge Is Out As White Sox Pilot

CHICAGO (UPI)—Don Gutteridge, on his own request, was released as manager of the Chicago White Sox Wednesday after a conference with new General Manager Stu Holcomb in Oakland.

Holcomb, named executive vice president and director of player personnel in charge of the club on Tuesday, went to Oakland to confer with Gutteridge.

The Sox announced that he informed Gutteridge that he would not be rehired for 1971, and said Gutteridge asked for his immediate release.

Holcomb immediately named Bill Adair, now on the coaching staff, as interim manager.

Holcomb said he would announce the Sox' new manager for 1971 at a press conference previously scheduled for Sept. 14.

Gutteridge, a longtime member of the White Sox coaching staff who returned to the club in Al Lopez' second term as manager, took over as manager last year when Lopez asked to be relieved.

The current White Sox have the worst record in the major leagues, 49 wins and 87 losses.

The departure of Gutteridge was the second result in less than 24 hours of the club's "reorganization plans for 1971 and the future." Ed Short was fired Tuesday from his post as director of player personnel.

Moulder Of Champs Lombardi Dies At 57

the Redskin and the Baltimore Colt rookies in Baltimore.

TELEVISION

Even in the final stages of his illness, he watched the first four Washington pre-season games by means of a closed circuit television arrangement set up in his hospital room.

Mrs. Lombardi authorized a statement Wednesday that her husband was near death from "an extraordinarily virulent form of cancer."

Vincent Thomas Lombardi became such a legendary, larger-than-life figure on the American scene during the pro football boom of the 1960s that it's often forgotten that he didn't achieve success until late in life.

Lombardi was an obscure assistant coach at age 45 who was well-known only in football circles when the Green Bay Packers signed him on Jan. 28, 1959 to a five-year contract as general manager and head coach.

LONG WAIT

Lombardi had waited many long and sometime bitter years to get this one big chance to be his own boss. If he had not been a success, he probably would have faded quickly back into obscurity. But failure simply wasn't accepted by the man who drove himself as hard as he did his players.

Just nine lears later — on Jan. 14, 1968 when the Packers won their second straight Super Bowl — Lombardi had reached a zenith in American sports that has seldom been attained and he was being compared favorably with such coaching giants as George Halas and Paul Brown. From an obscure assistant coach, he had become one of the most recognizable men in America. His burly figure and the smile that was all teeth had become familiar via TV in living rooms throughout the country.

His record speaks for itself. In nine seasons at Green Bay, his teams won five NFL titles and the first two Super Bowls.

Sonoma To Host Scottish Games

Russ Cut U.S. Lead In University Games

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

TURIN, Italy — The Soviet Union picked up six gold medals Wednesday to cut the U.S. lead to 19-15 as the sixth World University games moved toward their conclusion.

Twelve more finals were scheduled for completion today. The United States, which built its lead exclusively on the swimming and diving events, had a chance only in six of the track and field events Wednesday, while the Russians were featured in each of the 12 finals.

Horse Racing

DEL MAR, Calif. — Jockey Bill Shoemaker drove Queen Janine to a neck victory Wednesday at Del Mar in the $16,500 Osunitas Stakes for fillies and mares for his only victory of the day that left him three short of the alltime riding record.

The win was the 6,029th of Shoemaker's career as he closed in on the retired John Longden's mark of 6,032 victories.

Football

MILTON, Mass. — The Boston Patriots Wednesday signed running back Jim Nance to what his lawyer called "one of the finest contracts in professional sports today." Nance, twice winner of the AFL's rushing title and the league's comeback player of the year in 1969, played out his option last year and was acting as a free agent. His new contract calls for a salary of around $80,000, making him second only to Gale Sayers of Chicago in salary for a running back.

BUFFALO, N.Y. — The Buffalo Bills of the National Football League announced Wednesday they obtained cornerback Alvin Mitchell in a trade with the Cleveland Browns for an undisclosed draft choice.

Golf

PORTLAND, Ore. — Nineteen-year-old Lanny Wadkins of Richmond, Va., led 150 golfers Wednesday when he fired a three-under-par 67 to move into the first round lead of the 1970 U.S. National Amateur Championship. Wadkins, who has already won the Southern and Western Amateur titles this year, toured the Waverly Country Club course in 34-33 to take a one stroke lead on the field.

Rowing

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. — East German oarsmen won six of their seven heat races to dominate the action in Wednesday's first round competition in the third World Rowing Championships.

The six East German crews gained Saturday's semi-finals by winning heats in the fours with coxswain, the pairs without cox, the pairs with, the fours without, the double sculls and the eights.

Baseball

COLUMBUS, Ohio — The Columbus Jets of the International League will be liquidated at the end of the current season because of lack of public interest and the poor condition of Jet Stadium. "We're at the end of the road," Club President Ralph Anderson said Wednesday.

The Jets, which began in the International League in 1955, drew 141,749 fans for 63 home dates this year, averaging a little more than 2,200 per game.

FAT CARS DIE YOUNG!

But Volvos live to ripe old ages. Because Volvos are unfettered by fat.

That's why a Volvo's trunk holds more than a Lincoln's. And why a Volvo has more leg room in front than a Cadillac and more in the rear than a Buick.

So take a look at our Volvos. Driving a long-lasting, lean car can help put the fat where it belongs.

Opponent Says Clay His Old Self

ATLANTA (UPI) — His manager, Angelo Dundee, said it was a miracle things went so well. One of his opponents said he was his old self — with all the moves still intact.

A tired, perspiring Cassius Clay acknowledged it all, admitted he was out of shape, but vowed he could get ready to take on all comers including heavyweight champion Joe Frazier, in less than two months.

Clay, a little fatter and a little slower than he was when pushed out of the ring three years ago for refusing to be inducted into the Army, began his comeback Wednesday night with an eight-round exhibition in a steaming, crowded little gym on the campus of Morehouse College.

Although little more than a sparring session, it marked a monumental breakthrough for the deposed champion, rebuffed repeatedly in his bid to start anew. It gave him a chance to prove to himself and his critics that he could still fight and it served to put the boxing world on notice that he at last had the license that had been denied him in so many other cities.

"He was the same old Cassius Clay," said Johnny Hudgins of Miami, one of three heavyweights who fought Clay.

FISHING IN THREE STATES

Getting Away From The Crowd

By RALPH CHATOIAN

If you want to try fishing someplace where you're not getting your line tangled or your elbow bumped by the guy next to you, don't go west, young man, go northeast — at least northeast of here.

That's where I went during my August vacation — the states of Montana, Wyoming and Idaho — a trip purely for fishing with some occasional sight-seeing thrown in.

There were five of us crammed into a camper pick-up for the trip — Sacramento area school teachers and coaches Dick Cristofani, Charles Lee and Bruce Sommers, Santa Clara businessman Bill Bjorge and yours truly.

Our first stop was the Gros Ventre River, fishing in the shadows of the mighty Tetons majestic mountains of Wyoming, just outside Jackson Hole. The cutthroat trout were numerous, but small, so after a few hours of catching and releasing it was back to the camper and a short drive to the Snake River. More fishing, few fish, so we moved on.

Next stop on this tour was the mighty, fast-moving Madison River in Montana which provides excitement aplenty when you float down the current on a tiny, two-man life raft. There's no time for fishing as you guide the raft between huge boulders protruding from the shallow water, so it's best to pull up to the side and do the fishing while wading in the stream.

It doesn't take a monster fish to give you a king-sized fight when using dry flies and a short, limber flyrod on this fast water. An 11-or 12-inch rainbow in this current is terrific sport. We floated about a 15-mile stretch near Ennis, Mont.

The hottest fishing we found came at our next stop, the Wise River, also in Montana. To reach our spot, we turned off at the town of Wise River itself, population about 30, and drove 20 miles down a dirt road to reach the river which meandered through a grassy meadow sprinkled with grazing cattle. The water moved slowly through the meadow and it was clear as glass, but if you were careful not to "spook" the fish you could catch and release all you wanted, the fish going to 13 or 14 inches, and most of them brook trout, as pretty a fish as roam the creeks.

We realized we would be among the last to fish this stretch in solitude, for the dirt road was being converted to a paved one, which would lead fishermen to the spot by the score. As it was when we were there, we had the stream all to ourselves.

The largest trout I took out of the stream was a 13½-inch brookie, and I lost a nice fish that broke my four-pound leader tippet and swam off with a prize deer hair fly.

We saved just enough fish for a good meal, and if you have not tried brook trout you're really missing out. The taste is delicious.

Next stop took us out of the state of Montana and into Idaho, and another meeting with the Snake River. We took out the rafts and spent a day floating a stretch called Box Canyon, catching rainbow trout at various stops along the way.

Henry's Fork of the Snake was our last fishing stop and gave us a chance for the trophy fish. Lee, a 6-foot-3, 230-pound wrestling coach took advantage of the opportunity. Just watching him play and land the trip's biggest fish was exciting. It was a fat rainbow trout, 22 inches long, and was taken on a dinky size 18 Adams dry fly.

The section of Henry's Fork we fished was beautiful. The river was wide, the water slow moving and clear, and wound itself like ribbon through a meadow ringed by pines.

The secret to this fishing was to wait for a "hatch," a certain time of the day, (usually once in the morning and again in the evening) when insects hatch on the water and the fish come out of their hiding spots to feed. It only lasts for maybe an hour, but fish are rising all around you in that hectic hour.

The trick is to present the fly in exactly the right manner to fool the fish. One mistake, one splash, and the fish is gone. The fly has to be set down softly on the water about a foot in front of the trout, and has to match the "real" bugs that are hatching.

Charley matched and presented correctly. I didn't. So Lee, who also won his share from me in poker, took the pool for largest trout. To make matters worse, he had the three largest fish of the trip, also landing a 19-inch rainbow from Henry's Fork and a 17-inch German brown from the Madison.

But we all caught fish, all had a good time and are already talking about next summer and steelhead fishing in British Columbia.

That sounds like a good idea, wouldn't you say?

BOWLING TIPS

Timothy T. Top Trotter

Without the breaks and with the cough, he captured the prized Hambletonian for three-year-old trotters Wednesday, winning the first heat in 2:00 1/5 and the third in 2:00 3/5.

In between he finished second to Formal Notice, who trotted the fastest mile of the year by a three year old, 1:58 2/5, to force the $143,630 race, second richest ever, into the third heat.

Then Timothy T. proved that he warranted his rating as a favorite. He pulled in front of the field at the quarter in :29 3/5, yielded to Formal Notice who led at the half in 1:00 1/5, and went the three quarters neck and neck with Formal Notice in 1:31 2/5.

Timothy T. took over at that point, driving to the front and out-trotting Formal Notice down the stretch to win by a length.

Timothy T., who had won six of eight races before the Hambletonian, was doubtful going into the stake despite his favorite's rating because he had that cough, a red spot on his throat, and a congestion. His driver, John Simpson Sr., thought it was an allergy. His owner, Johpn Simpson Sr., thought it was a cough.

Tennis Sudden Death Has Fans Buzzing

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI) — Rod Laver and Mrs. Margaret Smith Court begin defense of their U.S. Open Tennis championships today while the West Side Tennis Club still buzzed over Wednesday's opening matches which marked the arrival of sudden death in a major championship.

Laver was to oppose fellow Australian, Allan Stone, while Mrs. Court faced young Pamela Austin of Rolling Hills, Calif.

GIMENO OUT

The first day of the $160,000 title event saw the disappearance of three of the 20 seeded men — two by defeat, one by default. Highest ranked man to lose was sixth seeded Andres Gimeno of Spain, a straight set victim of 25-year-old Tomas Koch of Brazil. The 33-year-old Gimeno admitted to an inexplicable case of nerves while Koch had his first service under great control in taking a 6-3, 6-4, 6-3 decision.

Mary Riessen of Evanston, Ill., 17th seed, fell to Jean Baptiste Chanfreau of France 2-6, 7-5, 1-6, 6-4, 6-0.

Ilie Nastase of Romania, ranked 13th, failed to appear and was defaulted, as was his countryman Ion Tiriac.

26 SETS

In singles play Wednesday, there were 26 sets which were decided by the "sudden death" tiebreak system, under which, when a set reaches 6-all in games, a nine point game is begun, with the first player gaining five points the set winner at 7-6.

The new rule played a major role in the 1-6, 7-6, 6-1, 6-4 victory by Stan Smith of Pasadena, Calif. the 11th seed, over his Davis Cup doubles partner, Bob Lutz of Los Angeles. The tiebreak loss of the second set took all the vigor out of Lutz' game.

One match was decided by the rule, when Ray Ruffels of Australia defeated Jean Loup Royer of France, 6-7, 6-3, 2-6, 7-5, 7-6.

Concepts Outlined For McNears Beach

McNears Beach in East San Rafael, expanded by additional shoreline to the north, will be primarily for family day use, considerable open space and lawn areas, some fishing, and passive recreation.

This in general is the Marin County Park and Recreation Department's concept of the future use of McNears Beach. Director Pierre W. Joske and his staff presented the ideas in a preliminary master plan yesterday before the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commisison at the Civic Center.

Park planner Donald Rolph, who drew up the master plan for McNears Beach, said the swimming pool, tennis courts and concession area will be concentrated in the present location, with no plans for expansion.

"The pool and tennis areas are fine as long as they are serviceable," said Joske, "but in the long run, they may be phased out." He explained that active recreation such as tennis can be provided in other areas that are less expensive than prime bay front land.

Rolph envisages a fishing pier jutting out into deep water, with about four docking spaces at the end of the pier, and perhaps floating buoys for other boats to tie up.

Rolph proposed that Quarry Road, leading from San Pedro Road to the beach, be made a two-lane parkway so that it will not be chopped up by a series of private driveways.

China Camp, which lies to the north of McNears Beach, should remain open to the public in a relatively natural state, said Rolph.

His report that the China Camp area is now zoned light industrial came as a surprise to the commissioners.

Chairman Lothar Salin suggested that the county planning commission should be asked to change the zoning at China Camp to prevent industrial development.

The commissioners will take a field trip to McNears Beach at 5 p.m. Sept. 14 to review the master plan on the site.

Access Eyed For Bikes, Pedestrians

What access can be provided for pedestrians and bicyclists along Corte Madera Creek between Bon Air Bridge and College of Marin?

That question will be discussed at a public hearing before the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission at 2 p.m. Oct. 14 at the Civic Center.

Parks and recreation commissioners set the public hearing yesterday to discuss public access to the creek banks and what acquisitions would be needed for such a trail.

The Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission also:

PARK FEES — Approved the following fee schedule for group use of major county parks: $5 for groups of less than 30; $7.50 for 30 to 50; $15 for 50 or more. The fee for individual use is 50 cents per car, except at McNears Beach, where a per-person fee is charged as long as the pool is open.

PARK BOND FUND — Got a report from the state that Marin is eligible for $10,800 more in state funds as its share of $1 million still undistributed from the $40 million State Park Bond Fund Act of 1964. Commissioners recommended that the money be used for McNears Beach improvement.

MELTON FERRIS — Agreed on Sept. 25 or Oct. 2 as tentative dates for a dinner party to honor former commissioner Melton Ferris of Bolinas, who retired from the commission in July.
